Japan, Russia, Look Out
Shall We Hibernate?
Forgetful Royalists
We No Longer Walk

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

RUSSIA AND JAPAN seem to be approaching war. Westerday Russia closed its consulate general at Mukden, in Japanese Manchukuo; no reason given. Japanese and Manchukuoan air forces are reported prepared for instant action. Japan protests against Russia's huge army in Siberia. Something may happen.

ORIENTAL CALM was disturbed in a recent Manchukuo border line fight between Japanesse soldiers and tribesmen from outer Mongolia. Two airplanes came hovering and Japanese welcomed them, assuming that they were Japanese planes. They were found to be working for the Mongolians, dropping bombs made in Russia. War may begin there far in the east, before western Europe starts.

C. M. KELLOGG, caught a bat in his New York house, did not know what to feed it. The zoo said: "hang it up in a dark place with a little water." Now, the bat hangs contented hibernating, eating nothing.

Dr. Carrel, French scientist of the Rockefeller Institute, thinks he can do better with human beings, put them comatose, in cold storage, perhaps for a hundred years, to be thawed out later and see a new kind of civilization.

THIS SOUNDS interesting, improbable, but Dr. Carrel might reply: "Patrica Maguire, then 27 years old, went to sleep four years ago, has been sleeping ever since." If a girl half conscious can sleep for four years somebody else scientifically treated might sleep 100 years, or longer.

IF WE MUST have war we have nice new "tools, instruments and machinery" to work with. New guns shoot seven and one half miles, two and one half miles farther than the French 75. Our army says they will "spray an enemy front" eleven miles wide.

Such machinery, with good weather and air planes, bombs, poison gas added, should supply a nice war.

FRENCH ROYALISTS, left overs from the revolution, who severely injured Leon Blum, 64 years old, leader of the powerful French socialist party, seem to have short memories. At the end of the eighteenth century, the French revolution came and their ancesters were either fleeing to foreign countries or loaded into carts bound for the guillotine.

IN WINTER SPORTS at the Olympic games our athletes cut a poor figure.

We have 25,000,000 automobiles in this country, perhaps they keep young America too busy to skate or ski. They certainly keep young Americans sitting down, rarely walking. Let

ONE SHIP IS SUNK, OTHERS IMPERILED IN ICE JAM BREAK

RICHMOND, Va., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Smashed by ice and raging waters in a break-up of an ice jam in the James river, one ship was sunk, another swept aground, and three others imperiled early today.

There was no report of any loss of life.

Another ship, the Buxton Lines freighter Carolina, after being unaccounted for during several hours, early this morning whistled for a mooring after breasting the strong current off the waterfront terminal docks. It could not be learned immediately to what extent, if any, she was damaged.

Going out without warning near midnight, the dammed up ice and water tore the vessels from their moorings and sent them tossing down stream amid the grinding ice cakes. A tug, the Mary Steele, was sunk in the midst of the pack.

The 2,000-ton Eastern steamship liner Norwalk, with 45 men aboard, was swept aground at Tree Shade farm, one and one-half miles below Richmond, after going downstream out of control.

THREE MEN ARE CHARGED WITH ROADSIDE MURDER

IDABEL, Okla., Feb. 15.—(AP)—A roadside slaying, in which the victim was shot twice, his body drenched with whisky and burned, brought murder charges today against three McCurtain county farmers.

County Attorney C. D. Wilkinson said Virgil Crowder, 25, confessed he killed Robert Warren, 22, and asserted he was paid $25 to do it by Albert Swann, 52, and Cecil Wallace, 25.

A quarrel between Wallace and Warren was believed by Wilkinson to have been the motive.

M'GURN SLAYING DATES BACK TO 1929 MASSACRE

'TOO MANY REASONS' FOR KILLING NOTED GANGSTER

Widow And Eight Others Are Quickly Rounded Up For Questioning

CHICAGO, Feb. 15.—(AP)—A tangle of gangland hostilities — extending back seven years to the St. Valentines' massacre of 1929—enmeshed tonight the hunt for the slayers of dapper "Machine Gun" Jack McGurn.

Jack McGurn

"Public Enemy No. 5" on the original Chicago list, he died early today, just twelve hours past the exact anniversary of the septuple killing of George (Bugs) Moran henchmen which spotlighted him in national notoriety. Three pistol men ended his "charmed life" in a near northwest side bowling alley.

There were "just too many reasons" why the death of the chief machine gunner of the Capone "syndicate" could have been desired to make it easy to trace his killers, said Mal Coghlan, assistant state's attorney.

"Police will have to untangle many phases of his life before we can even get started toward a solution," he added.

In his dozen years as a major gangster, the frequent target of bullets himself, McGurn was credited in underworld boastings with the death of at least two dozen men, the extortion of thousands of dollars, a favorite with his chief "Al" Capone (now in federal prison), which bred jealousy

CAMPAIGN MOVES GAIN MOMENTUM

Maneuvers In Both Major Parties Enter Definite Channels

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—(AP)—After months of drifting, maneuvers in both major parties have at last entered channels that may influence the presidential campaign itself.

The situation in Ohio, where some members of the Republican organization have been wavering over how to thwart Senator Borah of Idaho, was the center of interest tonight.

Carl C. Bachmann, from Borah-for-President headquarters here, announced that organizers from throughout the state would meet at Akron tomorrow with Representative Fish of New York and former Representative Johnson of South Dakota. They propose, he said, to put the campaign "into high gear and to secure the entire delegation of 52 for Borah."

Regular leaders in the state later in the week will try to decide whether to back a "favorite son" candidate or support a contender from without the state.

Developments this week added up to these major facts and questions:

The New Deal, by entry of President Roosevelt into the Illinois and other

INFANT HAVING NO ESOPHAGUS PASSES 1ST YEAR OF LIFE

MARLBORO, N. Y., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Baby Robert Earl Linsig, given a one-in-ten chance to live when he was born without an esophagus, will be one year old tomorow—and the biggest piece of his birthday cake will go to Dr. W. B. Harris.

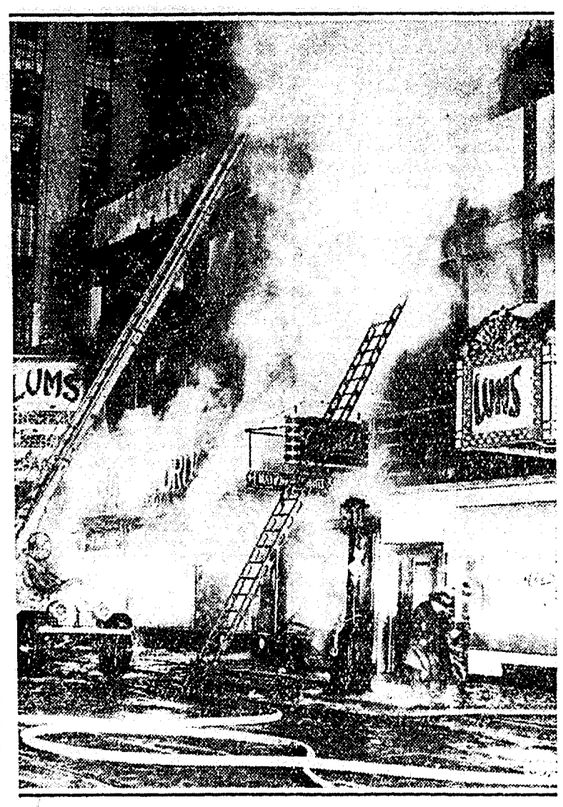
Dr. Harris is the physician who supervised the extraordinary efforts made to save Bobby's life until he is old enough to have an operation. Under his direction a tube was fitted through which food is fed directly to the baby's stomach at meal time.

Bobby was to have had a regular birthday party tomorrow, but the snowplows have broken down and it will be hard to reach the Linsig home. Therefore only Dr. Harris and one or two adults will be there.

Mrs. Flossie Linsig, Bobby's mother, bustled around the kitchen today making a two-layer cake. There will be pink and white decorations and a single candle.

"The biggest piece goes to Dr. Harris," Mrs. Linsig said.

AS FLAMES KILLED 5 MERRY-MAKERS



Nearly 300 persons were dining and dancing in a Chinese-American restaurant at 59th street and Lexington avenue in New York when wisps of smoke filtering through the floor heralded a fire that brought death to five and injury to forty others. Many persons were trampled when panic-stricken guests fought to get down the narrow stairway from the upstairs dining room. Firemen are pictured fighting the fatal blaze.

MYSTERY PLANE STILL UNFOUND

Search For Ship In Wyoming's Wastelands Halted By Bitter Cold

CODY, Wyo., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Search for the second airplane in less than a month to disappear in north Wyoming's wastelands was thwarted tonight by bitter cold and snow-blocked roads.

Townspeople of Cody, who heard a plane circle overhead, apparently seeking a landing, searched the immediate vicinity after learning today no trace of the ship—its pilot unknown—had been found elsewhere.

It was believed many days would be required, even with the cold moderated, to comb any considerable portion of the sparsely settled region.

Attempts to identify either the plane or its pilot were futile. Airports through Wyoming and adjoining states reported no craft missing and no private planes were known to be flying in this area.

The mystery plane was heard over Cody twice last night, once shortly after nightfall when the pilot circled over the town, apparently seeking a landing field. The roar of its motor sounded again an hour later but died out before flares at the airport could be lighted.

On Jan. 18 Howard Stark, department of commerce air navigation expert of Alexandria, Va., disappeared under similar circumstances. No trace of Stark or his ship was found after he started a flight from Rock Springs, 200 miles south of here.

COMMITTEE REPORTS GAS WAS CAUSE OF COURTHOUSE BLAST

JONESBORO, La., Feb. 15.—(Special)—A committee consisting of experts representing the federal and state governments, Saturday made a report in the investigation of the explosion which destroyed the courthouse here on the night of January 17. They found that the building was demolished by an explosion caused by the accumulation of gas under the building and set off by a spark from the electric wiring system.

The committee in its report stated that the building had originally been steam heated and with the advent of natural gas to Jonesboro the boiler was adapted to burn the gas which was piped into the boiler room. Later the old radiators were discarded and a system of individual gas-steam radiators installed in each room, using the old pipes as conduits. It was an accumulation of gas in the basement which was ignited by defective wiring, which caused the explosion, the committee found.

Dr. C. S. McDonald, Jackson parish coroner, yesterday completed the inquest into the death of W. L. Barnes, who was crushed beneath the debris of the courthouse when it blew up.

PRESS PLEDGES LECHE SUPPORT

Resolves To Cooperate In All Matters For Best interests Of State

BASTROP, La., Feb. 15.—(Special)—Adoption of a resolution pledging whole hearted cooperation to Governor-Elect Richard W. Leche and the new state administration in all matters for the best interests of Louisiana featured the eleventh annual convention of the North Louisiana Division of the Louisiana Press association held here today.

The resolution was unanimously adopted after the convention heard talks by H. A. Mangham, Rayville, chairman of the state press association legislative committee, and B. F. Barnette, Arcadia publisher and the only newspaper man to be elected in the state senate.

Mr. Mangham recommended that the state press legislative committee work for the repeal of the act requiring approval by the state printing board of a public printer which he termed just as unfair as the state budget board requiring approval of teachers. He also recommended that the body urge the re-enactment of the law requiring newspapers to be in existence at least one year before being eligible for election as public printers in order to da away with the "fly-by-night" newspapers and printers.

F. A. Leaming, Mansfield, was re-elected president of the group. J. H. McQuerry, Columbia, was elected vice-president, and Isaac Chapman, Bastrop, was re-elected secretary. Arcadia was selected for the next convention city.

Over 75 newspaper men and women representing more than 40 newspapers in north Louisiana attended the meet-

Diplomats Of Russia, Japan Say There Is No Cause For Fear

INQUIRY WILL BE MADE BY MIXED COMMISSION

Tokyo Spokesman Objects To Including Neutrals In Parleys

(By Associated Press)

A new border clash between Russian-advised Mongolians and Japanese-directed Manchoukuoans brought fresh alarms of war to the Far East.

But diplomats of Russia and Japan said there was no cause for alarm; that they would straighten everything out through diplomatic channels.

An obstacle immediately imposed itself in the way of diplomacy, however, when Moscow suggested that neutrals be called in and Japan insisted negotiations be direct.

OFFICIALS CONFIDENT OF QUIET SETTLEMENT

MOSCOW, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Although a new clash along the Mongolian border was reported in Tokyo, Russian government officials expressed confidence that the frontier dispute between Mongolia and Manchoukuo—with all its Russian and Japanese implications—would be settled peacefully.

The government announced through an official communique that the soviet and the Japanese governments had agreed in principle to a mixed commission (including neutrals) to inquire into the year-long series of clashes.

(In Tokyo, a foreign office spokesman declared that Japan saw no reason why neutrals should be called into the discussion at all).

An authoritative source said Tamekichi Ota, the Japanese ambassador to Moscow, had communicated to the

BRUNO IS FACING NEW DEATH DATE

Reprieve Expires; Leibowitz To Visit Prisoner At Cell Today

TRENTON, N. J., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann, who saw two death dates pass, faced another tonight as he awaited an interview with the lawyer who broke his stoical calm.

Saved the first time by appeal and the second by a 30-day reprieve from Governor Harold G. Hoffman, Hauptmann's only hope of escaping the third appeared to lie in any new information throwing additional light on the case. The reprieve expired at midnight.

To his death-house cell tomorrow will go Samuel S. Leibowitz New York criminal lawyer, who is seeking "the truth," and the Rev. John Matthiesen, Hauptmann's spiritual adviser, who is convinced Hauptmann told it when he said he knew nothing about the Lindbergh baby kidnap-murder.

Mr. Matthiesen, who visited Leibowitz in New York City yesterday, said he would go with the lawyer to the death house at 2 p. m., but declined to say for what purpose. Neither would he discuss his New York visit except to say he talked with Leibowitz.

It was Mr. Matthiesen who told the Air Force Recruit Makes Long Leap Through Error

SHREVEPORT, La., Feb. 15.—(AP)—"Well, they didn't tell me when I joined the army there would be nights like this," mused Private Walter K. Durham, Barksdale field recruit, as he floated through the air with the greatest of ease Friday, dangling under a parachute in the middle of the night, it became known today.

But, like a good soldier, Durham can "take it" and he obeys orders. So, when he heard what he thought was a command to jump from the plane in which he was a passenger on night maneuvers near Mansfield, he didn't hesitate a moment but went over the side—much to his later embarrassment.

Like most recruits at Barksdale, Private Durham had sought a ride in one of the planes stationed at the post. Friday night he was allowed to go aloft on a night mission with Capt. George McCoy in one of the attack planes of the third attack group. Two other planes were in the flight, which had as its mission the location of a hangar near Mansfield and its "destruction" in a make-believe game of war.

Private Durham, in the rear cockpit, innocently picked up the earphones for the radio communication set, and listened in on the conversation between his superior officer and the officers in the other two planes.

Here's about what he heard:

Plane No. 1: "I can't find the landing field."

Plane No. 2: "Neither can I. Guess we won't be able to make a landing."

Plane No. 1: "Guess we'll have to use the parachutes." (Meaning parachute flares, used in lighting up the

20 American Nations Asked To Attend Peace Conclave

Roosevelt Sends Invitations To Presidents To Meet At Buenos Aires

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—(AP)—President Roosevelt tonight uncovered a proposal for an extraordinary inter-American conference, encompassing 20 Central and South American governments and aimed "at permanent peace on this western continent."

In almost identical personal letters to the president of the various republics, the chief executives suggested that the parley be held at Buenos Aires, Argentina, at an early date. The cause of peace in the new world, he said, as a matter of "vital concern."

"These steps, furthermore," he said, "would advance the cause of world peace, inasmuch as the agreements which might be reached would supplement and reinforce the efforts of the League of Nations and of all other existing or future peace agencies in seeking to prevent war."

A favorable response to Mr. Roosevelt's suggestion was generally conceded. In fact, the staging of such a peace parley was virtually guaranteed in advance through informal soundings by the state department.

The entire procedure, however, was

MOVES ARE MADE TO CLOSE BREACH

Steps Taken To Bring Peace Between Washington And Louisiana Forces

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Preliminary moves toward closing the political breach between Louisiana and the national administration were revealed here today as one result of the recent state Democratic primary which gave the forces of the late Senator Huey P. Long an overwhelming victory.

The Long organization broke with the administration, and federal patronage in Louisiana was distributed by the anti-Long faction; but the Long forces, strengthened by the primary victory which swept its opposition from office, are determined to regain control of patronage.

The state's two senators, John Overton and Mrs. Huey P. Long, with Representatives Maloney, DeRouen and Fernandez, are leaders here of the Long organization. Four of the state's seven representatives are virtually "lame ducks" because of the primary, which is tantamount to election in Louisiana.

Although speaking only for himself, Maloney has indicated the Long organization is ready to make peace with the national administration with the understanding that patronage be restored to it as the dominant Democratic organization in Louisiana. The organization expects to control the

MOBILE, Ala., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Rev. Father Thomas Daly, S. J., native of Macon, Ga., and widely known southern educator, died here this afternoon following a prolonged illness.

He formerly was an instructor at Immaculate Conception college, New Orleans, and at St. Charles college, Grand Coteau, La. After his ordination to the priesthood at Macon, he was connected with the faculty of Tampa college in Tampa, Fla., and for a short time was prefect of discipline at Spring Hill college in Mobile.

He performed missionary work in North Carolina and Tennessee, where his health began failing. After being stationed as assistant pastor of St. Peter Claver church at Grand Coteau, he came to Spring Hill seeking to regain his health.

Funeral rites will be conducted here Monday morning.

ANXIETY ARISES OVER NAVAL HERO'S HEALTH

LONDON, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Anxiety arose today for the health of Earl Beatty, 65-year-old naval hero, who retired a month ago as an admiral of the British fleet.

His physicians, after announcing last night that his condition has been unsatisfactory and that he has been advised to take a complete rest, issued a bulletin today, saying:

"His condition is as well as can be expected, but gives cause for anxiety."

FARM MEASURE IS PASSED BY BIG MAJORITY

Vote Climaxes 11 Days Of Debate; Legality Attacked And Defended

MOTION TO RETURN BILL TO COMMITTEE IS KILLED

Proposal Would Authorize Huge Outlay To Farmers In U. S. Subsidies

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15—(AP)—Plowing under bi-partisan opposition by an almost three to one margin, administration forces today won senate passage of the $500,000,000 soil conservation-subsidy brand of crop control.

The bill now goes to the house. The senate vote, climaxing eleven days of debate during which the measure's constitutionality was challenged and defended, was 56 to 20.

Forty-nine Democrats, five Republicans, the Farmer-Laborite Benson, and the Progressive, LaFollette, voted for the bill, nine Democrats and 11 Republicans opposed it.

Just before the last roll call, a motion by Senator McNary, the Republican leader, to send the bill back to committee with instructions to report out a new proposal in three weeks, was rejected 54 to 21.

McNary contended the bill was "unworkable and unconstitutional." He predicted after the senate quit for the day that some state would challenge it in the courts.

Supporters argued it was constitutional under the supreme court's interpretation of congress appropriating authority in its decision killing the AAA which the soil bill is intended to replace.

The bill, introduced by Senator Smith, Democrat, South Carolina, as a substitute for a somewhat similar measure by Senator Bankhead, Democrat, Alabama, would authorize expenditure of half a billion dollars in federal subsidies to farmers based on their acreage of crop land, soil-improving and erosion-preventing crops, changes in farming practices, and a percentage of normal production entering domestic channels.

After two years, permanent state-aid plans with the same objective would become operative in any state whose legislature approved a formula prepared by the secretary of agriculture. States could join the permanent system, however, at any time during operation of the temporary plan. No aid would be given after Jan. 1, 1938, in any state whose legislature had not adopted a plan.

Although the secretary of agriculture would have unlimited authority in measuring grants, an amendment by Senator Clark, Democrat, Missouri, which was approved, would prohibit the total from exceeding the $500,000,000 authorization in any one year.

Senator Byrnes, Democrat, South Carolina, will propose an amendment to the independent offices bill providing an actual appropriation for the farm program.

The last day of debate was marked by a spirited defense of the supreme court by Senator George, Democrat, Georgia, who asserted criticism of the AAA decision as "arbitrary" by Senator Robinson, the majority leader, and others, was "without justification."

He said the court left an opening for congress to legislate for agriculture by placing "less restrictions on its power to appropriate than on the general power to legislate," and added:

"Whatever my party writes into the next platform, I will not support any program that looks to the elimination of the dual system of government.

"My obligation to my country is superior to my obligation to my party."

George voted for the soil bill, but said he had some doubt of its validity. Much would depend on its administration, he said, whether it could stand court tests.

SNOW PRISONERS IN DIRE PLIGHT

Planes Rush Food, Dynamite Clears Roads For Rescue Trucks

CHICAGO, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Airplanes and dynamite sped food and fuel to starving prisoners of the snow in the northwest tonight as zero cold sank deeper into the east.

Pleas for "pretty quick" aid from a dozen towns hurried ski-equipped planes into the air and over huge drifts that blocked land rescue crews.

Dynamite blasts shot snow and ice in air after winter's barriers repulsed the plows.

Four South Dakota communities—Red Owl, Twilight, Stoneville and Fairpoint—were in a critical plight when the first ski-ship visited them. Another plane was loaded with 800 pounds of food for a second trip.

Snow plows, trucks and tractors turned back twice for repairs, bored on with greater supplies for them and for the residents of Marcus, Opal, Murine, Mud Butte and Sulphur.

A snowplow burrowed into Arpan, isolated for weeks, and found food in the general store, but drifts too high for townsfolk to reach it.

A relief party brought Hegeford its first food since February 1. Fuel was gone, and residents last night burned fence posts and "anything else they can get their hands on."

IDENTITY OF PAIR BURNED TO DEATH IN CAR IS LEARNED

GREENFIELD, Tenn., Feb. 15.—(AP)—A young couple whose charred bodies were taken from a burning automobile near here last night, were identified today as Miss Mary Ruth Sisk, 23, stenographer of Trenton, Tenn., and A. B. Cowart, 24, of Kosciusko, Miss., member of a Dyer county, Tennessee, CCC camp.

They were burned to death, Sheriff Tom Grooms said, after their car was struck by an automobile occupied by Haywood Mays, 27, and Carnack Sires, 26, both of Milan, Tenn., who escaped without injury.

Mays and Sires told Sheriff Grooms the other car was parked without lights. They returned to their homes after giving the sheriff an account of the accident.

FEAR ADDIS ABABA MAY BE BOMBED BY PLANES

ADDIS ABABA, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Military authorities were understood tonight to have ordered precautions against the possibility of an Italian bombing plane raid on the capital.

The air raid was feared as a retaliation for an Ethiopian victory as reported by a neutral observer in Tembien.

The observer, Marius Brophil, Irish Red Cross worker, said 20,000 white Italians were bottled up in that battle and had been unable to escape alive.

Daily reports tell of the widening range of Italian bombing raids inside the northern point, lending color to the fear that Addis Ababa might be the next target.

NOE IS HONORED AT BANQUET HELD AT BATON ROUGE

BATON ROUGE, La., Feb. 15.—(AP)—After welcoming their national commander James E. Van Zandt, to Baton Rouge, local members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars joined with him to honor Governor James A. Noe, their one-time comrade-in-arms, at a banquet tonight.

The purpose of the banquet, for which more than 200 reservations were filled, was to convey regards of the Baton Rouge V. F. W. post for the first World War veteran to become governor of Louisiana.

Governor Noe rose to rank of captain under fire in France, and has since been in the forefront of veteran activities.

Commander Van Zandt who has been touring Lousiana in Governor Noe's automobile, arrived during the late afternoon and delivered an address outlining the aims of the Veterans of Foreign Wars for peace, aid to disabled veterans, and elimination of munition profits.

DAY NURSERY IS PROVING POPULAR

WPA Project Is Conducted On Alabama St.; Many In Adult Schools

Much interest attaches to the day nursery school which is being conducted as a WPA project open to mothers who are employed or otherwise unable to give their small children proper attention during the day. Mrs. F. B. Neely and Mrs. Lois White are in charge. Children who are at least two years of age and not over five and one-half years, are admitted to the institution conducted in a residence on Alabama street.

The school opens its sessions at 8 a. m. and closes at 4 p. m. daily except Saturday and Sunday. More than 20 are enrolled and still more are being received.

The children are taught games and songs and simple lessons. At noon they are given a wholesome meal. Pencils, paper, crayons and supplies are furnished by the government, according to J. L. Heath, Jr., parish supervisor of WPA schools.

The adult schools, also WPA projects, are also making satisfactory progress, Mr. Heath said. There are 21 teachers employed, and the total enrollment is 550. When the schools were opened a fortnight ago, 143 illiterates were enrolled. Already they have all learned to write their names and to read simple sentences.

Adult teachers work six hours daily for five days a week and must have an average of 10 pupils in class attendance daily, according to requirements. Despite the inclement weather, they are said to have maintained their class attendance satisfactorily.

The largest class of all is one given for the benefit of negroes at Martin's temple, 1004 Adams street, where two teachers have a total of 155 adult pupils.

In Siam, monkeys are made to bite coins to see if they are counterfeit.

ROCKET PLANE FIZ-Z-Z-ZLES

Belching flame and smoke in a manner befitting a legendary dragon, a small rocket plane started up the steel runway at Greenwood Lake, N. Y., in an attempt to transport mail by this new method. The plane reached the top of the runway. Then, instead of soaring off toward the New Jersey shore, it plunged ignominiously to the ice. The zero cold was blamed for failure of the test.

BIG HOG KILLED

JENA, La., Feb. 15.—(Special)—What is said to have been the largest hog ever killed in LaSalle parish was killed this week by W. O. Thompson, Jena farmer. It was a Poland-China and dressed 714 pounds.

3 NEW GASSERS ARE COMPLETED

Report Of Conservation Department Given For Past Week

Three completions of gassers were reported the past week by the department of conservation, minerals division. One is located in Morehouse and two in Union parish. New locations and progress on drilling tests are also given in the report issued.

The completions are as follows:

Morehouse Parish

Section 9-20-4 East, J. E. Farrell, State of Louisiana, No. 10, completed as making 2,737,500 cubic feet, rock pressure 373 pounds, total depth 2,143 feet.

Union Parish

Section 2-20-3 East, Interstate Natural Gas company, Spencer No. 7, completed as making 3,753,600 cubic feet, rock pressure 865 pounds, total depth 2,154 feet.

Section 29-21-4 East, Southern Carbon company, Grayling No. 7, completed as making 18,936,000 cubic feet, rock pressure, 910 pounds, total depth 2,117 feet.

New locations and drilling progress on other tests are given as follows:

Caldwell Parish

Section 19-14-3 East, G. W. Zeigin, Louisiana Central No. 2, permit to deepen, present depth 1,790 feet.

Section 18-11-3 East, Crichett & Wood, Kyles No. 2, tested small show of oil, preparing to pull liner and drill deeper, total depth 1,304 feet.

Lincoln Parish

Section 10-17-4 East, Lide, Greer & Brown, Garner No. 1, 10 and 3-4 inch casing set at 2,365 feet, total depth 2,386 feet.

Section 16-9-1 East, T. A. W. Oil Co., Bradford No. 1, location.

Section 9-9-1 East, T. A. W. Oil Co., and Housel et al, Long No. 1, location.

Union Parish

Winn Parish

ELEVATED TRAIN TERMED OBSOLETE

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—(AP)—A northbound elevated train smashed into the rear of a preceding train at Eighth avenue and 151st street today, slightly injuring 19 persons.

None of the injured was taken to a hospital. Physicians treated them at the scene.

Mayor F. H. LaGuardia, arriving shortly after the accident, declared: "This is an obsolete method of transportation which has outlived its usefulness."

The mayor, ever since he took office, has made efforts to abolish the elevated lines.

Passengers on the second train were led by firemen, who swung ladders from the street to the tracks, along a catwalk into the 151st street station. The first train was standing in the station at the time of the crash.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL HOLDS MEETING OF TEACHERS

Between 50 and 60 teachers of the sixth and seventh grades of Ouachita parish grammar schools, together with their principals, attended a special meeting at the parish grammar school Saturday morning at 9:30 o'clock.

The program given included:

Lesson in penmanship by Mrs. H. P. Smith, principal of Claiborne grammar school.

"Health and Physical Education Program in Louisiana," discussion led by O. K. Bailey, principal of the A. L. Smith grammar school at Sterlington.

Real Estate Transfers

The following transactions were recorded in the clerk's office Saturday:

J. N. Walker sold to J. L. Walker, Jr., lots 2 and 3 of J. N. Walker's partial subdivision of the east half of southwest quarter of section 32-19-5 east, and a parcel of land lying east of lots 2 and 3, the consideration being $100.

W. H. Mayes sold to J. J. Grant the east half of southwest quarter, and the southeast quarter of northwest quarter, and 35 acres off the west side of the southwest quarter of northeast quarter, section 11-16-1 east, the consideration being the assumption of an outstanding mortgage by the buyer.

Mrs. Lillian Hodges sold to the Sherrouse Realty company, Inc., lots 19 and 20 of block 22 of Sherrouse Park addition, for $200.

Judge Permits Completion Of Examination Of Lake Charles Man

LAKE CHARLES, La., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Under the lunacy commission act, District Judge Thomas F. Porter today served notice he would permit psychiatrists to complete the examination of Rufus A. Russell, charged with the attempted murder of Coach R. S. Killen of Lake Charles High school, last November 22.

Russell contends he was insane at the time of the shooting. His trial is fixed for February 25 and District Attorney John J. Robira said the commission's findings would be presented at the trial.

RED CROSS WILL TEACH NURSING

Mrs. C. M. Heilman, Noted National Leader, To Give Instruction

A special course in home hygiene and care of the sick will be conducted in Monroe on February 18-19 under the sponsorship of the national Red Cross and the Ouachita parish Red Cross chapter, according to announcement made by Mrs. W. C. Holstein, executive secretary of the local chapter.

Nurses from all parts of north Louisiana will be in attendance at the school, which will be conducted at Hotel Virginia. Mrs. Charlotte M. Heilman of the national Red Cross will be the instructor. The opening lecture at Hotel Virginia Tuesday at 10 a.m., will be open to the public. A luncheon at noon at the same hotel also will be open to the public but other sessions will not.

Mrs. Heilman in 1933 received the Florence Nightingale medal in recognition of 16 years of her continuous and distinguished service to the Red Cross. She was chosen by the international committee of the Red Cross in Geneva, the only American given this honor at that time.

She is a native of West Virginia and was educated at Johns Hopkins school of nursing in 1903. She entered into public health nursing immediately upon her graduation.

In 1917, she was attached to the American Red Cross commission to Italy, where she worked in military hospitals and later participated in anti-tuberculosis work. In 1920, she was transferred to Serbia and later to Greece, where she assisted various organizations formed to protect the health of children. In 1924, she organized a course in home hygiene and care of the sick for the Red Cross in Santo Domingo, inaugurating other health work which has since been carried out by the San Dominicans.

On her return to the United States, she became national field worker for the Red Cross. She has given outstanding service in time of disaster, notably in the Florida hurricane in 1925 and the drouth in 1930. She is at present assistant director of public health nursing at American Red Cross headquarters.

CAR CATCHES FIRE

An automobile belonging to Ike Brown caught fire Saturday while parked in the 2200 block of DeSiard street. The blaze, which was reported, to have been caused by motor backfire, was out when the fire trucks arrived. The car was only slightly damaged.

At that first sneeze or nasal irritation . . .

Helps PREVENT Colds

EACH YEAR, increasing thousands of enthusiastic users broadcast the good news of Vicks Va-tro-nol. They have proved for themselves its amazing effectiveness in helping them to side-step many annoying colds.

Va-tro-nol is specially designed for the nose and upper throat—where most colds start. It stimulates the functions provided by Nature—in the nose—to prevent colds, and to throw off head-colds in the early stages.

Where neglected irritation has led to a clogged-up nose (as with a stuffy head-cold or nasal catarrh), Va-tro-nol spreads through the nasal passages—reduces swollen membranes—clears clogging mucus—brings comforting relief.

Besides being so effective, Va-tro-nol is absolutely safe, for children as well as adults. It has been tested by practicing physicians in extensive clinics, and further proved by successful use in millions of homes.

NOTE! For Your Protection:

The remarkable success of Vicks Drops... for nose and throat... has brought scores of would-be imitators. The trade-mark "Va-tro-nol" is your protection in getting this exclusive Vicks formula. Always ask for Vicks Va-tro-nol.

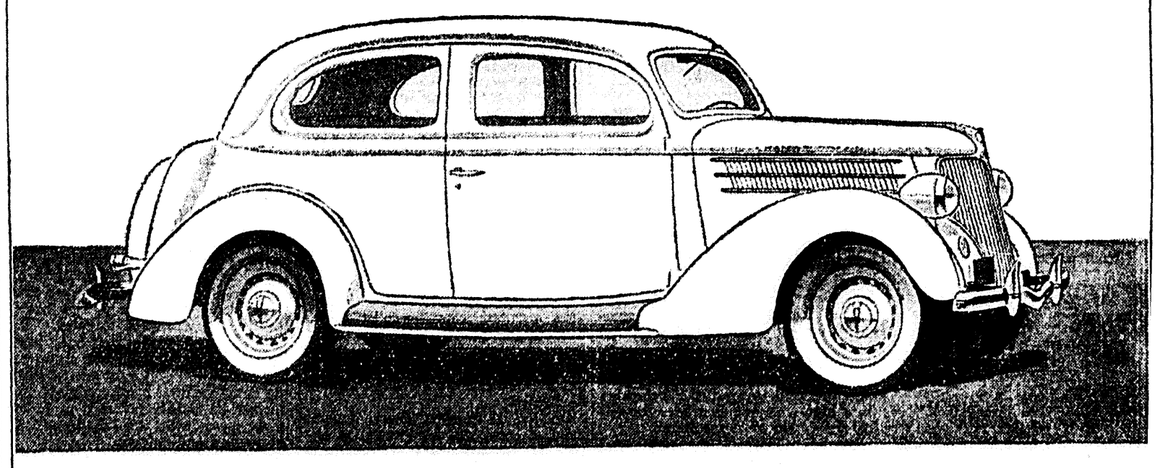
FORD V-8 FOR 1936



It costs us more to build a car like this

FORD QUALITY goes far below the surface. It is built into every part of the car—in those things you see and those that are hidden. We say it with assurance—because it has been the experience of so many millions of drivers—that many months after your first ride you will still be saying—"I'm glad I bought a Ford."

The Ford Motor Company is not content with ordinary specifications for materials. Its own standards of quality for many important parts are considerably higher than usually accepted standards.

Ford valves are an example of this extra value. They are made of a nickel-chrome alloy-steel that contains 13% chromium, 13% nickel and 2% silicon. This unusually high alloy content increases resistance to heat—insures more efficient, economical performance and longer life.

Intake valves, as well as exhaust valves, are made of this more expensive steel in the Ford V-8. It is one of several good reasons why the Ford engine is singularly free of valve troubles.

It costs us more to build a car like this—yet the price of the Ford V-8 remains low. Ford manufacturing methods save many dollars for Ford owners—and bring fine-car quality within the reach of every one who drives.

It Takes 25 Operations to Finish One Ford Valve—Each Ford V-8 valve stem is ground five times for greater accuracy and smoothness. Amplifying gages check the stem for roundness within two ten-thousandths of an inch. Similar gages check diameter. Measurements are made in specially built rooms with temperature-control. The exhaust valve seats are shrunk in liquid oxygen before they are pressed into the block.

FLAMES DESTROY MATCH FACTORY

Half-Dozen Persons Suffer Minor Injuries; Damage $150,000

CHICAGO, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Minor injuries were suffered by half a dozen persons today as fire swept the one-story plant of the Arrow Match company, on the west side. Sulphur, ignited by the flames, exploded and leveled three of the 40 by 100 foot building's walls.

Three firemen, working in the alley at the rear, were bruised when the force of the blast threw them against the adjoining building.

Employes of the match company fled as the flames spread through the building, and three girls were cut by flying glass, tossed into the air by the explosion.

Firemen said the building was a total loss, and estimated the damage at $150,000.

Four New Orleans Operators Provide Federal Bonds Of $10,000

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Four operators of gambling houses who were indicted Thursday by the federal grand jury here on charges of conspiracy to evade and defeat the income tax laws appeared today before Reginald H. Carter, Jr., United States commissioner, and posted bonds of $10,000 each for their release.

The accused men were the O'Dwyer brothers, Rudolph T. (Rudy), and George, and the Karger brothers, Manasse and Marks.

The four men were charged with attempts to evade the payment of an aggregate of more than $60,000 in income tax in making their returns for the years 1929, 1930 and 1931.

MEET OF OPTOMETRISTS TO BE HELD HERE TODAY

About 25 representatives from the various optometrical societies of the state will attend an all-day meeting here today at Hotel Frances. The program for the day will begin with a business session at 10 a.m. and will be concluded with an educational program in the afternoon.

THOUSANDS ATTEND SPECTACULAR AUTO THRILL SHOW HERE

Using a stock car with a steel body and equipped with hydraulic brakes, Jimmy Lynch and his death dodgers staged a spectacular free street show Saturday afternoon, with Jimmy opening the show with a series of sensational exhibitions on "how not to drive a car."

The free show yesterday was a prelude to the regular thrilling exhibition which Jimmy Lynch and his death defiers will put on at Stovall park this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

The program is being sponsored by the local American Legion post and the Monroe police department, in the interest of safe and sane driving.

In his exhibition yesterday, Lynch did everything that a careful motorist strives to avoid. The show was packed with thrills and had the crowds on their toes as Lynch and his death dodgers put on their stunts.

A feature of the show was an exhibition of controlled skidding. With his car traveling backwards and forwards, Lynch twisted the car he was driving into a tight skid, bringing it out of the slide or stopping it entirely while it was apparently on the point of smashing into a parked truck or the street curb.

The show this afternoon at Stovall park is said to be the most daring of its kind ever given and will occupy two hours during which Lynch and his death dodgers will present a repertoire of thrilling stunts, each of which is guaranteed to be a challenge to death, and intended to impress the public with the necessity of careful driving.

PARISH COUNCIL NAMES OFFICERS

Mrs. Roy Welch Of Colony Club Heads Home Demonstration Group

The following officers to serve during 1936 were elected Saturday at a meeting of the parish home demonstration council: Mrs. Roy Welch, of the Colony club, president; Mrs. H. D. Hale, Calhoun, vice-president; Mrs. J. E. Bryan, Calhoun, secretary. The officers were installed by the retiring president, Mrs. Hale, at a candle light service.

The council during the meeting outlined the program for the coming year which includes an effort to reach 1,500 people in Ouachita parish with garden information; to have 25 demonstration orchards in the parish; to secure at least 250 people who will agree to plant one or more fruit trees; to landscape at least one home in each of the 14 communities; to promote the "Grow Healthy Chicks" movement as outlined by the extension department; to can 200,000 quarts of fruits and vegetables; to secure the consent of at least 100 women who will be willing to exhibit canned goods at the Ouachita Valley fair next fall; to send delegates to the state short course from each home demonstration club, next August.

The council also endorsed the garden show to be held June 6 and 7, and which is being sponsored by the 10 Year club and the Monroe Kiwanis club, and pledged itself to provide 13 home demonstration booths at the garden show.

Mrs. Filhoil and Mrs. Hale were elected delegates to attend the state short course at Baton Rouge next August.

Mrs. Jewell McQuiller, home demonstration agent, also attended the meeting yesterday.

VOTE FOR
BARLOW INABNET

Barlow Inabnet is pledged to cooperate with the general legislative program of the Louisiana State Federation of Labor.

BARLOW INABNET

Barlow Inabnet will use his every effort in sponsoring legislation needed for the protection and promotion of labor.

---the true friend of labor

Organized Labor Has Officially Endorsed the Candidacy of Barlow Inabnet . . . and because Barlow Inabnet has no special interests to protect he will do all in his power to promote the interest of labor when you send him to Baton Rouge as Representative of Ouachita Parish.

Friends of Labor Want to Thank Gov. Noe for These Letters

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT
BATON ROUGE

February 7, 1936

TO THE VOTERS OF OUACHITA PARISH:

I am very much interested in the election of Barlow Inabnet as a Representative of Ouachita Parish. I have known Barlow Inabnet for many years. He is a very high class gentleman, good business man, and a man who would be a great help to me in the next four years in the many things I am going to try to work out for Ouachita Parish.

It is necessary for a Senator to have Representatives to work with him. If a Senator and Representative are pulling apart, it is a disadvantage to the Parish they represent. It would be impossible for me to work with Porter Burgess, due to his ideas of getting things done, and his connection with Mr. Kilpatrick.

I would appreciate it very much if the voters of Ouachita Parish would elect Barlow Inabnet as Representative of Ouachita to assist me in the Legislature in the next four years.

Yours sincerely,
JAMES A. NOE,
Governor.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT
BATON ROUGE

February 7, 1936

Mr. Barlow Inabnet,
Monroe, Louisiana.

Dear Barlow:

I want all my friends in Ouachita Parish to know that I am 100% with you in this race for State Representative. I know that you have always been a 100% Administration man, and that you will not desert us when we need you.

I want you elected so that you can help me in the many things that I hope to be able to do for Ouachita Parish in the next four years. You know Burgess, as his ways of doing business and mine are so different, and his association with Kilpatrick is along with him at all.

As soon as possible, I will get up there and do everything that I possibly can in your behalf, I am, as ever,

Your sincere friend,
JAMES A. NOE,
Governor.

A VOTE FOR J. PORTER BURGESS IS A VOTE AGAINST LABOR

Now! Let's look into the record of Inabnet's opponent . . . Mr. Burgess . . . as to his stand on labor . . .

Note (A) Absent (N) "No"

Burgess absented himself during the vote on the act entitling employes to the privileges of collective bargaining, he was also absent when labor sought to better legal proceedings with respect to injunctions, and the above table also discloses that Burgess was again absent when the repeal of the small loan act was under consideration, and urged by labor.

Labor urges that you elect a man who will be present when measures in which it is vitally interested are under consideration, and therefore, urges that you vote for BARLOW INABNET.

Religion And The Social Order

The visit to this country of a great Japanese teacher—Toyohiko Kagawa, a man of profound learning and extraordinary influence—has raised once more the perplexingly controversial question of the "social gospel" and of the proper attitude of the clergy and the church toward social and economic reform. It is Mr. Kagawa's sincere view that world peace, a united church, human brotherhood and universal love can be achieved only through the cooperative movement. Christianizing that movement, he holds, is the one means to the kingdom of God upon earth and hence to a Christianized social and economic order.

The question of the "social gospel" has been the subject of conflicting opinion within the church itself for a generation or more. In the recent years of economic distress it has assumed an unusual importance and is continuously pressing for an answer. No answer can be given in any offhand, oracular manner, perhaps not at all with any finality. But the question itself inevitably provokes serious questions; and to these the layman as well as the clergy of America are called upon to give the most thoughtful attention.

Every truly enlightened as well as every genuinely religious citizen of this country is deeply concerned with any possible betterment of its social and economic system, and—for that matter—its political system. There is heard a multitude of counsel and there is consequent wide confusion which ministers and other leaders of the church liberally share and on occasion are frank to confess. They, with others, are groping for possible means to greater human security.

But the pivotal point is whether the primary spiritualizing function of organized religion is not frustrated or nullified to the identical extent that churches and the clergy indulge in agitation for specific reforms or panaceas, social, economic or political; whether the spiritual floundering of America in recent and present days of trial is not comparable with, or in good part occasioned by, the economic and social floundering of religious leaders who have improperly shifted their activities to alien and unfamiliar ground.

The defense of principles and the furtherance of real religion are entirely possible, and are most certain of achievement, when they are kept distinct from the agitation and the promotion of panaceas of the moment, which are always controversial in nature. Such controversies, if linked with religion, are bound to arouse antagonism, strife and class feeling, the identical thing that Christianity would, and must, seek to allay.

Just why the cause of Christianity should be staked on the single specific suggested by Dr. Kagawa is not clear. The cooperative movement, which has made some headway in America and much more in England, Denmark, Sweden and other foreign countries, is one form of doing business which has its possible benefits to certain classes of the people. Its value might be enhanced by Christianization, but certainly it is and has been a secular movement to date. It has a particular value to the masses of Japan, where wages and purchasing power are but a fraction of those in America. A similar consideration holds for the other foreign countries, where the movement has made most progress.

It is not a simple question of the merits of the cooperative movement itself. That, in fact, is practically a distinct matter. But it is a question of the turmoil and the controversy that would be aroused with the leadership of the church, or any considerable part of it, attempting an economic movement or any other movement that is neither inherently Christian nor in accord with the well-being of the great mass of church constituents themselves.

Its logical trend, to the extent it might succeed, would be toward socialism or even communism, whether they be termed Christian Socialism or the momentary Communism of the early church—with the constant danger that the end would be the only kind of Communism that the world knows today, the atheistic Communism of Russia.

WEATHER NOTE

Speaking of the weather, if anyone was, what a turn it must have given to people of El Paso, Texas, as they shivered in a below-freezing temperature, to read that the practically Arctic village of Anchorage, Alaska, was enjoying it at 45 above.

It upset our geographical notions about the weather. We usually think the farther north the colder, the farther south the warmer. This is true generally, but there are things to overturn the generalization. The water of the oceans is warmer in winter and colder in summer than the continental land areas. In winter the west coast of America gets warm westerly winds from the Pacific, which is warmed by an equatorial current. In the same way the British Isles and western Europe are warmed by winds from the Gulf Stream drift. In the interior of America, Europe and Asia there is what is called "continental weather," with greater extremes of climate than are found on the west coasts. The continental weather is not uniform because of the influence of the air masses known as "highs" and "lows" that travel over the country.

The weather bureau keeps tab on the movements of highs and lows through observations telegraphed from stations throughout the country and so usually is able to forecast cold waves with some degree of accuracy.

More Truth Than Poetry

LINES WRITTEN IN A MILLINERY STORE

When shopping lovely Phyllis goes,
She is not clad in furbelows,
The modes today
Are quite outre,
Which means that they are faddish.
You'll presently discover that
She wears a carrot on her hat
And 'round her waist
She's deftly placed
Three onions and a radish.

The sweet potato has not yet
Been culled to garnish her toilette,
But by and by
It may supply
Some still unguessed desire,
Perhaps a pod or two of beans,
Perchance a wreath of spinach greens
She may display
In her sweet way
To make all men admire.

Still, why should any one complain?
These fleeting fashions wax and wane,
And when her dad
Finds times are bad,
And doesn't feel so merry,
He'll think that he is quite in luck
To own a lot of garden truck,
Which one could eat
In lieu of meat
And prove convenient, very.

Foolish---Yet Noble

By BRUCE CATTON

Every time some hopeful soul is found frozen to death on the bleak slopes of a high mountain, the average stay-at-home citizen feels the necessity of taking five minutes off and trying to figure out why the late lamented went up on the mountain in the first place.

Mountain climbing is one of the riskiest of all sports, and it is also—from a purely material standpoint—one of the most supremely useless. It butters, as the old saying has it, no parsnips whatever.

The world will roll along on its slow progress to wherever it is going just about as well if all its lonely peaks remain permanently untrodden by human feet.

So when some daring Alpinist pays for his daring with his life—as happened recently to young Delmar Fadden on the high crags of Mount Rainier—most of us have a little trouble trying to understad what it was all about. Why lead with your chin, in a world where most of us get enough of a bumping around without going out of our way to look for it?

And about the only explanation you can get is that man is an incurable romanticist at heart—which is to say that he is an odd blend of poet and fool. This leads him into a great deal of trouble, and invites a good share of the discontent which eternally plagues him; but since it is also the chief thing that sets him apart from his ancestor, the cave man, it is, on the whole, something for which to be thankful.

Because there is this wild, romantic streak in human hearts, a great mountain, to some men, is always a challenge—and one that cannot be ignored. The mountain lifts its white, wind-swept peak against the incalculable blue of the sky, and a man looks at it and thinks, "It would be practically impossible for anybody to get up there."

And then, looking a little longer, he thinks, "Impossible—except for a really brave man who refused to let anything lick him"; and after that he thinks, "Besides, you would be up very high, if you did get to the top, and you could see a tremendous way." And so, pretty soon, he sets off to climb it.

Now there are many ways to take a beating in this life, but none of them is much more effective than this business of mountain climbing. All the rigors of cold and wind, the terror of high places, the torture of insufficient oxygen, the malignancy of ice and snow—the climber gets a double dose of them, and every so often one or another of them kills him.

But the climbers go on climbing, anyway; and the very fact that they do is one of the finest things that has ever been recorded about the human race.

To take all that you have and risk it for something that you can never turn into cash—something that is a private matter between you and your own soul—that is to be truly noble.

The fact that men will do that is the best of clews to their kinship with something higher and finer than anything this earth affords.

New Deal In Washington

By Rodney Dutcher

WASHINGTON—John L. Lewis and the United Mine Workers have been making labor history and political history at their convention here. They will make quite a lot more in the next few months.

When Lewis flung his final defiance in the face of President William Green of the American Federation of Labor on the platform at Constitution Hall, the question was left whether the crafts union executives who dominate the A. F. of L.'s executive council would move to expel Lewis and his allies on the Committee for Industrial Organization before Lewis himself decided to march his group out of the federation.

For the present, at least, strategy of the insurgents will be to let the council try to do its worst. They cannot be expelled before the federation's national convention in September, though the council may move to suspend their charters.

See Craft Rule Doomed

The Lewis group—which includes Sidney Hillman and the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, Tom McMahon and Francis Gorman and the United Textile Workers, David Dubinsky and the Ladies' Garment Workers, Charles P. Howard and the Typographical Union, and others—believes that the cause of industrial unionism will be stronger at the next federation convention than it was in Atlantic City last year, when its side polled more than a third of the votes.

It believes that the conservative crafts union leaders will be unable to get the required two-thirds vote to expel the defiant unions.

Such failure, observers think, would mean the beginning of the end of craft union domination and the assurance of ascendancy for industrial unionism.

In the meantime, Lewis and his allies will undertake to convert other unions.

Not only will they defy the council's order to disband the committee, but they will widen the breach still farther by aiding organization of a militant industrial union in the automobile industry, according to present unannounced plans.

Members of the United Automobile Workers are expected to unseat the officers forced on them by the A. F. of L., seek the Lewis committee's support, and merge with other unions now in the automobile field. The U. A. W. has been forbidden by the executive council to take in craft workers.

Lewis Aims High

There is no longer any possible doubt that Lewis is out to capture leadership of the American labor movement. He has established himself as the most effective and forceful of labor leaders, though Green is still the A. F. of L. president.

Because a large proportion of labor's brains and vigor, as well as the logic of labor history, are on Lewis' side, his achievement of undisputed command probably will be only a matter of time.

By 1940, in the opinion of most labor students, there will be a strong labor party in the political field and Lewis will be one of its leaders. Some of the U. M. W. president's friends and admirers believe that he is thinking that he may be the presidential candidate of that party—though there are many other outstanding progressives and radicals who already are actively planning for its organization.

Meanwhile, Lewis and the miners have declared 100 per cent for Roosevelt in 1936. Best guess is that officials of the six other unions represented on the Committee for Industrial Organization will have joined them in that action by June or July.

Some of them, at least, believe that they can then force the A. F. of L. convention to declare overwhelmingly for Roosevelt's re-election—which would be a great victory for the Lewis group (especially since most members of the executive council are Republicans), as well as an important and unprecedented event in the history of both labor and politics.

Another unprecedented action was authorization by the miners for Lewis to make regular national broadcasts. You are likely to be hearing the voice that dominated the convention on the air about once a week—campaigning for Roosevelt, expounding the cause of industrial unionism, and perhaps undertaking to organize workers through messages over the ether.

To say the least, the experiment will be an interesting one.

Your Income Tax

No. 4

WHO MUST FILE RETURNS

Returns are required of every single person who for the year 1935 had a gross income of $5,000 or more or a net income of $1,000 or more and of every husband and wife living together who for the year 1935 had an aggregate gross income of $5,000 or more or an aggregate net income of $2,500 or more. Widowers, widows, divorcees, and married persons separated by mutual consent are classed as single persons. The personal exemptions are $1,000 for single persons and $2,500 for married persons living together and for heads of families.

Husband and wife living together may make separate returns of the income of each, or their income may be included in a single joint return. If separate returns are filed, one may not report income which belongs to the other, but must report only the income which actually belongs to him. If a joint return is filed, such return is treated as a taxable unit, and the income disclosed is subject to both the normal tax and the surtax.

Husband and wife may elect each year whether to file a joint return or separate returns. Where, however, joint or separate returns have been filed for a particular year, neither husband nor wife may after the due date of the return file an amended return or returns on a different basis for that year.

JACK LAIT—One of the most prolific writers of today is Jack Lait, famous newspaperman of King Features Syndicate, New York City, who has written not less than 3,450,000 words of short story fiction during the last 2[illegible] years. Since 1914, Lait has written at least one short story a week (sometimes more), a total to date of over 1,15[illegible] to 3,000 words each. And in addition to this tremendous task, he has written numerous plays, scenarios, books, magazine articles and front page news articles.

(Copyright, 1936, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Lights Of New York

By George Ross

NEW YORK.—Pity the poor hurdy-gurdy man? Hardly! Tony who cranks the hand-organ, is doing all right by himself. Banned by the mayor, tossed off the city's streets by municipal decree the tin music tribe now finds itself on the sunny side of an ironic paradox.

The hurdy-gurdy clan is making more money, working in the warm indoors where the snow slush doesn't seep in the cardboard that stuffs the cavity in the shoe-sole. And where, also, irate tenants do not throw bouquets of refuse instead of coins.

When a month or so ago, Mayor La Guardia said "Nix" or something more formal to the pavement-piano pushers, some sentimental citizens came forward to the rescue. Even Mary Lewis, the renowned soprano, rushed to the defense of the tinny sounds of the Miserere from Il Trovatore, Silver Threads Among the Gold, as Tony played them. Paul Whiteman entered the fray, so did Rudy Valle, and May Singhi Breen organized a committee to engage in battle with the mayor. But, while their cause was championed, the tin cups of the deposed hurdy-gurdy men remained sadly vacant and "The Sidewalks of New York" became only a traffic phrase.

Still Grind Out Tunes

And the numerous Tonies, Guiseppes and Luigis retired, banned but unbowed, to a garage on Water street where they store their portable instruments. They waited for further developments. Further developments were slow in coming. Three or four deserted from the ranks. But the hardy hurdy-gurdy, the faithful funiculi-funicula men, held fast to their tin pipes. And, glorious day, the tide turned.

Down to that Water street garage went the Broadway boys and the broadcasting bookies to bring comparative riches to the calliope-clan. Ask Dominick Cassella about his good fortune. He has just been hired to pump his hurda'-gurd at Billy's Gay Nineties Bar for $50 a week. In his palmiest days, Domeeneeck never came home with more than $25 after a week's hike along the sidewalks of New York. Or ask Guiseppe, with the handle-bar mustache, whether he gives any further darn about the mayor's legislative hate. For on a recent Saturday evening, Guiseppe banged his barrel organ on a network from coast to coast at a fancy fee. Under Miss Singhi Breen and Peter de Rose's patronage, the Signores Tony (Poosh 'em up, Tony) Negri, Caesare ("Fortissimo Caesare") Donati and Caesare (Il Dooch) Borsotti, also earned a pretty penny by cranking their hand organ the other night.

The hurdy-gurdy men, then, have learned that their woe has turned to waho and the music goes 'round and around. That Water street garage is a brighter place and the storage of automobiles may yet become a minor industry. For other night club proprietors have hot-footed down for Tony's pushcart piano and the boys, I'm told, are now getting up a regular scale of rates. And any day now, I expect to see Guiseppe squawking because he was billed next to the soprano.

Twenty Canadian factories manufacture 87,401 domestic washing machines in 1934, compared to 58,931 units in 1934. This output included 76,541 electric, 1,516 gasoline-driven, 70 waterpower, and 9,364 hand-operated machines.

GILBERT MAN HURT IN RAIL MOTOR CAR MISHAP

WISNER, La., Feb. 15.—(Special)—Harry W. Wafer of Gilbert, who is employed on the Missouri Pacific section force here, received a broken leg and a fractured hand in an accident on the railroad motor car on which the crew was riding.

The crew, in the charge of T. S. Davis, was going out to work near Sicily Island and a short distance north of Sicily Island a spike bar fell from the car and caught in the track, causing Wafer, who was sitting on the front end of the car, to be thrown off.

STATE DIRECTOR OF FHA RESIGNS

C. M. Dickson, Louisiana Administrator, Will Quit Post Monday

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 15.—(AP)—C. M. Dickson, of Shreveport, state administrator of the Federal Housing administration, has announced that his resignation will be effective Monday. The FHA in Louisiana will be in charge of Charles McGehee, deputy regional director at Atlanta, who will serve as acting state administrator, Dickson said.

Dickson, president of a Shreveport drug concern, said he had filed his resignation in Washington in December, 1934, and was forced to retire at this time through the pressure of private business.

"Loans numbering more than 10,000 have been insured by the FHA in Louisiana," Dickson said, "and the loans that were turned down were because they were not good business risks."

REID PROMOTED

Stanley J. Reid, above, representative of the General Food Sales company here for the past year, has recently been promoted to the position of assistant district sales manager of the Shreveport division, a territory embracing east Texas, southern Arkansas and north Louisiana.

Mr. Reid will maintain his headquarters in Monroe, which is centrally located in his territory. His new duties will occasionally take him into the various sections of the division for special work.

Mr. Reid said that an enormous increase in sales of General Food Sales company during the past year has been credited largely to the fact that the company spent over nine million dollars for advertising during 1935. This figure has been substantially exceeded by the advertising budget for 1936.

HITLER PRAISES U. S. INITIATIVE

Points Out American Solution Of Problem Of Motorization

BERLIN, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Reichsfuehrer Hitler, opening the National automobile show today, directed the attention of the German people to the United States' solution of the problem of motorization.

He suggested that Germans could do much toward the amelioration of their food problem by more motoring, pointing out that Germany's food shortage was due to the fact that "we are too many people on too little land."

However, he avoided any specific discussion of Germany's attitude toward colonies.

At the same time, newspapers throughout Germany printed a semi-official editorial praising President Roosevelt's "vastly conceived, sound, and healthy" Pan-American peace project.

The editorial contrasted President Roosevelt's plan bitterly with Europe's growing network of "pacts for the maintenance of mistrust."

Hitler told the thousands gathered for the motor show that "the Marxist ideology" of European governments was concentrated on "soaking the rich" motorist with taxes and on regarding automobile manufacturers as caterers of the capitalistic class during the post-war years.

"It was more than a coincidence," said Hitler, "that the lowest percentage of automobiles, next to Communist, Marxist, Soviet Russia, in those years, was in Germany, also ruled by Marxists."

He declared some automobile manufacturers in Germany still were slow to realize the new role they are to play in the National economic life.

Hitler admonished them to learn from the United States that the greatness of the motor industry comes not from luxury cars for the well-to-do but through the creation of an automobile that the average citizen can buy—"the problem so brilliantly and successfully solved in America."

SPAIN TO HOLD ELECTION TODAY

Conservative Or Radical Republic Is Choice Facing Nation

MADRID, Feb. 15.—(AP)—A conservative or radical republic is the choice facing Spain's 12,000,000 voters who will elect the young republic's third parliament tomorrow.

In the background lie the problem of a monarchical restoration and, to a considerable extent, the fate of the five-year-old republic.

Heavy armed forces, equipped with rifles and submachine guns were ordered on duty at strategic points.

There are 473 seats to be filled in the new cortes and all indications point to considerable rightist and leftist gains at the expense of the center.

Throughout a five weeks' campaign, the battle cry of the rightists has been "Against the revolution and its accomplices," while leftists have declared a right victory would mean "civil war."

The government itself, standing on a center platform, has declared that weightier prediction will come to pass and that public order and legality will be maintained rigidly.

In hot opposition to Gil Robles and the rightists has been a left coalition which includes communists, socialists and left Republicans whose slogan has been "against reaction" and in "defense of the republic."

Far to the right are the Carlist and Alfonso monarchists who are part of the right coalition, but who admittedly have no hope for a restoration at the present time.

The average life of an automobile has risen to 8 1-4 years, compared with 6 1-2, the average prior to the depression.

At the same time the Russian government, through G. S. Stomoniakoff, vice commissar for foreign affairs, announced the Russian government had made a similar offer.

The soviet government said the Japanese claimed a recent clash in the Grodekov region, west of Vladivostok, occurred on Manchoukuoan soil. The Russians "rejected this version of the Japanese militarists as falsehood and calumny," according to a communique.

Coincidentally with these announcements, a group of Russian frontier guards assembled at Moscow to receive distinguished service decorations.

The government announced that 7,130 Manchoukuoan soldiers, with 761 officers, including eight generals, had been interned in Russia since 1930 after crossing the border with peaceful intent.

'NOTHING SERIOUS' IS INDICATED BY CLASH

TOKYO, Feb. 15.—(AP)—A foreign office spokesman said tonight that "nothing serious" was indicated by reports of a new battle between Mongolians and Manchoukuoans at the three-way juncture of Soviet Russia, Mongolia and Manchoukuo.

The reports, brought to Tokyo by the Domei (Japanese) News agency, said 1,000 Mongolians had attacked a military post at Asailsuma, within Manchoukuo.

(The border between Manchoukuo and Mongolia is ill-defined. Among the reasons for the present frontier conflicts is the fact that each side claims the other is violating the frontier).

The spokesman expressed confidence that the frontier controversy would be settled peacefully, but he did not express agreement with the suggestion made in Moscow that a group of neutral nations be called in to hear both sides' arguments.

"It seems curious," said the spokesman, "that the soviet should insist on outside parties to participate in the settlement between Japan and the soviet.

"The inclusion of neutrals would only complicate the issue. The proposal shows the soviet lacks a sincere desire to achieve a settlement."

The Domei reports said the alleged attack on Asailsumu was repulsed, but gave no details of the clash. The number of casualties, if any, was not stated.

Gas, Bloating Gone, Sleeps Good, Energy Quickly Restored

Gly-Cas Is a Real Blessing to Monroe Lady; Stomach, Kidneys Now Fine, Headaches Eliminated, Entire System Freed of Poisons.

"There is no need for so much suffering in this world today since Gly-cas can be had," Mrs. J. D. Elliott, 205 Plum street, Monroe, highly respected lady of this vicinity, said recently in a praising statement reaching the Phoenix Drug Co. 348 DeSiard street, this city:

MRS. J. D. ELLIOTT

"For more than ten years a stubborn case of constipation had continually been filling my system with poisons," continued Mrs. Elliott, "Soon my stomach was terribly affected, gases formed and I bloated after eating even the simplest of foods. Attacks of indigestion were sure to follow each meal I ate, heartburned and palpitated. My entire body bloated too until I could hardly get into my clothes. Sick headaches bothered me continually and I was so nervous it was difficult for me to get any sleep. I also lacked the energy to do my work and really felt as if my entire system was worn-out. In spite of all I tried I grew worse each day and was about to give up hope of ever getting well again when I began to hear so much praise for this new Gly-Cas. Everyone that tried it seemed to regain their health—so I decided it was one medicine that was at least worth a trial—and put it to a severe test in my own case."

"To my pleasant surprise this new Gly-Cas regulated my bowels almost at once—and in a most natural way, too," continued Mrs. Elliott, "The poisons were eliminated and I soon began eating foods I had been denied for years. Those attacks of indigestion, gas and bloating are now over, some of the hardest foods to digest cause me no trouble whatever and it is a real pleasure to be able to enjoy my meals again. Those dreadful headaches are over now, nerves quieted and I get perfect sleep, full of energy each morning and ready for a hard days work before me. To all suffering people I want to recommend Gly-Cas for on my case alone it has certainly proven its merit beyond all doubt."

And so it goes—another case right here in Monroe added to the hundreds of others—where Gly-Cas has accomplished the seemingly impossible after all else tried had failed.

Mary Garden Abdicates In Favor Of Blonde Protege

CHICAGO, Feb. 15.—(AP)—The crown that was Mary Garden's rested today on the brow of her protege, blonde Helen Jepson, and the hand which placed it there was that of her abdicating predecessor as queen of the opera.

Miss Garden stepped down and invited the opera world to acknowledge the new queen when she introduced Miss Jepson last night to diners at the banquet closing the Chicago Tribune's non-partisan woman congress.

First Miss Garden reviewed her own career.

"My debut—" she said softly, "I shall never forget it!"

Back at the turn of the century she was living in Paris—and none too well—studying, hoping.

Her chance came. She was called to substitute for Mlle. Rioton, who became ill while singing the title bout in "Louise" in the opera Comique. That was on a Friday night—April 13, 1900.

"I was not afraid. Not even an eyelash trembled. I succeeded," said Miss Garden.

Then came other successes and in 1907, she related her American debut in New York as "Thais," a role she made definitely her own.

She was closing her review as a slim, blonde woman in a soft flowing periwinkle blue gown came quietly toward the speaker's platform.

A strong spotlight centered on the graceful newcomer.

"Yes, America has much to give opera. It has Helen Jepson, and it is she"—and Mary's voice was proud, warm, thrilling in speech as in song—"who will take my place as 'Thais'!"

Impulsively Helen kissed Mary's hand.

There was a moment's hush, a tribute to a dramatic moment, then applause.

Its willingness to approve a peace pact was based on the opinion the breach resulted from personal differences between Long and the Roosevelt administration.

Maloney said "representatives" of the national administration had approached him, but no definite understanding had yet been reached. After Long's death, the state organization designated Maloney as an intermediary in the event "peace" negotiations should be entered into.

Observers believed the present conversations have been "feelers." They are expected to be followed by a conference with Postmaster General Farley, chairman of the national Democratic committee.

Representative Dear, unsuccessful candidate for governor on the anti-Long ticket, has conferred with Maloney but declined to comment on future disposition of patronage.

Maloney said he believed the "slate should be cleaned completely" in patronage matters, and that all recommendations for Louisiana jobs should come from the two Louisiana senators, the representatives aligned with the Long administration and the state central committee.

Maloney said that major political posts in Louisiana were now being held either by Republican holdovers or officials who have not been confirmed by the senate, and are unfriendly to the Long organization. Officers he named included:

The New Orleans collector of customs, the internal revenue collector, the New Orleans postmaster, the district attorneys and marshals for the two federal districts, along with officials of the Home Owners Loan corporation, federal housing administration, works progress and public works administrations, federal land bank, reconstruction corporation, federal alcohol control administration, commissioner of immigration and the AAA advisory board.

ing, which was the largest attendance in the history of the association.

At a luncheon held at noon Saturday sponsored by the Bastrop Kiwanis club, the newspaper people heard addresses by Congressman Riley J. Wilson and H. J. Sachs of Louisiana Tech, Ruston. Mr. Sachs praised the newspapers as the bulwalk of the nation in preserving Democracy during the present troublesome times.

"The newspaper," he stated, "is a public trust and a tremendous power for good or evil." Referring to the evil of the press, he mentioned William Randolph Hearst as public enemy number one and charged that the Chicago Tribune was continually trying to keep aflame the dissension between the north and the south.

Other addresses delivered during the day included one by W. B. Gladney, Bastrop, president of the Louisiana Bankers association, on bank advertising; by M. G. Osborn, director of school of journalism of the Louisiana State university, and by Don Eck of Chicago, who outlined a plan of travel contests to increase newspaper revenue and good will.

Following adjournment of the convention the state press board of directors held a short meeting and selected May 1 and 2 as the dates for the annual convention to be held in Shreveport. Authorization of a plan for the establishment of a full-time field managers office in Louisiana was given and action on this proposal is expected to come up at the state meeting.

Into all these and their ramifications, authorities dug for clues.

They quickly rounded up the widow—once Louise Rolfe, the "blonde alibi" whose testimony cleared him in the St. Valentine's day killings—and eight others for questioning. But gangland's wall of silence intervened when searching queries were put to them.

"My God, they shouldn't have done it," the widow exclaimed but she said she had no idea of who "they" might be. She said the $3.85 found in her husband's pockets along with two unused prize fight tickets and a "piece of a book" (horse race betting enterprise) represented their entire estate from McGurn's 12 years gunning in the gang wars.

William Aloisio, proprietor of the bowling alley, told police the trio came into his second story establishment, shouting "stick them up," and that he ducked when the volley started. Other witnesses said they heard fifteen shots as the gunmen encircled McGurn and fired away at him. He had two bullet wounds in the head.

Aloisio claimed he did not know the identity of his slain customer until police arrived. Tony Mascarella, an employe of the place, professed not even to know his boss'—Aloisio's—name.

The police search concentrated on the two companions who went with McGurn late last night—his widow said he slept most of the anniversary of the killings which caused him much trouble with authorities—to the bowling alley.

Possibility, police theorized, the pair had "fingered" the one time shadow of Boss Al Capone, for the slaying trio.

There were rumors, too, of other underworld jealousies and of rivalries among the Capone counselors, returned from prisons and jails, over control of the gang's remnants.

ROOSEVELT CALLS PEACE CONCLAVE

extraordinary. The executive's action in writing a direct letter to the heads of governments rather than moving through customary diplomatic channels, and his assertion that the situation warranted "a personal interchange of views between the presidents of the American republics," stirred some speculation that he himself might attend the projected conference.

In informed quarters it was generally considered certain that Secretary Hull would attend in any event. The secretary of state personally headed the American delegation to the all-American conference at Montevideo in 1933.

In his various letters, the president particularly stressed the recent peaceful settlement of the long standing Chaco conflict between Bolivia and Paraguay, and added:

"I cherish the sincere conviction that the moment has now arrived when the American republics, through their designated representatives seated at a common council table, should seize this altogether favorable opportunity to consider their joint responsibility and their common need of rendering less likely in the future the outbreak or the continuation of hostilities between them, and by so doing, serve in an eminently practical manner the cause of permanent peace on this western continent."

Mr. Roosevelt suggested three possible avenues of approach to the problem by such a conference—the prompt ratification of pan-American peace instruments already negotiated; the amendment of such pacts; or the creation of new agreements.

He then referred to the possible effects of such steps upon world peace, but did not elaborate his reference to the League of Nations and "other existing or future peace agencies."

countryside as an aid in finding an objective.)

As is customary, when a radio operator completes his message he tells the other operator: "Go ahead."

Recruit Durham had picked up the earphones just in time to hear the above conversation. There was a pause as the sender adjusted his radio equipment, then the order:

"Go ahead." The mesage was repeated several times to make sure the other pilot got it.

Private Durham "went ahead" and did it—over the side.

After he had bailed out, Captain McCoy realized what had happened and with the other pilots circled the area, dropping flares, in an effort to find the newly initiated member of the ripcord club. Not a trace of the parachute was to be seen. After a lengthy search the fliers returned to Barksdale.

Their hope that Private Durham would be found today was realized. The recruit landed in a clearing in a wooded sector near Mansfield. He wandered about until 3 a.m. trying to find his way out. At that time he heard a rooster crow and by the sound made his way to a nearby farmhouse, after retrieving his parachute in serviceable condition. There he had breakfast and after the meal was taken to Mansfield by a passing motorist and immediately telephoned the post. Captain McCoy motored to Mansfield and returned him to Barksdale.

There will be an investigation by an army board Sunday.

THE "DAILY Alaska Empire" published by Robert W. Bender, at Juneau, Alaska, contrasts Ceylon, with our Alaskan empire. Ceylon's 25,332 square miles of territory support 5,000,000 people, export 65,000,000 in goods, chiefly tea, rubber, spices.

ALASKA, WITH 600,000 square miles of territory, more than twenty times the area of Ceylon, with 60,000 population, a little more than one per cent of Ceylon's population, exports about sixty million dollars worth of fish, gold, furs. Many a great fortune will be made in Alaska by those willing to live more than three blocks from a drugstore, or moving picture theater.

If you are interested, Robert W. Bender, Juneau, Alaska, might send you information. Wonderful fox farms are on Alaska islands, are you might find gold.

primaries, plans extraordinary precautions to further a harmonious convention at Philadelphia. No opposition candidacy has been declared.

Looking primarily to Alfred E. Smith and Governor Talmadge of Georgia for leadership, disaffected Democrats contemplate militant attempts against party endorsement of the administration.

Hopes in the Republican command to avoid pre-convention dissension have waned. Borah and Col. Frank Knox decided to contest in the Illinois primaries.

Similar rivalry in other important states, possibly with Governor Landon of Kansas a figure, appears likely.

Alone among the potential nominees in speaking against the old guard, Borah's aggressiveness increases.

Both Smith and Borah confine themselves at present to working within their parties. Both nevertheless dwell on principles, not partisanship.

Will Smith, if his immediate aims fall, support the Republican ticket?

Will Borah, if the Cleveland convention rejects his wishes, support the Roosevelt-Garner ticket?

Nothing in the outpourings of Lincoln day oratory pointed to answer.

Opinions differed whether a bolt by any one such leader would have consequential bearing on the November result. It has been estimated in American Liberty League quarters that 2,000,000 Democrats would follow Smith against Roosevelt.

This was called "self-destroying nonsense" tonight by Charles Michelson, publicity director for the Democratic national committee.

"Voters change their political allegiance for many reasons," he wrote, "but they do not change because somebody else deserts to the other side."

Scientists May Determine Parentage Of Infant Boy

CHICAGO, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Modern science may be invoked to determine whose baby 3½-year-old "Sonny Boy"—resolutely claimed by an unmarried mother, and just as resolutely by a widowed physician—really is.

Between the stories of Miss Margaret Mann, who declared the baby is Reginald Mann, her son, and Dr. Gordon Mordoff, who said "Sonny Boy" was born to his late wife, Superior Judge Rudolph F. Desort declined to make an immediate choice.

Instead, he said he may order both claimants subjected to lie detector tests and possibly to blood tests before settling the strange case of the disputed youngster.

"Nailing herself on the cross," as her attorney described it, Miss Mann testified in Judge Desort's crowded courtroom that the child was born in a Chicago orphanage, the son of a man she declined to name.

"He is mine," she cried as the "question mark baby" sat on Dr. Mordoff's lap. "He will always be mine."

"Mrs. Mordoff advertised that she would board a baby," the atractive 24-year-old department store clerk explained, "and I paid $5 a week to Miss Edith Ode, a nurse who lived with Mrs. Mordoff."

Dr. Mordoff, speaking with professional calm, testified that his wife, expecting a baby, went to Minneapolis in September of 1932 and returned to tell him a boy had been born. Because the child was ill, it was not brought home, he said, for three or four weeks.

Judge Desort, pending a final settlement, gave the disputed baby to Dr. Mordoff until next Thursday, ordering that Miss Mann be allowed to see "Sonny Boy" from 1 to 7 p.m on Sunday and Wednesday.

Dr. Mordoff declared he had never seen Miss Mann—who said the doctor learned at Christmas of 1932 the child was hers—before last Wednesday night, when she filed a technical charge of kidnaping against him.

Support for Miss Mann's claim came from Mrs. Mary Fairfield, sister of the late Mrs. Mordoff, who said the doctor was deceived. Miss Ode, now in Daytona Beach, Fla., said she knew nothing of the boy's parentage.

JUSTICE AGENTS CAPTURE OGDEN

Broker Wanted At Memphis On Fraud Charge Is Caught At Shanghai

SHANGHAI, Feb. 15.—(AP)—United States department of justice agents arrested J. Garland Ogden, 28, of Memphis, Tenn., and New Orleans, as he was playing a game at the Y. M. C. A. here today.

The agents said Ogden is wanted on a Tennessee charge of using the mails to defraud in connection with attempted stock sales.

Ogden, the agents said, told United States District Attorney Felthan Watson he is the son of a New Orleans sheriff.

Ogden was placed in the Shanghai international settlement jail, where all foreigners, regardless of their nationality, are incarcerated when taken into custody by the Shanghai foreign authorities.

Watson stated that Ogden was being held pending the arrival of extradition papers from Washington, and that then he would be returned to the United States to face trial.

Little is known here of Ogden, authorities saying they believe he arrived early in January. Some said he seemed to possess ample funds while others stated he recently was embarrassed financially and tried unsuccessfully to obtain work.

Watson will question him Monday.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 15.—(AP)—J. Garland Ogden, whose arrest at Shanghai was announced today, has been sought by Memphis police since his disappearance in September, on warrants accusing him of the theft of $45,000 placed with him for investment. He operated brokerage offices here prior to his disappearance.

Reports that young Ogden, described by W. T. Griffin, inspector of Memphis police detectives, as a "playboy" had been seen in Shanghai, reached here earlier in the week, and the Shelby county grand jury returned an indictment based on one of the charges against Ogden.

The department of justice entered the search with warrants charging him with taking stolen money from out of the state.

When he first announced the issuance of warrants for Ogden, Inspector Griffin asked New Orleans police to apprehend him, believing the young broker had taken a train for his former home there.

"He should have around $9,000 on him, if arrested at once," Griffin said at the time.

The warrants against Ogden were sworn out by James H. Durham, Memphis amateur tennis player.

Durham, a former employe of Ogden, charged that his mother and his grandmother, Mrs. Katherine M. Shannon, lost $45,000 they placed with Ogden for investment.

Griffin said Ogden was "handsome, and a snappy dresser," and a member of several exclusive clubs.

New Jersey court of pardons, who refused the prisoner clemency, that Hauptmann "does not fit into the framework of circumstantial evidence." He made his statement after 15 "very intimate and soul-searching interviews" with Hauptmann.

Leibowitz left New York shortly before noon today for Washington. Whether he intended to confer with Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean, prominent society woman who Leibowitz said interested him in the case, was not known.

The visit to the death house tomorrow will mark the first anniversary of Hauptmann's occupancy of cell 9, six paces from the electric chair in which six men who were his neighbors have died.

State attorneys plan to lose no time in seeking a new death date.

Wojecki-Gormley, Bono-Pipes Matches To Feature Big Program

Following their defeat at the hands of the L. S. U. "B" team Friday night, Coach Jim Malone's Northeast Center of L. S. U. mittmen began preparations yesterday for their match with Louisiana Tech's leather slingers Wednesday night. The bouts will be fought in the Tech gym at Ruston.

Realizing that the Indians would have to get in a few extra licks in practice before tangling with the Technicians, Malone ordered a Saturday workout, something rare for Northeast Center athletes. The boxers met at 10 o'clock yesterday morning and went through their drill at a fast clip.

As far as comparative scores go, Tech's Bulldogs have quite an edge over the Indians. Center lost to L. S. U. 'B,' 5 1-2 to 2 1-2, while the Techmen won from the 'B' team by the same score. However, two of Malone's consistent point winners weren't in action against their foes from "headquarters" last Friday night and one of his stars wasn't in the best of shape.

With two more strenuous workouts scheduled for Monday and Tuesday afternoons, Coach Malone believes his team will be in the proverbial "pink" for the Tech match. Frankie Bono, former state high school champion who made his 1936 debut last Friday night admittedly out of shape, hopes to be ready to step three full rounds if necessary against the Bulldogs. Bono went well enough for two rounds Friday, but he faded in the third heat and thus lost the decision.

Two bouts Wednesday night undoubtedly will be spectacular affairs. The first will be the battle between "Bumps" Gormley, Center's 118-pound star, who beat Morris Bohrer Friday night, and Eddie Wojecki, the busy little fellow who acts as Tech's trainer and boxing coach and goes to school on the side. The other match which will be a headliner will be that between Sammy Bono, the Lake Charles phenom, and "Chic" Pipes, rugged Choudrant puncher who now performs in Tech livery.

Again reverting to the odious comparison of past performances, Gormley should enter the ring with an edge over Wojecki by virtue of his win over Bohrer. Bohrer beat Wojecki when Tech and the 'B' squad met. However, the Tech trainer spent most of the early stages of the season in tutoring his squad members, and paid little attention to his own condition. Eddie has been improving steadily since the season opened and Gormley is in for a big surprise if he thinks he'll have easy sailing over the Tech star. Lest "Bumps" forget, Wojecki has a hat full of medals he won in years past for ring prowess.

Pipes is best remembered in Monroe for the battles he fought with George Manteris and other Neville stars. "Chic" packs the kick of a mule in each fist and is able to absorb plenty of punishment without folding up. Likewise, Pipes can't be classed with the L. S. U. 'B' team scrapper who refused to fight Sammy. He has plenty of courage and won't hesitate to stand up and swap punches with the hard hitting Bono. Bono, on the other hand, has a perfect record as a Northeast Center scrapper and he'll give Pipes a right strenuous argument before succumbing to "Chic's" rights and lefts Wednesday night. As far as murderous slugging is concerned, the Pipes-Bono engagement stacks up as the best attraction fight fans of this section will see in a long time.

The heavyweight scrap Wednesday night should provide plenty of entertainment for the fans, if nothing else. "Wimpy" Giddens, Tech's heavyweight, will meet Boyd Arnold, Northeast Center's novice. Giddens is said to be quite a scrapper, while Arnold fought his first fight Friday night, and thus the Tech star will be the odds-on choice. However, Giddens is an exponent of the Maxie Rosenbloom style of fighting and his clowning, plus Arnold's hula-hula tactics, should make the bout well worth the price of admission.

The complete card has not been announced, but there will be at least eight bouts on the program. Percy Brown will referee and the judges will be Dr. W. L. Bendel, Herbert Fink and George Lofton.

Jackson May Get Job If Terry Is Moved Up

Veteran Infielder Slated For Managerial Berth With Giants

(This is the last of three stories on What's Wrong With the New York Giants?)

By Harry Grayson
(Sports Editor, NEA Service)

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—Last summer William Harold Terry sat in the lobby of a Philadelphia hotel with one leg stretched in front of him.

"This is the last year for me," said the manager of the New York Giants. "This leg is too sore for another season."

When it was suggested that perhaps he was talking that way because his leg happened to be sore at the moment, Terry shook his head and said that the old limb was chronically sore and stiff. Yet the following afternoon he was galloping all over Baker Bowl and right now he is fixing to start another campaign.

This really is expected to be Terry's last year as a regular, however. Memphis Bill's ambition long has been to be a high-powered executive behind a glass-topped desk. And with the death of Charles A. Stoneham, even more of the business end of the New York Nationals fell upon his shoulders.

It is likely that Terry will name Travis Calvin Jackson, the great infielder and his former roommate, as his successor at the close of the approaching grind. Jackson should make a fine leader. "Stoney" is a far better mixer than Terry. They would make an excellent combination if Terry moves up to an executive position.

Writers His Pals, Now

A great natural athlete (what a football player he would have made!), Terry has a powerful will and keen foresight. In his younger days practically every industrial plant had a baseball team and gave jobs to men who could play, just as colleges give scholarships to young men who play football.

Many players just went through the motions of their jobs. They took it that they were hired to play ball. But Terry was not content to merely pitch. He took an interest in his work. Hence, his solid background as an oil man and his trusted position with one of the larger companies.

In his first two complete seasons as manager of the Giants, Terry had trouble with baseball writers. Memphis Bill is a hard man who had to fight his way up and preferred to play his baseball on the field, not off. This discrepancy was straightened out last spring, and today Terry is friendly with the press because they understand each other.

Among his men, Terry is popular, because he is one of them. His stern training keeps him businesslike enough to veto athletes who can't deliver, no matter how well he likes them personally.

He's a mighty figure, this six feet of power, and his black-thatched head is full of strong ideas. When he succeeded John McGraw, he won Charles A. Stoneham's rock bottom trust.

Terry is so thorough that he even arranges the exhibition schedule to the most minute detail. For instance, there was the tableau of a year ago, when Memphis Bill visited Kingsport, Tenn., to book an appearance of the Giants and the Cleveland Indians. After inspecting the field, he was not certain that the special train would fit on the local railroad siding, so in the dead of a cold moonlight night he took a tape measure to the railroad yards, measured the tracks, and then booked the game.

Has Respect Of Indians

The Cleveland club has so much regard for Terry that the Indians handed over arrangements for the entire spring trip to the Giant boss, satisfied to play when and where Terry Chose. Terry has a great deal to say about the Indians in other matters, too. Alva Bradley, president of the Cleveland club, consults the Giant leader frequently, and has great faith in his judgment.

The Giants may have flopped twice in succession in the stretch run, but they've made big money, which is the main thing.

After suffering a slight loss in 1932, when Terry succeeded McGraw in mid-season, the Giants earned $200,000 in 1933, their pennant-winning year. They earned $220,000 in 1934 and no less than $480,000 last year.

These sums include the National Exhibition company's share of football and boxing rentals at the Polo Grounds and Yankee Stadium, the Giants and Yankees dividing this source of revenue.

Despite the fact he was so hard to sign during his playing days, Terry has kept salaries down, including his own. He signed for five years at only $27,500 for playing the best first base in the business, as well as directing the layout. Carl Hubbell is the highest paid Giant, with $18,000.

The Giants are to launch the 1936 campaign with another formidable array.

Burgess Whitehead, young second baseman obtained from the St. Louis Cardinals for Tarzan Parmelee, should help. Second base was the Giant weak spot in 1935, where neither the veterans, Hughie Critz and Mark Koenig, nor the youngster, Al Cuccinello, could get going for any length of time. Their failure also affected the work of Dick Bartell, the shortstop.

If the Giants again falter in the stretch, it will not be because they are not well directed, for William Harold Terry is the boss. Whatever he says goes.

THE END.

FOUR GREENIE MENTORS

NEW ORLEANS—Tulane university has had but four head football coaches in the last 21 years. Clark Shaughnessy, Myron Fuller, Bernie Bierman and Ted Cox have headed the Green Wave football teams since 1915. Shaughnessy was head coach for eleven years, Bierman for five years, Cox for four years and Fuller for one year.

MACK COUNTS ON ROOKIE OGLESBY TO SUCCEED FOXX

New York Giants' Southpaw Recruit May Be Regular This Year

By Jimmy Donahue
(NEA Service Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Feb 15.—Quite a few of the big league pennant race machines are going to need replacement parts this year; otherwise, they're going to miss fire on a couple of cylinders and wind up among the also-rans.

Trades during the off-season have so wrecked the ignition of several of the teams that their managers are burning plenty of midnight oil over their problems. They're hoping against hope that some of their rookies will fit into the shoes of tried and true veterans traded since the close of '35.

One fellow who's doing plenty of figuring is the ancient and honorable Connie Mack, who peddled everyone but the bat boy to Tom Yawkey. First and foremost, Connie must fill the expansive sandals of James Emory Foxx, the Sudlersville socker who played plenty of first base for the A's and also did very well at the plate.

If Jim Oglesby, the west coast rookie up from Los Angeles, can do three-fourths as well as Foxx, Connie will feel that there still is something worth living for. Oglesby hit .350 in the coast loop last year, and experts contend he won't be so far under the big tent.

Lazzeri Needs Relief

The Red Sox, Indians, and Browns are pretty well fixed, having traded or sold no established star during the year without having acquired others in the deals.

Problems of the Yankees and Tigers aren't so difficult, although you couldn't call finding someone to replace Tony Lazzeri at second for the Yanks, and Marvin Owen at third for the Tigers, a trivial matter.

Chicago has two problems on its hands. One is to fill in for Al Simmons. The other is to replace Jimmy Dykes at third.

The White Sox outfield now shapes up with Rip Radcliff, Mule Haas, and Vernon George Washington doing duty. But Haas isn't the fielder he once was, and Dykes may have to call on Mike Kreevich, who comes up from Kansas City with an average of .345, for service.

Should Dykes, as rumored, retire

MAROONS SWEEP TULANE SERIES

Greenies Keep Step In First Half But Fade Later To Lose, 45-31

STATE COLLEGE, Miss., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Mississippi State made a sweep of the series with Tulane by winning tonight's basketball game, 45-31.

The Greenies jumped into the lead and held it until the last 50 seconds of the first half when the Maroons tied it at 16 all.

Two Tulane and one State player went out on personal fouls.

NEW ORLEANS—The Southeastern conference championship boxing tournament will be held at Tulane university on March 6 and 7.

DIZZY DEAN BECOMES HOLDOUT EVEN BEFORE HE GETS A CONTRACT

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 15.—(AP)—The Post-Dispatch quotes Jerome (Dizzy) Dean, ace of the Cardinal pitching staff, as saying by telephone from Hot Springs, Ark., he "wouldn't be surprised" if he became a "pretty fair holdout in a couple of days or a week."

"I haven't received my contract," the curve ball professor is quoted, "but I have a rough idea what is coming."

The younger Dean, Paul, has "hinted" he will quit baseball if his contract does not conform with his idea in dollars, and Pepper Martin and Bill Halahan are the only other Cardinals still unsigned.

In today's conversation Dizzy said he had had a long talk with Branch Rickey, Cardinal vice president, about a month ago. Then, when Dean said he figured he was worth $27,500, the pitcher quoted Rickey: "Dizzy, you're a piker. Babe Ruth asked for and got $80,000."

Dean's answer: "So I said, 'All right, Mr. Rickey, that will make it cost you $40,000.'"

The paper told of Dean's referring to a "sarcastic" letter he received from Rickey recently: "He blamed me for losin' of the pennant last year"—"Say, he told me he didn't care whether I signed my contract or not."

TECH FIVE WHIPS S'WESTERN, 42-26

Ruston Quintet Piles Up Big Lead To Coast To Easy Victory

RUSTON, La., Feb. 15.—(Special)—Forging ahead for a two to one lead at the half, the Louisiana Tech basketeers did even better in the second period to swamp the Southwestern Louisiana institute quintet, 42-26, here Saturday night.

It was Tech's ninth S. I. A. A victory out of eleven conference games played this season.

Although both teams started slowly, the Lafayette men had the more unfortunate beginning. Fourteen minutes passed before Southwestern scored a field goal. At ten minutes the score was 12-2 for Tech, with Cowart, guard and Landry, forward having each pitched in a goal apiece to account for the visitors' two points.

Tech led at the half, 22-11. During that time, the Techmenians had registered seven field goals and 8 foul goals, while Southwestern totalled three field goals and five foul goals. In the second period, the local cagers picked up an additional 20 points to Southwestern's 15 points.

Brooks, Tech guard chalked up five field goals to be the high scorer of the game, with 10 points. Nearly all of his shots were of the long distance variety and were hurled one handed.

L. S. U. TRACK STAR HAS LEG AMPUTATED

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Tenn., Feb. 15.—(AP)—William Whipple, 20-year-old L. S. U. holder of the S. A. A. U. broad jump record, underwent an operation here yesterday for the amputation of his left leg.

Hospital attaches said Whipple was recovering rapidly from the operation today. The amputation was necessary because of an affected bone, doctors said.

Whipple holds the Arkansas high school broad jump record of 24 feet. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Whipple of Arkadelphia, Ark.

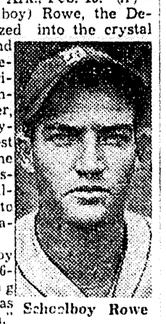
'Schoolboy' Says Winning 16 Straight Was Terrific Strain

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Lynwood (Schoolboy) Rowe, the Detroit hurler, "gazed into the crystal ball" today, and saw the Tigers repeating as American league champions this summer, Al Simmons enjoying one of his best seasons and the strengthened Boston Red Sox failing to click due to "lack of organization."



Schoolboy Rowe

The schoolboy added that his 16-game winning streak of 1934 was "a terrific strain," and forecast that Rogers Hornsby's St. Louis Browns "before many seasons roll around are going to make it plenty tough for the rest of the league."

Rowe, an instructor with Hornsby and Jerome "Dizzy" Dean in the Hot Springs baseball school, noted that he was down to his best pitching weight of 205 pounds. He plans to return to his El Dorado, Ark., home about March 1, and then continue on to the Tiger training camp at Lakeland, Fla.

"We haven't lost a thing this winter and we've added Al Simmons to the outfield," Rowe said in discussing Detroit's chances. "You can watch out for Al this summer. He's going to have one of his best seasons, if I don't miss my guess by a long way.

"Boston has added a lot of stars, but I don't look for the Red Sox to be as strong as everybody expects. Their chief handicap will be a lack of organization."

Commenting on his 16-game winning streak of two years ago, which tied the American league record, the schoolboy said:

"The strain is terrific. You win about 10 straight and the other teams start putting the pressure on. Every time you pitch, they'll do their darndest to pin your ears back. And every time they'll save up their aces."

Dizzy Dean, the loquacious star of the St. Louis Cardinal hurling corps, interrupted to say that meeting aces was only routine for him.

"Every time I go to the box, the other team sends in its best pitcher," said the great one. "When it's the Giants, it's Hubbie or Schumacher. When it's the Reds, it's Derringer, and when we go against the Cubs, I can always figure on pitching against Lon Warneke."

The Detroit park is Rowe's favorite. He has "lots of luck at New York and Boston, but when he hurls in Washington, 'things go wrong.'"

"There's nothing wrong with the park" he said in referring to the "jinx." "It's just something that makes an opening impression on a fellow and sticks with him."

$25,000 DERBY WON BY HE DID

Valiant Fox Second And Gold Seeker Third In Anita Feature

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Mrs. Silas B. Mason's He Did won the $25,000 added derby today, beating out Valiant Fox by a head, with Gold Seeker, third.

He Did's victory was worth $26,000 in added money to the Mason stable.

The winner ran the mile and one-sixteenth in 1:49 2-5 over a muddy track.

The gallant son of Victorian paid $5.20 to win, $3.00 to place and $3.20 to show for a $2 ticket.

Norman Church's Valiant Fox paid $4 and $4 and Gold Seeker, a long shot, paid $10.40 to show.

He Did took the lead to five lengths at the half, and was never threatened until the final sprint. Jockey Maurice Peters brought up the Foxcatcher farms' Gold Seeker from behind to take third place from the Pelleteri trained Ttennob.

Jockey Les Balaski gave the whip to Valiant Fox but failed to overtake the flying He Did with Wayne Wright up.

Second place purse was worth $4,000, third place $2,000 and Ttennob collected $1,000 for fourth place.

NEVILLE BOXING TEAM FACES TWO MEETS THIS WEEK

Tigers Go To Farmerville Tuesday, Fight Istrouma Here Friday

The Neville high school boxing team, undefeated in dual meets this season and with seven consecutive victories, will go to Farmerville Tuesday night for a return match with the Farmers of the Farmerville high school, and then on Friday night they will return to the local arena for a meet with Istrouma high school's strong aggregation.

The Bengals trimmed Farmerville, 9 to 4, here nearly two weeks ago and should repeat for their eighth win Tuesday. The engagement with Istrouma may prove a different story, however. The Istrouma aggregation had a good team last season, and the school is said to have another stellar squad this season.

Last Friday the Neville mittmen won their second victory over Lafayette's Lions this season when they walloped them 8 to 4, at Lafayette. The battles at Lafayette toppled some of the Bengal winners from their high spots in the team, while others redeemed themselves with impressive victories.

Ernest Pierce, clever 120-pounder weathered the last skirmish to come out on top of the Bengals' list of winners. Pierce has won six fights this year and hasn't lost a bout. Pat Cole hard hitting 98-pounder who, heretofore has led the winners with six victories, lost a decision at Lafayette thus getting one blot on his otherwise perfect record.

Other Neville men with good records for the season thus far are Marvin "Sparky" Spaugh, 111; Lavelle "Shorty" Green, 132, Tom King 115, and Darrus Crews, 162.

Spaugh, along with Pierce, is one of Neville's few men who haven't lost a match. He has four victories to his credit. Green, who suffered a defeat in his first match of the year, has improved greatly and now has five wins in comparison with his one defeat. King, who up to last Friday had been undefeated in four previous matches, fell before the attack of Albert Domingue, who previously had been beaten here by Ernest Pierce.

Darrus Crews, 165-pound state champion, redeemed himself with a 54-second knockout over Claude Guidry at Lafayette. Guidry won a decision over the Tiger here in the season's opener, but Crews has won every match since then, having three victories and one defeat.

LOUISIANA COLLEGE BEATS DELTA STATE

IMPRESSIVE RECORD

NEW ORLEANS—Bill Irby, Tulane university freshman, has participated in 83 amateur boxing bouts and has lost only ten. He has won the last 18 bouts. He was runner-up in the National A. A. U. light heavyweight division a year ago in the tournament held at St. Louis. Irby's home is Eufaula, Ala.

SPORTS CHATTER

By George V. Lofton

BASEBALL BOOM

THE recent announcement of Col. Jake Ruppert that Yankee stadium would be enlarged to a seating capacity of 84,000 is another indication that baseball big-wigs anticipate their best year in many seasons.

Plans for enlarging other parks already were under way. The Detroit club is spending a half million dollars to improve Navin field. Other clubs, while not making such expensive alterations, have prepared to entertain larger crowds in 1936.

There will be more minor league clubs in operation this season than in several years. Six-club circuits are being expanded into eight-club organizations. Pay checks are higher this year and holdouts fewer, although such recalcitrants as Dizzy Dean will always make the headlines just before the ball players move south.

Baseball weathered the depression in fine style, and the game became one of the first sports to feel the tangible results of better times. By and large, it's still the great American pastime.

NEXT?

ALthough his suspenson by the N. W. A. as a result of his recent "run out" in Texas has nothing whatever to do with it, Danno O'Mahoney is on his way out as heavyweight wrestling champion of the world.

As we all know, the titleholder is picked by big shots of the wrestling trust, and those in the know claim Jim Londos will "take" the title back from the big Irishman. Previously, it was reported that Ernie Dusek and Chief Little Wolf had the inside track for the crown, but Londos is now engaged in a "comeback" campaign and indications are that the Greek Adonis will soon get the nod. A meeting in St. Louis last week is said to have sealed the verdict in Londos' favor.

When Danno was imported from Ireland, they thought he'd be a big drawing card. Instead, he's been a flop everywhere but in Boston, with its large Irish population. Instead of tossing 'em in the big towns, O'Mahoney has been forced to beat the bushes, and all that in view of the fact that he has held the crown only about a year.

So look for a title match between Danno and Jim some time this spring. And don't put your dough on Danno.

SHORT AND SNAPPY

REPORTS have it that Eddie McLane, Tech tutor, has been offered a lucrative job with a large midwestern university, which again proves that a winning football team not only brings publicity for the school but for the coach as well. Maybe Tech should use that new athletic field fence to keep out prying athletic directors. . . . Britton Horton, Scrimgton ball who won local pitching fame as a member of the Ouachita parish high school staff and later as an American Legion junior star, has signed a contract with the Fort Worth Cats and will report soon for spring work. Horton impressed us as having a bright future in baseball and it looks like he's a cinch on his way up. . . . James Baragona, another good looking prospect with Stellington last year, also was signed by Fort Worth.

The recent warm weather has started the baseball talk again. Willard Eichorst, manager of Winnsboro's club in the Big Six league for several years, told us Wednesday night that Winnsboro would be interested in reviving the Big Six this season. And Pat Lafferty, one of Taliulah's ardent fans, was in town yesterday, pleading for a chance to lay down a few rubles that Tallulah could beat anybody in the circuit. . . . Something cooked up in about it. . . . Billy Barnett, Monroe coach, was a visitor Friday. Billy, who was sold to Fort Worth by the Oklahoma City club a few months ago, will remain out of baseball this year to devote all his time to coaching. . . . High school boxing has spread to negro schools. The Monroe colored high school Bishops will meet the City Terriers tonight at Roosevelt stadium tomorrow night.

ALTHOUGH not quite so well pleased with the showing of his fighters Friday night, Coach Jim Malone was elated over the turnout of fans. It was the largest fight crowd of the season here. . . . It is time Northeast Center was getting some support. An all-victorious football team has fail failed to attract the attendance that it merited. . . . The Southern A. A. U. basketball tournament will be held in New Orleans on March 6, 7 and 8. Arrangements have been made to send the winner to the National tournament in Denver. Manager Cary Philips of the Brown club hasn't decided yet whether he'll send the Safety Firsts after the Southern crown. . . . George Manteris, former Neville star, is piling up a neat record as a welterweight scrapper for Tulane university.

Jack Dempsey is now one up on his old manager, Jack Kearns. Dempsey beat Kearns by proxy when "Red" Burnham, the Maulers' protege, decisioned Hank Bath, Kearns' man, in a sluggish match in Chicago Friday night. According to reports of the fight, you can take the last syllable of Burnham's name and aptly describe both boxers. . . . Rogers Hornsby calls James DeShong, pitcher recently traded to the Senators, "that Chinaman." . . . According to the boys in the know, the reason Danno O'Mahoney took a "run out" at Galveston the other night was that Jack Humberto, his opponent, was prepared to "shoot

Olympic Boxers In Past Have Been Real Credit To The Game

By John J. Romano

Bep Van Klaveren has the true Olympic spirit. This was demonstrated several times since he turned professional after winning the amateur featherweight boxing crown at Amsterdam in 1928. It was a fitting gesture that one of its natives should win its first, and only, international crown the first time the games were held in Holland.

Van Klaveren was much in demand after winning from the formidable group of boxers assembled from all quarters of the globe. Chiseling, grasping fight managers are not restricted to America. Europe has some which can give pointers to the best nourished in the western hemisphere.

Van Klaveren fought on his own and picked up weight. When he showed continued brilliance of form as a lightweight he was induced to come to this country where he won his first five bouts. Pitted against the hard-hitting Billy Petrolle, the Hollander sustained a severe cut over his left eye in the fourth round and was forcibly ejected from the ring. The idea of winning against Jimmy McLarnin's leading challenger was uppermost in his mind. A cut was just that to him. What matter if the wound was reopened during the course of the fight and later on lead to eventual blindness! The fight must go on reasoned Van Klaveren. It was halted against his protests and to show his disgust of the rules as enforced in this country he sailed back to his native Holland.

Rest and memories of large purses in this country induced him to make another trip. He appeared in six bouts during 1934 and lost but one. That one stumbling block was Ceferino Garcia, the hard-hitting Filipino who had Champion Barney Ross on the floor last year. He reversed the verdict two months later.

Lacking suitable competition in the welterweight ranks Van Klaveren challenged Young Corbett III and learned that he could not give away weight with impunity. The former welter king, a full-fledged middleweight, turned back the gritty Hollander twice via the decision route.

Van Klaveren made up for this by whipping Carlos King Solomon and Kid Azteca, the Mexican champion who boasts decisions over some of our best welters. With those victories to his credit Van Klaveren accepted an offer to visit Australia to fight Slugger Jack Carroll who has a knockout over Wesley Ramey to his credit.

Made Hit In Australia

Van Klaveren entered the ring at Sydney ten days after his arrival. A heavy rain did not dampen the ardor of 25,000 fans who paid admission to attend Boxing Day in which four champions were on display. As one writer described the scene, "the heavens wept, boxers slipped and floundered, seconds turbaned themselves with towels and the referee wore a heavy raincoat during the contest while the writer's mind went back thirty years when big Jack Johnson bared his lacquered teeth in the familiar, snarling golden grin. Grim and pale, the young Australian, Bill Lang, a willing, eager boxer, was the sacrifice to give Melbourne a fistic holiday."

The sympathy of the crowd was with the home boy. This was but natural. His careful poise was in contrast to the charging outlander, who slipped and wobbled all over the ring in his eagerness to bring the battle to a close with one well directed blow. Carroll was rightly adjudged the winner. Van Klaveren was accorded a warm reception for his efforts.

They no doubt were thinking about a former Olympic champion, Laurie Stevens, who, dropped to the canvas seven times in his match with Aldo Spoldi, now campaigning in the United States, caused the death of his mother at the ringside who thought her boy was killed in action. Stevens, like Van Klaveren, had the true Olympic spirit, refused to give up the game. His most recent achievement was a one-sided victory over Jackie Kid Berg, well known in this country, and British Empire lightweight champion.

Show Same Spirit

The spirit of Van Klaveren is reflected in the professional success of Frankie Genaro, Fidel LaBarba and Jackie Fields who went on to win world's titles.

It is manifest today in the thousands of young boxers who are trying out for sectional titles which will lead to the nationals and from which an American team will be selected.

In a recent tournament held at Huntington, West Virginia, 276 boxers were entered. On the day of the opening bouts a blizzard and zero weather made attendance at these bouts practically impossible. Despite the impassable roads in the mountains and paralyzed traffic conditions, a majority of the entrants reported to Bill Bess and the five-day tourney was completed to the satisfaction of hardy fans. They refused to permit the cold to chill their ardor and appreciation of the spirit shown by the amateurs whose courage surmounted all obstacles for an opportunity to make the trip to Chicago and possibly Berlin next June.

Van Klaveren, Stevens and those West Virginia kids have the right spirit. With that type coming up it is but a question of time when the boxing game will be purged of its "untouchables" who give the sport a name it does not deserve and will lift professionalism to a plane its income rightfully deserves.

U. S. TEAM WINS OLYMPIC BOB-SLED TITLE

BROWN, WASHBOND BEAT SWISS PAIR WITH FAST FINISH

Colgate And Lawrence, Another U. S. Team, Win Third Place

By Gayle Talbot
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

GARMISCH - PARTENKIRCHEN, Germany, Feb. 15.—Dramatically rising to the occasion in one last dizzy whirl down the Olympic chute, Ivan Brown and Alan Washbond earned the Olympic two-man bob-sledding championship today and gained what may prove to be America's sole gold medal of the fourth winter games.

The Keene Valley, N. Y., combination successfully fought off the challenge of the great Swiss pilot, Fritz Feierabend, to win the four-head competition by the margin of 1.35 seconds and thus successfully defend the championship Hubert and Curtis Stevens won for the United States at Lake Placid four years ago.

Rounding out the greatest day America's otherwise outclassed athletes have enjoyed in these games, Gilbert Colgate, Jr., of New York and Dick Lawrence of Branchville, N. J., took third place behind Feierabend.

It was a triumph for American ingenuity as well as speed and skill. A set of $2.48 runners of home-made spring steel they had made in their spare time carried Brown and Washbond to their spectacular victory.

Where Feierabend, Colgate and their other leading rivals were riding on Sheffield steel that set them back as high as $65 a set, the winners placed their faith in their own handicraft.

Brown and Washbond had led the field by more than three seconds after the first two heats yesterday but lost most of the advantage in the third heat today when they were the third pair away from the starting line and thus had to buck the course at its slowest.

Feierabend, with Joseph Beerli as brake, gained in that heat and then came back in his final heat with a breath-taking run that lowered his own course record to one minute, 19.88 seconds.

Brown and Washbond were forced to start their last trip down the chute with the mental knowledge that they would have to do 1:21.72 or better to protect their lead.

They proved more than equal to that occasion, however. Brown's skillful piloting and the 235-pound Washbond's tremendous bobbing carried the American sled across the finish line in 1:20.38.

The total elapsed times for the three leaders were: Brown and Washbond, 5:29.29; Feierabend and Beerli, 5:30.64; Colgate and Lawrence, 5:33.96.

HOCKEY TEAMS TIE

GARMISCH - PARTENKIRCHEN, Germany, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Thanks to her bob-sledders, the United States captured its first championship of the fourth Olympic winter games today as honors otherwise rested with Norway's great Sonja Henie, Great Britain's hockey team, and Sweden's indefatigable ski runners.

Just when it appeared possible that America, the 1932 Olympic team champion, would be shut out in the distribution of gold medals, Ivan Brown and Alan Washbond of Keene Valley, N. Y., raced to a sensational triumph in the two-man bob-sledding championship with the second American combination of Gilbert Colgate, Jr., of New York, and Dick Lawrence of Branchville, N. J., gaining third place.

The American hockey team, however, lost all but the slimmest kind of a chance to take the title when it played a scoreless tie with England. The deadlock also shut out Canada, winner of all previous Olympic hockey championships.

Three overtime periods failed to crack the strong British defense, backed by the Canadian-trained goalie, James Foster. The Americans still can tie England on points but unless they beat Canada tomorrow by a large enough score to overcome England's advantage in the goal records, today's draw clinched the title for Great Britain.

The 14 points scored in the bob-sled event plus two more credited to Maribel Vinson, American titleholder, for fifth place in the women's figure skating championship, increased the United States' total to 31 1-2, good for fifth position in the unofficial team standings.

Norway definitely has clinched the team honors. The Norsemen had gathered 129 points against 115 for Germany tonight and seemed destined to score heavily tomorrow in the ski jump in which Birger Ruud will be defending title holder.

The only other competitive event on tomorrow's closing program will be the hockey game between Canada and the United States.

Although Mlle. Henie captured the figure-skating title for the third successive time, the Norwegian ace was hard pressed to turn back the challenge of the rising young British star, Cecilia Colledge. The final point totals favored the Norwegian by the exceptionally close margin of 424.5 to 418.1. Miss Vinson skated well but could not match the speed and all-around skill of the leaders.

Sweden made a show of the best of the field in the 50-kilometer cross-country ski marathon. Elis Viklund showing the way, the Swedes swept the first four positions. America's representatives again were outclassed as the leader, Kark Mangus Satre of Salisbury, Conn., finished 18th.

Venzke Scores Spectacular Triumph Over Cunningham

Big-League Faculty Will Instruct Arkansas Baseball 'Kindergarten'

Embryo Umpires Also Tutored At Ray Doan's School At Spa

By R. Hendrix Chandler

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Something ought to be done about the "lagging interest" of high schools and colleges in baseball, says Ray Doan, veteran professional baseball mentor, who personally favors major league subsidies for these institutions.

Doan operates an annual "spring-training" school here devoted wholly to baseball and while he believes this is productive of new talent, the "far-reaching answer," he says, lies in restoration of the pastime on prep and higher educational campuses.

"It would be a mighty fine thing if the American and National leagues would set aside, say $200,000 annually, to assist the high schools and the colleges in restoring baseball to their sports programs," he suggests.

'Turning To Kitten-Ball'

"The kids are turning to kitten-ball, and the number of youngsters who come up each year for trials is falling off considerably. The real reason they're playing kitten-ball is there aren't as many places to play baseball as there used to be. The kids of this country never will lose their interest in the national pastime."

Doan this month (Feb. 15) opens his own fourth annual baseball kindergarten here with a big-name faculty from the majors, a host of youngsters from all parts of the country as students and all the lessons devoted to the intricacies of the diamond. Sixty-five matriculated the first year, and 264 in 1935. Doan figures on more than 300 students this spring. The average age is 18.

"There's not one of them who doesn't come down with the idea that he's another Babe Ruth or Dizzy Dean," Doan chuckles, "but we don't encourage them in this. All the instructors are perfectly frank with the kids. If they haven't got the stuff, we tell them so, and advise them to go into another business."

The teachers, who instruct and appraise, this year include: Rogers Hornsby, manager of the St. Louis Browns; George Sisler, former St. Louis Browns' first sacker; Johnny Mostil, former White Sox outfielder, now manager at Eau Claire, Wis.; E. H. (Dutch) Zwilling, Kansas City Blues manager; Burleigh Grimes, of the Louisville Colonels; Lon Warneke, pride of Mt. Ida, Ark., and the Chicago Cubs; Tris Speaker, the old Cleveland outfielder; Lynwood (Schoolboy) Rowe, Detroit pitching ace; Hank Severied, manager at Omaha in the Western association; and Lew Fonseca, former White Sox manager.

Umpires Attend Classes Too

An umpires' school is run on this same campus, with George Barr of the National league as dean of the department.

Doan says he conceived the idea for his school after watching youngsters back home in Iowa make annual try-out trips to the major camps without success.

"Year after year, I saw these kids, a lot of them with the stuff to make good, go south to try out with major league teams, only to be turned down after an hour's tryout. In many cases the boy faced by stars he worshipped almost as gods would be so nervous that he couldn't even catch a ball. And with all the applications for try-outs the club would be able to devote only an hour to the boy, with the result in most cases that he would be sent back home a badly disappointed kid.

"At the baseball school, the boy loses his self-consciousness and is better prepared to play his best game."

Doan judges the hopefuls on a strong arm and fleetness of foot, believing that if a youngster has these he can be taught the other requisites.

"Hitting ability is more valued than fielding," he says, "but a good fielder can be taught to hit. The secret, of course, is timing."

Doan hails from Muscatine, Iowa, but Hot Springs has claimed him as an honorary citizen since he started his spring instruction courses here.

Here are the first arrivals at the baseball "kindergarten" in Hot Springs, Ark., where the embryo Ruths and Deans—and umpires—are looked over and instructed by an all-star faculty. Albert E. Slate (left), 29-year-old semi-pro catcher and medical student from Springfield, Mass., will study umpiring in the department headed by George Barr, National league arbiter. Stan Hoskiewicz (right) of Springfield, Vt., 20-year-old hurler from St. Michael's college, Burlington, Vt., will be tutored by Schoolboy Rowe of the Detroit Tigers, dean of the school of slants and curves.

TECH TIDINGS

By Ruston Sports Correspondent

RUSTON, La., Feb. 15.—(Special)—Some say one thing and some say another about boxing as an exercise for college and high school students, but attendance at fights at Louisiana Tech indicates the popularity of the sport.

That being the case, the mittened punchers of the local institution will be presented in their fourth intercollegiate match here Wednesday night, with the opponents coming from the Northeast Center of L. S. U. at Monroe.

On a comparative basis, the Techmen outshine the Monroe Indians, although even the drugstore wise men don't take such "dope" very seriously these days. The fact is this: In an intra-family meeting in Monroe Friday night, the Indians took a lacing from a "B" team of their brothers of Baton Rouge, to the tune of 5 1-2 to 2 1-2. A few evenings ago, this L. S. U. "B" team was defeated by the Techsters in Ruston by the same score of 5 1-2 to 2 1-2.

While their meetings with the same mitt squad give the Techmen the odds over the Monroe men on paper, at least, Coach Jimmy Malone of the Center boxers is reported "not entirely satisfied" with the showing of his proteges against the "B" boys of L. S. U. In other words, he is putting his glove men through their punches in a big way, in preparation for the ordeal at Ruston at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Pewee Not Guilty

It wasn't J. D. (Pewee) Holstun, Gibsland's Goliath, who lost a bout in the Tech-Centenary boxing match in Shreveport the other night. The Tech representative, who suffered a technical knockout from Lindell Bonner, Gent fighter, was John Black, it was stated here. Holstun, nursing a badly damaged eye behind colored glasses, was in no shape to give or take punishment in the Centenary engagement.

"Pewee" had been hiding his talents until recently, by doing such things as helping circulate The Tech Talk, college paper, and waiting on tables in the dining hall. Suddenly, he leaped into the ring as an unsung hero and pounded out a decision over Radford, a 135-pound L. S. U. "B" entry. It was in that fast and furious battle that he got his eye smashed—but he crowned himself with glory.

"My Lord," Said Ruple

There used to be a girl at Louisiana Tech named Mary Lee Lord, who came from Baskin. She is still at Tech, but her name has been changed. Bill Ruple saw her first.

The news is a little stale, now; but Mr. and Mrs. Ruple are to blame for keeping their wedding a secret. It happened one night, specifically, November 9, at Monroe.

Mr. Ruple was alternate-captain of the Tech varsity football team last fall, which was his last year of gridiron participation here. His home is at Rupie.

Mrs. Ruple was one of the queen's attendants at the Tech football homecoming celebration last November. She is a sophomore at Tech.

Football Springs Up Again

While several of the Louisiana Tech gridiron candidates of 1936 are busying themselves with basketball and boxing, about 30 of the huskies have started spring football practice, under the guidance of Coaches Herb Duggins and Mike Wells. The drilling will continue for about six weeks, during which the gridders may play a regulation game or two among themselves.

Fundamentals and conditioning exercises are the principal activities of the rehearsing at present. Consequently, the absentees are not missing much, as they are getting theirs in the other sports.

Three Fairways Wide Open

D. G. Armstrong, director of the Louisiana Tech extension division, who coaches the Tech golfers as a sideline, has announced that three fairways are available for practice by the local divot diggers. In addition to the Ruston course, the Hodge Country club and the Lakeside Country club of Monroe have extended invitations to the Tech squad to use their links.

The Tech golfers have had their number augmented by the enrollment of two veterans of the past few years. Jim Cole, No. 1 man last season, and Bob Baker, No. 2 player several years ago, will be eligible for varsity competition this spring.

It is hoped that the Techsters may attend the Southern Intercollegiate golf meet in Athens, Ga., this season.

Time To "Rally" At Tech

Saturday, February 15, was the deadline for mailing entries for the north Louisiana high school basketball rally, which will be held at Louisiana Tech on February 21-22. The cage contests will be the first events of the thirteenth annual rally program, comprising several activities which close with the general literary rally here in April.

Entry blanks for the basketball meet were sent to 140 high schools of north Louisiana, according to M. H. Folk, Jr., general secretary. The number of teams entering the tournament will be limited to two girls' teams and two boys' teams from each parish. The maximum number of players on each team will be ten, and a fee of $3 will be charged each squad entering the meet.

PENN STAR RUNS SECOND FASTEST MILE OF CAREER

Torrance Loses Again; O'Brien Breaks Record In 500 Yard Race

By Alan Gould
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

Venzke ran the second fastest race of his career to administer stunning triumph over the barrel-chested Kansan, up to this season the king of the milers, shortly after Syracuse's Eddie O'Brien had flashed to a world's record-breaking victory in the Buermyer 500-yard race in 57.8 seconds.

Cunningham was clocked in 4:10.7, his fastest performance of the indoor campaign, and had the consolation of taking outright possession of the Baxter cup. The trophy is limited to three consecutive years of competition. Cunningham took the cup because he turned in the fastest time, 4:09.8, last year.

A crowd of 13,000 fans went wild as Venzke, altering his usual tactics, took the pace-setting position from Cunningham with two laps to go, successfully fought off every subsequent challenge from the record-holder and won going away in a short stretch drive.

Of the three other starters, Glen Dawson of Tulsa, Okla., came strong on the last lap to take third place, 30 yards behind Cunningham, with Williamson fourth and Louis Burns, Manhattan, fifth.

Big Jack Torrance, 300-pound Baton Rouge (La.) policeman and world-record holder at shot-putting, suffered his second defeat of the indoor season at the hands of "Dimmy" Zaitz of Boston College.

Torrance disappointed the crowd by failing to do anything extraordinary. The 300-pound former Louisiana State star, who has achieved 57 feet 1 inch outdoors, could do no better than 51 feet, 7 inches.

This was more than a foot short of Zaitz's winning mark of 52 feet, 7 1-2 inches, the best he has ever done, indoors or out, and only five inches under Torrance's world indoor mark made at Charlotte, N. C., last winter.

Torrance displayed a conspicuous lack of confidence in handling the leather-covered weight. It slipped away from him twice. On one occasion he sent several officials scurrying to safety as he let go a wild pitch.

O'Brien's smashing 500-yard race keeping his winning streak intact and wiping out a 12-year-old indoor mark, was the second world record victory of the meet.

Forrest Towns, lanky University of Georgia timber-topper, won the 60-yard high hurdles final in 7.3 seconds after equalling the former standard of 7.4 twice.

Chuck Hornbostel, former Indiana university runner, galloped off with the half-mile special for the Matt Halpin trophy, repeating his 1933 triumph. Hornbostel took command of the bell lap and sprinted home a dozen yards in front of Coleman Headly of the University of Maryland in 1:55.3.

Pennsylvania scored an exciting victory in a mile relay over Princeton and Yale, thanks to a smashing last quarter by Sawyer, who made up ten yards and whipped Bradley, the Tiger anchor, by a full stride.

The two-mile run developed a series of surprises. It was won by an outsider, Frank Nordell, the former New York university star, in the good time of 9:12.3 after Norman Bright of the Olympic club, San Francisco, had shot into a quarter-lap lead and looked to be making a runaway of the race.

Nordell overhauled Bright, with two laps to go, and won by a dozen yards. Bright, after also being passed by Joe McCluskey, uncorked a belated sprint to take second place, with McCluskey third and Joe Mundy of the Millrose A. A., fourth, a few yards in front of Harold Manning of Wichita, Kan.

Ray Sears of Butler, favorite and holder of the best mark ever made by an American for two miles, finished seventh and was never a contender.

Cornelius Johnson, Los Angeles negro and national high jump champion, asserted his supremacy for the first time during the current campaign of soaring over the bar at 6 feet, 8 inches, on his last of three attempts. This broke a deadlock with George Spitz of New York and Al Threadgill, Temple university negro, who tied for second place at 6 feet, 7 inches.

Johnson made two futile attempts to negotiate 6 feet, 9 inches for a new world indoor record.

Columbia's two-mile relay romped off with a decisive victory over Princeton and Yale. The Lions led all the way and had a 50-yard margin over the Tigers.

TIERNEY QUITS AS GIANTS SECRETARY

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—(AP)—James J. Tierney, secretary of the New York Giants for 15 years, resigned today.

Horace Stoneham, youthful president of the club, announced that Edward Brannick, one-time office boy who has been with the club 31 years, will succeed Tierney. Brannick has been assistant secretary.

Tierney's retirement is effective April 1.

Doctors Abandon Hope For Recovery Of Tade

Injured Football Star Never To Regain Health; Fund Started

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Three months ago doctors knew Herbie Tade had played his last game of football. Today, the same doctors, abandoned all hope for Tade's complete recovery.

Students at the University of Tennessee are battling to the limit for Tade—the Tade they knew as a courageous football player and mild-mannered classmate.

After an announcement by doctors that "it is doubtful if Tade will ever have his former personality," a committee composed in a majority of teammates, started a trust fund. The students will start their active campaign Monday.

Tade was injured in a goal line stand against the University of Kentucky on Thanksgiving day at Lexington, Ky. He played center that day and was the game's outstanding performer until he was carried from the field in the final quarter. Since then he has not left his bed. He has fought hard, he has been aided by many specialists in the medical profession, but the odds have been too great. Little hope was held for his life following the injury.

Tade's life is spent in a twilight zone of unreality. At times he understands what is spoken to him, and has often made replies. He is confined to the U-T infirmary.

Though certain improvements developed in the last two months in Tade's condition, physicians, provided by the university athletic council, tonight issued the following bulletin:

"Tade has improved to a certain point. Beyond this point he is not improving and further improvement is not expected. The chances are that he will improve some over a long period, and it is slightly possible, but very doubtful, that he will ever have his former personality. It is still more doubtful that he will have a normal physique. It is theoretically possible for Tade to make a great improvement, but we cannot expect him to approach his original state."

The trust fund was started Friday morning. Proceeds of games in Lexington and Knoxville were presented Tade. These proceeds amounted to $1,000.

The trust fund committee will solicit both students at the university and business men.

OLE MISS AGAIN TROUNCES L. S. U.

Red And Blue Quintet Takes Early Lead To Beat Tigers, 69-51

UNIVERSITY, Miss., Feb. 15.—(AP)—With Poole, Foose, and Clay giving one of their best court performances of the season, University of Mississippi ran away from L. S. U.'s Bengals in the second period tonight, and won 69-51.

Poole and Foose ran up a 6-0 lead before Bryan broke the ice for L. S. U. The Bengals led 16-15 at the middle of the first period, but Graham opened his chief scoring spurt to give the Red and Blue a lead it never relinquished. Half time score was 31-22.

Ole Miss took possession the second half, the six field goals by Poole featured a scoring drive that netted a 57-30 lead at mid period; but Bryan, a threat throughout and high point man for the evening with 25 points, led his mates in a rally that reduced the margin to 69-51 at the gun.

ISLAND BASKETBALL MEET OPENS FEB. 28

SICILY ISLAND, La., Feb. 15.—(Special)—The annual Island Invitation basketball tournament for boys and girls' high school teams will be held here February 28 and 29, with schools in Catahoula, LaSalle, Caldwell, Richland, Morehouse, Franklin, Tensas and Concordia parish having received invitations. Thirty invitations have been sent in all and at least 25 are expected to be accepted.

A trophy award will be made to the team surviving the finals in both the boys' and girls' divisions. Gold, silver and bronze awards will be made to three outstanding performers in the tourney.

C. B. Coney, principal of Sicily Island high school, has announced that plans are underway to make this meet bigger and better than all of the Island's past ventures.

All entries must be in by next Friday, at the latest, Mr. Coney announced. Drawings will take place on February 24 and all teams will be duly notified of their opponents and the time of playing.

JENA FIVE TO ENTER RALLY AT PINEVILLE

JENA, La., Feb. 15.—(Special)—Fresh from their winning of the trophy at the dual state tournament at Junction City, Ark., last week-end, the Jena high school Giants are looking forward to several games preparatory to entering the Central Louisiana rally at Louisiana college in Pineville next week.

Coach "Bud" Gaharan, who led the Giants to the national tournament at Chicago for two straight years, is predicting that Jena will go to the state tournament this year.

SANDLOT GROUPS PROPOSE MERGER

Amateur Baseball Organizations Argue Consolidation Plan

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Arguments for and against a consolidation of sandlot organizations occupied the attention of delegates to meetings of the National Amateur Baseball federation, the American Baseball congress and the Mid-South Amateur Athletic association here today.

Proponents of the new move argued that amateur baseball would be far better able to obtain adequate financial backing if all groups were consolidated.

Meanwhile, the National federation re-elected William T. Duggan of Cleveland as president, and elevated James A. Downey, Birmingham, to the vice presidency. Frank Novario, Cleveland, was re-elected secretary and treasurer.

Officers had not been announced for the other two organizations this afternoon, as most of their time had been taken up in discussions of eligibility rules and in considering the proposal for a single body to govern sandlot baseball.

Whether the proposed merger would be completed at these meetings remained in doubt its supporters said, even if final success is attained.

Cleveland, one of sandlot baseball's hotbeds, was virtually assured of the National federation's annual tournament. Tentative plans called for the beginning of games there Sept. 7 or 8.

Planis for sectional tournaments, to confine competition in the national event to top-flight clubs, were presented today, but no definite action was taken.

More than 100 delegates were here for the three meetings, many attended players' and umpires' clinics sponsored by the Birmingham federation host to the three groups.

ROSSI WRESTLES OLSON IN STADIUM BOUT

ROUGH GRAPPLERS BOOKED FOR CARD HERE WEDNESDAY

Bruscato Brings 'Swede' Back In Effort To Beat Italian Count

"Swede" Olson, former light heavyweight boxer, will return to Roosevelt stadium Wednesday night in an attempt to beat Count Rossi, the rough Italian, in the main event of the weekly wrestling show.

Olson made his local debut last week by giving Floyd Byrd, clever Kentuckian, a thorough going over and Promoter Charlie Bruscato immediately came to the conclusion that here was a roughhouse artist who would have a good chance of stopping the Italian "nobleman."

Rossi added another victim to his record last week by pounding Joe Gose into submission. Gose, a smooth working light heavy, appeared to have more than an even chance to beat the Italian until Rossi began to get in his dirty work. Then he methodically battered his foe into defeat, using numerous foul tactics that didn't go over so well with the crowd.

After Rossi had been declared the winner, the fans attempted to get at him as he made his belated escape from the ring, but the Italian suffered only a few bruises as he ran the gauntlet from the ring to the dressing room. Later, several fans followed Rossi to his hotel and waited for him to come out, but the "Count" fooled 'em and retired for the night.

Olson has an excellent chance to beat the Italian if he is as tough as he was against Byrd. The Swede also shows a total disregard for the rules and in that respect he will enter the ring on even terms with Rossi. Olson probably is more adept with his fists, as his training as a fighter stands him in good stead there.

The Nebraskan formerly campaigned in the middleweight boxing ranks, and then among the light heavyweights. He is said to have beaten Mickey Walker and lost a close decision to Tommy Loughran. After taking up wrestling for his ham and eggs, Olson is said to have defeated Hugh Nichols, former light heavyweight champion, and earned a draw with LeRoy McGuirk, present titleholder.

Frankly, the Swede didn't look so hot as a wrestler Wednesday night but he clicked acceptably as a barrelhouse grappler. After all, that's what it's going to take to stop the Italian, Bruscato believes.

The semi-final for Wednesday's card has not been booked, the promoter said, but Bruscato is seeking a couple of new faces to show the fans.

NEGRO BOXERS TO FIGHT AT STADIUM

Negro boxers of Monroe promise a stellar program tomorrow night when the Monroe Colored high school mittmen meet the City boxing team at Roosevelt stadium. The first bout is scheduled to start at 7:30 o'clock.

The feature battle will be between Joe Gully, 167, of the high school team, and R. P. Mason, 170, of the City aggregation. Gully claims the light-heavyweight championship of Louisiana negro schools and in three years of boxing has lost only one in 18 scraps. That one beating was at the hands of Mason three weeks ago.

"Little Jack" Johnson, 121, self-styled "king of street fights" who is boxing with City, faces Kid Napoleon, 120, in what is expected to rival the feature battle. Napoleon, a lefthander, has been in the ring only three times this year. He won two of those engagements by knockouts. But Johnson, one of the toughest little negroes of his size, is quoted as saying "just put me in the ring with that negro . . . I'll beat his block off."

Other bouts scheduled are "Papa" Winston, 112, City, vs. "Lefty" Hester, 112, high school; K. O. Godfrey, 146, City, vs. McDeo Williams, 142, high school; and "Young Joe Lewis" Smith, 178, high school, vs. Henry Webb, 170, City. Several preliminaries will also be fought.

HOWARD FIVE BEATS CHOCS BY ONE POINT

CLINTON, Miss., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Leading 24 to 14 at the half, the Howard college Bulldogs of Birmingham barely managed to check a Mississippi college scoring threat near the end of the game tonight to win over the Clinton cagers, 39 to 38.

Finely led the Bulldogs with 14 points, with Snell adding 11 points to the total.

Patty Berg's Winter Links Success Praised

CORAL GABLES, Fla. Feb 15.—(Special)—When Patty Berg, the Minneapolis comet of the links, blazed through a brilliant field here recently to win the annual Miami Biltmore Women's golf tournament, she earned not only plaudits but fine prophecies.

From a bevy of the fairer niblic swingers which included such well-known names as Mrs. Marion Turpie Lake, Maureen Orcutt Crews, Mrs. Opal S. Hill, Marian Miley and scores of others, Patty thrust her freckled Irish face far above. It was the largest field ever assembled for a Florida women's golf tournament and one of the largest in the history of women's contest golf, as 110 entries teed off in the qualifying round.

Patty, with a par-cracking round of 80 over one of the most difficult courses in America, bagged the medal three strokes better than her nearest rivals, two strokes under women's par and within a stroke of the women's course record.

O. B. Keeler of Atlanta, dean of American golf writers, praised Miss Berg with probably the finest of many orchids when he watched her drop the veteran Mrs. Hill, 1-up, in the semi-final, and remarked, "Here comes another Bobby Jones — in skirts."

It was Keeler who pointed the way to the heights for Atlanta Bobby, and his long association with the sport qualifies him to judge. None of the veteran writer's closest associates could recall previously hearing him evaluate a golfer, man or woman, as being on the same same plane with Jones.

There are many attributes to the 17-year-old Patty's success. As for her physical qualities, she has the thick, strong hands that play an enormous part in the success of any golfer's game. Broad shoulders top her muscular, boyish figure, and she has stamina.

Turning to the mental side of Patty Berg's golf success, the child has the ideal temperament, according to seasoned observers of good golf. She has patience and vision and the ability to think deeply. She studies out each shot to determine in her own mind just what will happen after she has struck the ball. Patty resolutely refuses to countenance "breaks." If a putt rims the cup or kicks out, it's her own fault—she didn't hit it right to Patty's way of thinking.

Miss Berg went to the final of the Women's National last summer, but was defeated by Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare, a disappointing climax that might have proved disastrous to the game of one with less fibre than Patty Berg.

Until four years ago, Patty knew only vaguely of golf as something her dad played every Saturday afternoon. Today, she is near the top, a brilliant future ahead—all because she has a stubborn, Irish determination that keeps her game constantly improving.

WISCONSIN FIRES BOTH MEANWELL AND DR. SPEARS

Athletic Director And Coach Ousted As Result Of Investigation

By E. L. Almen
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

MADISON, Wis., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Dr. Walter E. Meanwell, athletic director, and Dr. Clarence W. Spears, head football coach, storm centers of the University of Wisconsin's noisy athletic department war, were ordered dismissed today, effective July 1, by the board of regents.

Ouster of the two doctors, decreed to purge the department of discord, at the same time apparently created a new problem.

The action was taken in definace of a recommendation by the university athletic board, and a battle between the latter group and the regents appeared in the making.

The athletic board had reported in recommending retention of Meanwell and dismissal of Spears, that it would consider any other action "an invasion of its authority and tantamount to a denial of faculty control" of athletics. It insisted the main issue was whether athletics were to be controlled by the faculty, or be dictated by pressure groups outside the university, rather than the battle between Meanwell and Spears."

Dismissal of Dr. Meanwell precipitated the resignations of the four faculty members of the athletic board. The student member said he also would resign.

Three of the 11 members of the board of regents opposed Spears' removal. All voted that Meanwell be ousted.

Along with firing the two doctors, the regents ordered dismissal of Trainer William (Billy) Fallon, and urged a general Western conference investigation into intercollegiate athletics, especially football, with a view to correction of "existing evils." They said conditions which produced Wisconsin's trouble were prevalent at other institutions in the Big Ten.

Differences between Meanwell and Spears which brought about athletic board and regents' investigations, existed before both became candidates for the athletic directorship two years ago. They did not come into the open, however, until John Golemgeske, captain-elect of the 1936 football team, stated he had been encouraged by Meanwell to petition among football players for Spears' removal.

Meanwell denied having sought the football coach's dismissal through Golemgeske's petition, and said the latter had brought him reports that members of the squad were dissatisfied with Spears. The investigations produced fireworks in the form of charges that Meanwell gave liquor to two football players, and counter-charges that Spears had condoned the use of liquor as a stimulant during games. Fallon admitted administering liquor to players, but said it was done at Spears' suggestion. This Spears denied.

Meanwell became athletic director in 1934. Spears testified he had been assured the post when he consented to leave the University of Oregon in 1932 to come to Wisconsin. Spears, an all-America lineman at Dartmouth, coached successfully at his alma mater, West Virginia and Minnesota, before going to Oregon.

MUSTANGS TO MEET VANDERBILT IN 1937

DALLAS, Feb. 15. — (AP) — James Stewart, director of athletics at Southern Methodist university, announced completion of arrangements today by which the Mustangs will meet the Vanderbilt university Commodores in 1937 as well as in 1936.

Several weeks ago S. M. U. announced the Mustangs would play the Commodores in a football game in the Cotton Bowl at the Texas Centennial exposition on Oct. 17, 1936. The 1937 game probably will be played in the Cotton Bowl also, Stewart said, certainly so if the exposition is held over for a second year.

The Commodore coach, Ray Morrison, formerly coached the S. M. U. "aerial circus," being succeeded by Matty Bell. Bell in his first year as head coach led the Mustangs through an undefeated and untied season of 12 games and into the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Calif., on New Year's day. There Stanford won.

COACHING SCHOOL FACULTY IS NAMED

FORT WORTH, Texas, Feb. 15.—(AP)—The faculty for the annual coaching school of the Texas High School Coaches' association, to be held in Dallas Aug. 3-8, has been completed, H. N. (Rusty) Russell of Masonic Home, president of the association, announced Saturday.

Coach Francis Schmidt of Ohio State, and Coach Bernie Moore of Louisiana State, will be the lecturers on general questions. Raymond (Bear) Wolf of T. C. U. will give line play and Matty Bell of S. M. U. will lecture on defense. J. B. Whitworth, assistant at L. S. U., will assist Moore.

from active duty this year, he probably will be forced to call on Joe Morrissey, up from Toronto, where he hit .272 last year, or Charley Uhas, a free agent from Cleveland.

Washington is faced with replacing Heinie Manush, the outfielder sent to Boston. Of course, Carl Reynolds, acquired from the Red Sox in the deal will fill in the Dutchman's place, but if he flops—he hit only .270 last year—Bucky Harris probably will call on Dee Miles, a swift rookie from Chattanooga, who swatted .344 last season.

Giants May Miss Parmelee

In the National league, the Braves and the Phillies can be passed off with the remark that they ought to go out and get whole new teams, although the Boston bunch especially needs pitchers who can make up for the loss of Frankhouse and Brandt.

Bill Terry is going to find it tough to find a replacement for Tarzan Parmelee, despite the fact that he gave up on the fireball flinger and traded him to the Cards for Burgess Whitehead. The replacement may come in the person of Clem Dreisewerd, a southpaw who pitched 41 consecutive scoreless innings in the Middle Atlantic league year before last. He comes up from Nashville.

Brooklyn probably will have to get a better first-string receiver than Babe Phelps before the season is far gone. The Blimp is not the catcher Al Lopez was. Stengel has two rookie receivers in camp, Ray Berries from Sacramento and Walt Millies from Chattanooga.

Chicago must replace Freddie Lindstrom, even though he didn't play the entire 1935 season. Tuck Stainback is by no means a sensational outfielder, and the job may fall to Johnny Gill, the oft-tried minor leaguer.

The Cards, due to Bill DeLancey's illness, need a new catcher. Ogrodowski, up from Columbus, is labeled a coming major league star, and Frisch probably will give him plenty of work this year.

Frankie is plenty worried about second base, too. With Whitehead gone, and his own pins not as young as they once were, the former Fordham Flash doesn't figure to play the full season and may have to depend on Lyle Judy, sensational minor league base stealer.

Reds Work At First

Pepper Martin is going to the outfield, and Frisch will be forced to gamble further by putting Charley Gelbert, coming back after a shotgun wound three years ago, at third.

Cincinnati's problem lies at first. Jim Bottomley is on the way out, and George McQuinn, who comes up from the Yankee farm at Newark, and Les Scarsella from Wilmington will battle for the job.

The Pirates have troubles, too. Pie Traynor isn't going to play third base very long, and the job of filling that spot will fall to either Cookie Lavagetto or Wilbur Brubaker. Then, too, Lloyd Waner's recent pneumonia attack may prevent him from playing until mid-season. If "Little Poison" doesn't get into the game, Fred Schulte, acquired from Washington on waivers, probably will fill in.

WRESTLING CHAMP IS PUNISHED FOR ALLEGED 'RUNOUT'

Danno Claims He Was Ill Before Scheduled Match At Galveston

FRIARS POINT, Miss., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Col. Harry J. Landry, president of the National Wrestling association, announced tonight the organization's suspension of Danno O'Mahoney as heavyweight wrestling champion on the complaint of Commissioner F. E. Nichols of Texas that the champion "failed to go through with a match" at Galveston Feb. 8.

Col. Landry said the suspension was effective in 37 states, Cuba, Canada and Porto Rico pending O'Mahoney's appearing before a Texas commission to answer the charges.

The suspension of the National Wrestling association does not vacate the title, Col. Landry said. The action was taken today.

The association president, Col. Landry explained, does not have the power to suspend an athlete or vacate a title, but intervenes after complaint of a state commission. Permanent suspension must follow a formal hearing of charges.

Following the complaint of the Texas commissioner, Landry said he interviewed O'Mahoney at Memphis last Monday and that O'Mahoney explained he did not appear for the scheduled Galveston match because he was ill.

Landry said he verified O'Mahoney's claim that he was suffering from a stomach ailment through the physician for the Tennessee athletic commission.

"I honored the suspension," Landry said, "because it was my duty after the Texas commissioner requested it. All such action must originate with a state commission."

In view of the fact that the world's heavyweight champion was involved, Landry said, he did not act with undue haste and that efforts would be made to "work out an agreement."

However, he said O'Mahoney would have to appear before the Texas commission to answer the charges and "to satisfy them." The time of the hearing will be set by the complainants.

The charges against O'Mahoney came through Commissioner Nichols of the Texas bureau of labor statistics which controls athletics in that state, Landry said.

NICHOLS GRATIFIED

HOUSTON, Texas, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Fred E. Nichols, Texas wrestling commissioner, said today that Danno O'Mahoney, worlds champion grappler, had been suspended in the more than 30 states affiliated with the National Wrestling association for allegedly "running out" of a match with Juan Humberto at Galveston a week ago.

Nichols said he was notified of the suspension in a telegram from Harry J. Landry of Friars Point, Miss., president of the National Wrestling association.

Immediately after the Galveston incident, Nichols suspended the mat champion and his manager and declared O'Mahoney's title vacant in Texas. He called on Landry to make this punishment effective in all states affiliated with the association and also advised the N. W. A. president that anyone claiming the title by virtue of a victory over O'Mahoney would be barred from Texas.

Nichols expressed gratification at Landry's action.

"I still think Colonel Landry should have suspended O'Mahoney immediately after I talked with him by telephone last Monday," he said. "However, it is better late than never. I can't imagine a real champion running out of a match."

Jack McGrath, his manager, and O'Mahoney claimed that the champion was not scheduled to wrestle in Galveston last Saturday night.

EAST TEXAS LEAGUE SEEKS EIGHT CLUBS

DALLAS, Texas, Feb. 15—(AP)—Walter Morris, president of the East Texas league, said today a meeting would be held tomorrow night at Marshall to expand the circuit to eight clubs.

Jacksonville, Palestine, Gladewater, Longview, Henderson and Tyler now form the six-club league, but Morris said he hoped to add Marshall and Kilgore to the list.

REVOLTA RETAINS LEAD IN GEORGIA TOURNEY WITH 137

Barron Shatters Course Record With 64 To Tie For Second Place

By Kenneth Gregory
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

THOMASVILLE, Ga., Feb. 15.—Sensational shot making over a soggy battle ground and a day of stroking that saw the course record shattered by two strokes, ended this afternoon as a rainstorm swept the Glen Arven layout with Johnny Revolta of Milwaukee still in front of the field in the Thomasville $3,000 open golf tournament.

Shortly before Revolta, national P. G. A. champion, and leading money winner of 1935, completed the second 18 holes of the 72-hole grind with a neat 68, Herman Barron, ranking Jewish professional from White Plains, N. Y., shattered the course record with a spectacular 64, eight strokes under par.

Revolta's total of 137 at the midpoint of the tournament gave him a one-stroke lead over the field, with Barron and Victor Ghezzi of Deal, N. J., who earlier in the day equalled the course record with a 33-33—66, in a deadlock for second place with 138's.

Barron's 64 was the lowest score recorded in any of the winter tournaments thus far.

Barron's round was by far the best golf of the opening half of the tournament. He clipped six strokes from par on the outgoing nine, collecting six birdies, and toured the incoming layout in 34, getting two birdies. He barely missed a birdie on the 36th hole.

Revolta, who led the field yesterday with a 69, had six birdies in his second round. He was out in 33 and returned with a 35, shattering par by four strokes and maintaining his position as favorite for the top prize of $700.

The final 36 holes of the tournament will be played tomorrow. Scores of many of the leading pros skyrocketed today, but at least seven ranking shotmakers were within striking distance after completion of the first 36 holes.

Ralph Beach of Baltimore, third after yesterday's round with a 71, carded a 72 today for a total of 143 and was five strokes back of Ghezzi and Barron. Tony Penna of Pensacola, Fla., whose first round 70 left him only a stroke behind Revolta yesterday, took a 75 today and dropped to sixth place.

RAYVILLE FIVE WINS PARISH CAGE TITLE

RAYVILLE, La., Feb. 15.—(Special)—The Rayville Hornets won the Richland parish basketball championship Friday night by defeating Start, 23-10. The Hornets had beaten Delhi Thursday night in the first round of the tournament and Start had disposed of Mangham.

Rayville began the season with an inexperienced squad of boys and up until last week, had been able to win only one game. In the last week they played and won four games. Their showing has been remarkable, considering the improvement they have made. This was clearly demonstrated Thursday when they defeated Delhi. In a previous game, Delhi had defeated Rayville over thirty points.

The game Friday night was hard fought and although Start was beaten, they played a great game. Their captain and star guard, Eppinette, was one of the best players seen here this season.

CAVALCADE, HEAD PLAY WITHDRAWN FROM ANITA 'CAP

Racing's Largest Crowd Expected To See $112,000 Classic

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 15.—(AP)—The biggest crowd in the history of the track was predicted tonight for the running next Saturday of the world's richest horse race—the $112,000 Santa Anita handicap.

Officials of the Los Angeles Turf club hope to cram more than 65,000 spectators into the huge Arcadia park.

Eighty-two thoroughbreds were nominated for the handicap, greatest turf attraction in the west. The starting field, however, hardly is expected to reach the even 20 that went to the post in the 1935 inaugural race.

Mrs. Isobel Dodge Sloane's Cavalcade and Mrs. Silas B. Mason's Head Play were declared out of the race today, the former because of foot injuries, and Head Play because he was not ready. Cavalcade has been ailing for some time, but not until today was his definite withdrawal announced.

Tommy Taylor, Mrs. Mason's trainer, said continued mud on the track made training of Head Play difficult. Head Play won three handicaps at Santa Anita last year and conquered Discovery in the Suburban handicap at Belmont last spring.

Previously Ladysman, runner-up in the 1935 handicap, was declared out because of a torn ligament. His handlers entertain a ray of hope, however, that he may go postward after all.

Last year 45,000 persons saw the handicap, with its field of brilliant candidates.

One week ago nearly 50,000 witnessed the San Antonio handicap, and saw Time Supply, Pompey's Pillar, Ariel Cross and Rosemont outdistance the drawing card of the event, Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Discovery.

Azucar's 1935 win was worth $108,400 to Owner Alger. The $100,000 purse and added money this year will reach around $112,000.

Azucar, Time Supply, Top Row, Head Play and Riskulus, are back again for the handicap this year. All are considered almost certain starters, along with Discovery, Flamenco, Rosemont, Whopper, Pompey's Pillar, Mary, Thursday, First Minstrel, Ariel Cross, Preeminent, and possibly Tick On.

MRS. HILL RALLIES TO WIN AT NASSAU

NASSAU, Bahamas, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Mrs. Opal S. Hill, of Kansas City, women's western open golf champion, annexed the British colonial women's tournament today with a spectacular rally to conquer young Peggy Wattles, Buffalo, N. Y., one up in 36 holes.

Completing the first 18 holes one up, Mrs. Hill lost four of the next five holes to Miss Wattles, who held her three-hole lead through the 31st. Halving the 32nd, Mrs. Hill then recovered brilliantly the remaining four holes and the match.

CANZONERI KAYOES HOGAN IN FOURTH

Hogan was floored twice, in the second round and in the third before he finally took the full count after 2:26 of the fourth.

GRIMM WORRIED OVER WARNEKE'S 'SORE ARM' TALE

Cub Pilot Wants To Know Whether Hurler Was Joking Or Not

By Paul Mickelson
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

CHICAGO, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Manager Charlie Grimm, a great joker himself when he isn't out on the third base coaching line shouting for base hits, was in deep misery today because he wasn't exactly sure of Lonnie Warneke's Ozark humor.

Lon Warneke

En route by automobile to the Cub spring training camp in California, the star right hander, a very droll fellow at times, stopped off at Phoenix, Arizona, long enough to get a tank full of gas and to impart the information to a newspaper reporter that he was worried about the condition of his pitching arm which fell limp in the fifth game of last fall's world series. Grimm read it in the morning papers with a sinking heart.

"I don't know whether to laugh or cry," moaned Grimm. "But I'm hoping hard it's just another of Lon's little jokes. If his arm is still bad and stays that way, it'll be the worst blow we could take. Losing him would be like falling into a 20-game losing streak."

Well aware of Warneke's jokes and habits Grimm said he hopes the Phoenix report came about like this:

"Lon probably was asked about his pitching arm one thousand times since that world series game. He got sick of answering and assuring everyone that his arm was okay. When he was asked about it again, he probably said the opposite for a joke. Right now, I hope, he is laughing about this commotion.

"The last word I had from him was that his arm was as good as ever. He wrote that he had pitched five innings in an exhibition and that the arm felt great. Anyway if the arm was ailing I should think he would notify this office first of all. Yet you can't tell about him. He's a big, rugged, quiet fellow who likes to solve his own problems."

Loss of Warneke, who won 20 games last season together with the two Cub victories in the world series unquestionably would blast the Cub pennant hopes for 1936. Ever since his first big season in 1932 when he was given a regular starter's assignment and won 22 games and lost but six the pride of Mt. Ida, Ark., has been the chief reliance of the champions' hurling staff. Against the Tigers last fall, he pitched 16 2-3 innings, allowing nine hits and only two runs.

L. S. U. MITTMEN BATTLE MAROONS

Tigers Expect Stiffest Opposition Of Season Monday Night

BATON ROUGE, La., Feb. 15—(Special)—Facing their stiffest opposition of the season when they tackle Mississippi State's boxers, Louisiana State's mittsters have been training unusually hard for the M. S.-L. S. U. ring meet here Monday night. Coach Ed Khoury, of L. S. U., rates the Mississippians the most difficult team to beat the Tigers have met this year and figures that if L. S. U. wins over the Maroons the Tigers stand an excellent chance of retaining their Southeastern conference ring championship won in 1935.

L. S. U. is particularly strong in the lighter weights, but Mississippi State is conceded to hold a decided edge over the Tigers in the heavier divisions. It is anticipated by L. S. U. supporters that Fred O'Bannon, Tiger knockout artist in the welterweight division will be extended for the first time this season by the Maroon entry. O'Bannon has managed to finish off each of his opponents of this year within two rounds. His latest victory was achieved in just 30 seconds when L. S. U. met Ole Miss recently.

Another hard-punching Tiger expected to give an excellent account of himself is Earl Dugas, middleweight, Dugas, known as a "club" boxer, because he's always willing to take a blow to land one, also is undefeated this season.

Outstanding among L. S. U.'s men in the heavier divisions is Jimmy Shannon Blakeman, conference middleweight champion. He is undefeated for two years and figures to go through this year's severe ring campaign without a loss.

Emile Khoury, brother of Coach Khoury, will represent L. S. U. in the heavyweight class. Short of stature, Emile always is at a decided disadvantage against heavier, rangier boxers, but he has shown in every bout this year that he's a dngerous foeman for any college heavyweight.

S'WESTERN RELAY CARNIVAL TO DRAW STAR TRACK MEN

With Olympics In Offing, 1936 Event Likely To Surpass Others

LAFAYETTE, La., Feb. 15.—(Special)—With the Olympic trials in the offing and coveted places on the American team dangling before the eyes of hundreds of southern track and field stars, the tenth annual Southwestern Relay carnival scheduled for April 4, has taken on added significance in the opinion of sports writers, track coaches and athletes from Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas.

Now recognized as the first real test of ability during the opening weeks of the track season, the carnival has assumed larger proportions and plans for expansion of this gala athletic show are being made by Director of the Carnival R. L. Browne, it is announced this week. The relays, brain child of genial Bob Browne, head track coach at Southwestern Louisiana institute, were first held back in 1926. Louisiana State university, Louisiana Normal, Loyola, Southwestern and Louisiana college were the only colleges entered in that year and the bulk of the records were set by L. S. U. and Southwestern. The response from the high schools that first year were astounding, but it wasn't until three years later that the high school section of the carnival became the outstanding event of the prep school season.

Each year the relays have grown, but this year for the first time, accommodations for spectators and competitors have become a problem to officials in charge of the meet. College teams from Texas, Texas A. & M., Rice institute, Stephen F. Austin, Sam Houston, East Texas State Teachers, and college teams from Louisiana, Tulane, L. S. U., Louisiana college, Southwestern, Louisiana Tech and Loyola have had their names on the registry during the past ten years, but this year the invitation list will include every major university and college in the gulf states.

Added to the list of universities and colleges will be the cream of prep school talent from Louisiana, Mississippi and Texas. Port Arthur, Beaumont, Bolton, Lake Charles, Jesuits of New Orleans, Fortier of New Orleans, Lake Charles and Baton Rouge are only a few of the major prep schools which have attended the carnival every year.

Many of the south's leading stars have at one time or another competed for honors. Glenn Hardin, famed Louisiana "greyhound" and 1936 Olympic prospect, Jack Torrance, giant ex-L. S. U. weight tosser and holder of the world's record for the shot put, Johnny Morriss and Al Moreau, internationally famous hurdlers; Roland Romero, Dudley Wilkins and Sid Bowman, nationally known runners, Emmet Toppino, one time speed king of the United States; Herman Neuross, Billy Roy, Hank Irwin and Smoky Brothers, are a few of the celebrities of track and field who have opened their track campaigns here in Lafayette.

Spectacular and always colorful, the Southwestern relays have attracted visitors from throughout the south, and this year should prove no exception. With improved highways leading into Lafayette from every leading city in Louisiana the crowd anticipated for the 1936 meet should surpass any previous attendance record.

Cotton

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Lower Liverpool cables and reported heavy selling in foreign markets today caused a weak start on the cotton market here and prices continued to sag until the close which was barely steady showing net declines of 7 to 9 points.

The late weakness was attributed to hedge selling and long liquidation in the market here which pressed March down to 11.22, or 9 points below the previous close and dropped May to 10.86 and July to 10.18.

At the lows of the day prices were 8 to 9 points below the close of yesterday.

Exports today were only 920 bales.

New York Stocks

By Victor Eubank
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—(AP)—After a hesitant start, the stock market was given a substantial lift today by a rally in the steels, rails and specialties.

At the firm close gains of fractions to a point or more predominated, with a number of issues settling in new high territory for the past several years. Transfers approximated 1,350,000 shares.

U. S. Steel led the upturn as Wall Street entertained high hopes of expanding mill operations during the coming week. The carriers and various other stocks apparently were motivated by expectations of larger earnings based on current activities. The utilities just about held their own, with various traders in these equities adjourning to the sidelines pending a possible TVA supreme court decision Monday.

Cotton was inclined to slip and grains moved in a restricted range. Bonds were steady. Foreign exchanges were moderately higher in terms of the dollar.

Some of the low-priced motors, especially Packard, were unusually lively. Outstanding gainers, aside from "big steel," including Republic Steel, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Bethlehem, Sharon Steel, Electric Auto-Lite, Northern Pacific, N. Y Central, Southern Pacific, Commercial Solvents, Omnibus Corp., Westinghouse, American Can, American Smelting, Kennecott, Howe Sound and International Nickel. Friendliness for scattered mines reflected yesterday's boost in the domestic copper rate.

Trade advices indicated merchandising sales have been sharply curtailed in many sections as heavy snows and low temperatures prevented customers from reaching purchasing points.

On the optimistic side, the F. W. Dodge Corp. reported building projects in 37 states east of the Rocky Mountains during January were up 105 per cent over the total for the same month last year.

The agricultural department also estimated a 50 per cent increase in the value of farm livestock, as of January 1, despite the decline in numbers of all types except hogs.

That the public continues automobile-conscious was seen in the announcement of the commerce department that reported motor car financing in December amounted to $154,382,330, the highest since April, last. The aggregate compared with $136,160,556 in November and $37,951,278 in December, 1934.

Sales were 3,100 tons.

Refined was quiet and unchanged at 4.65 for fine granulated.

NOE WILL BE HONOR GUEST OF 40 AND 8 WRECK, FEBRUARY 29

A south Louisiana wreck of the Forty and Eight, fun organization of the American Legion, will be held in honor of Governor James A. Noe, of Monroe, on Saturday, February 29, at New Orleans, according to notification received here by Wayne H Huckaby, chef de gare of Voiture 168 of Monroe.

Mr. Huckaby was invited to attend the wreck with a representation of members of the local voiture. All other voitures of the state are invited to send representatives to the wreck. Members of the Forty and Eight who plan to attend the program are requested to send a registration fee of $1.25 to Correspondent C. T. Dupuis, Room. No. 1005 Canal Bank building, New Orleans, before February 21.

The program of the wreck will begin at 5 p.m. at the American Legion club, Royal and Conti streets. A supper and floor show will complete the schedule of entertainment.

Governor Noe, a captain in the United States overseas forces during the World war, is a member of the Forty and Eight.

RED CROSS CHAPTER IS SEEKING MEMBERS

Announcement was made Saturday morning by Mrs. W. C. Holstein, executive secretary of the Ouachita parish Red Cross chapter, that efforts will be exerted at once through a special committee named at Friday's meeting to contact persons in an effort to obtain more members and to raise approximately $1,000, the amount of shortage of the sum that was established in 1935 as the annual budget.

She explained that it is vitally essential that this sum be raised so the various projects can be carried out as proposed. The committee in charge of this work comprises S. L. Digby, Ernest Holloway, Berney Oakland, Louis Landry and Mrs. Joe McCormick.

The money is sought to carry out an extensive program during the coming months, which will be in charge of the newly-elected officers headed by C. R. Tidwell, chairman. Other officers are Mrs. D. C. Metcalf, vice-chairman; Parker McComb, secretary, and Albert Horuff, treasurer.

NEW JENA HIGH SCHOOL WORK TO BE BEGUN SOON

JENA, La., Feb. 15.—(Special)—Arrangements for beginning construction of the new high school building in Jena have been perfected and work is expected to start within the next week or ten days. All material has been ordered and the WPA has arranged for a crew of men to start to work as soon as possible.

The new building, which is to cost $30,423.77, only $6,700 of which is to be paid by the LaSalle parish school board, will be 280 feet long and will be of frame construction. It will contain nine class rooms, four rooms for home economics work, a large study hall, an auditorium and gymnasium and the principal's office. The federal government will pay the remainder of the cost of the construction. It is hoped that the building will be ready for occupancy before the opening of the next term of school.

RECONDITIONED ENGINES POPULAR

Ford Plan Of Exchange On V-8 Motors Is Convenient And Economical

Many truck and commercial car owners and bus operators are finding the engine and parts exchange plan of the Ford Motor company decidedly advantageous both as to convenience and economy, according to Ford officials. Records show that more than 175,000 reconditioned V-8 engines have been purchased under the plan by owners of trucks, commercial cars and buses.

Under the exchange plan, block-tested factory reconditioned engine cylinder assemblies are obtainable at low cost in exchange for the used engine. Many vital parts, such as carburetors, generators, distributors, fuel pumps, and clutch disc assemblies, all reconditioned to new part specifications are also offered.

Both convenience and economy are served by the plan, according to testimonials of commercial car users. The ready installation of the reconditioned engines eliminates tie-ups of equipment, and since the cost is less than the average cost of an engine overhaul, maintenance charges are reduced, according to letters from owners.

Among truck and bus operators who point out that the plan eliminates tie-ups are R. L. Schoenberger, superintendent of highways at Princeton, Ill., and the Stroudsburg Ice and Cold Storage company of Stroudsburg, Pa., and the Kelly Theaters company of Iola, Kas. Lower maintenance costs are emphasized by the Pittsburgh Transport and Storage company, Pittsburgh, Pa.; the Sedro-Woolley-Mt. Vernon Stage company of Anacortes, Wash., and the Schappi Bus Line of Calumet City, Ill.

The Schappi company reports that a motor change was made at 59,400 miles and no additional expenses have been incurred since. The Anacortes company states that no money was spent for repairs on its first Ford bus up to 88,000 miles and that a motor change was then made.

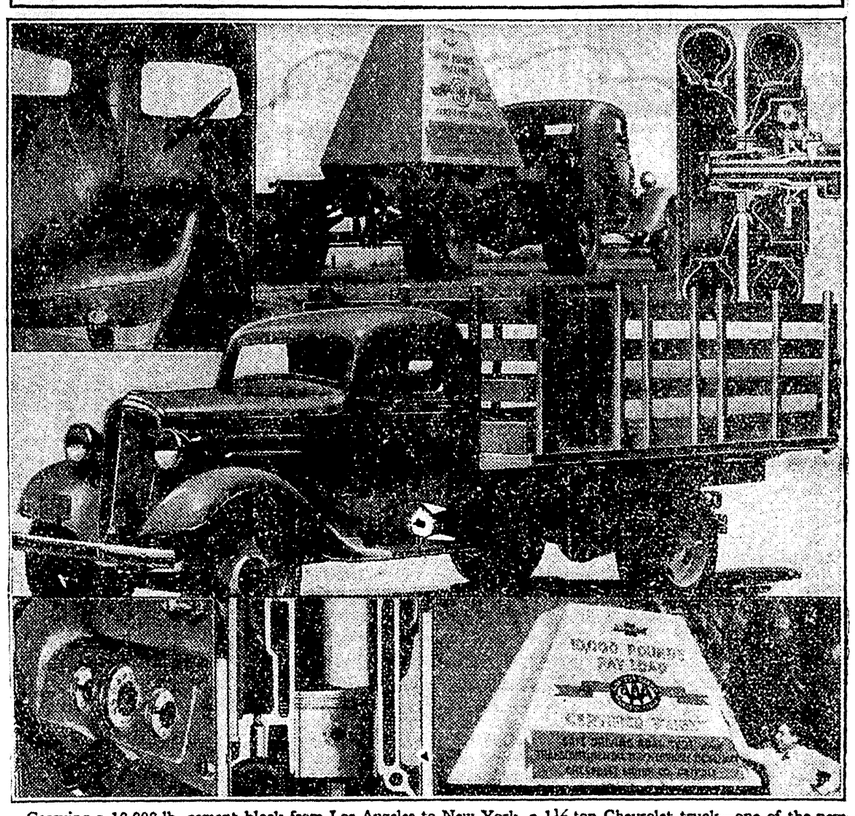
Other truck owners who have reported favorably on the convenience and economy of the plan include D. S. Robertson, who operates a truck from Statesboro to Savannah, Ga.; Leroy Pitcher, a milk dealer, of Logan, Utah; the Square Deal Oil company of St. Louis, Mo.; the Boteler Packing company of Jackson, Miss.; and the Globe Grain and Milling company of Los Angeles, Calif.

E. J. Brooks of Fullerton, Calif., reports that one motor exchange enabled him to operate his truck 220,000 miles carrying hay, lumber, grain and cottonseed into and out of the Imperial Valley with temperatures as high as 128 in the shade.

Maurice L. Vermillion of Elkridge, Md., reports operating a Ford truck 90,000 miles, and then installing at low cost a reconditioned motor which, from previous experience, he expects to run another 90,000 miles practically without additional expense.

Reich postoffice figures show that 8,700 newspapers are being published in Germany today while 11,300 were printed in 1933. The number of daily copies sent through the mails has shrunk from 1,400,000 to a round million.

New Chevrolet Truck on Economy-Safety Run



Carrying a 10,000-lb. cement block from Los Angeles to New York, a 1½-ton Chevrolet truck—one of the new 1936 models just introduced—demonstrated that safe driving means economy. Speed limits were observed in every community, with 35 m.p.h. the maximum on the open road. The 3511.4 miles were completed on two quarts of oil and 308.6 gallons of gasoline, at a cost of 01.6 cents per mile, or one-third of a cent per ton mile. The entire run was completed without any mechanical failure, repairs, or even a scratched fender. The illustrations show the test truck and features of the new 1936 models. Coupe type cabs with solid steel roof, full-floating rear axle, and full-length water jackets, are some of the improvements. In the lower right, Harry Hartz, who drove the cross-continent test, is seen beside the 10,000-lb. block. The test was officially observed by the American Automobile Association.

USE THE WANT-AD MARKET···Complete, Convenient, Reliable

Notice On Newspaper Classified Page Requests Enlistments

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—(AP)—An army unit resorted to the newspaper "Want Ads" today to obtain needed recruits.

The 12th infantry battalion, stationed at Fort Washington, Maryland, near the capital, published in a Washington newspaper the following advertisement in the "Help Wanted—Male" column:

"Army Service—Vacancies for a few men now exist in machine gun company, 12th infantry, Ft. Washington, Maryland. Must be excellent character. Age 18 to 25. Apply Army Recruiting Station, 1300 C street, N. W., or Ft. Washington, Md."

Army officials explained the battalion's strength probably had been depleted recently by enlistment expirations and that the garrison took this means of filling its ranks while general army recruiting is in abeyance.

General recruiting has been stopped temporarily for some time because the army's over-all quota for new recruits has been filled.

Officers said the same method had been used before in rare instances by individual army units needing new men. The want ad, it was said, was paid for out of the battalion's own funds.

CENSUS TAKER NAMED

WILL OF EDISON'S SON RULED VOID

Provisions Of Hand-Written Testament Nullified By Court

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Supreme Court Justice Charles B. McLaughlin held today that a holographic will left by the late Thomas A. Edison, Jr., son of the inventor, is void.

The will gave his widow 80 per cent of a $140,000 trust fund established for the son by his father. The court ruled, however, that the widow, Beatrice Edison, is entitled to 50 per cent of the trust, plus $10,000 under the Interstate laws of New York state.

The court declared unwarranted the contention of five brothers and sisters of the junior Edison that his widow could not be considered a next of kin under the terms of the trust agreement.

Under the decision, each of the brothers and sisters will receive one-fifth of the remainder of the trust.

SECRET OF WHIRLING FISH, NON-FREEZING STREAM IS REVEALED

TEWKSBURY, Mass., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Police Chief Cyril Barker said today he had solved the mystery of fish that whirled in tailspins in a brook that never froze.

Great quantities of mash and alcohol ran through the brook, he said, from a barn in which a large still was operating illegally.

His curiosity led him to the Brookside barn yesterday. He found drainage from the plant went directly into the bordering stream.

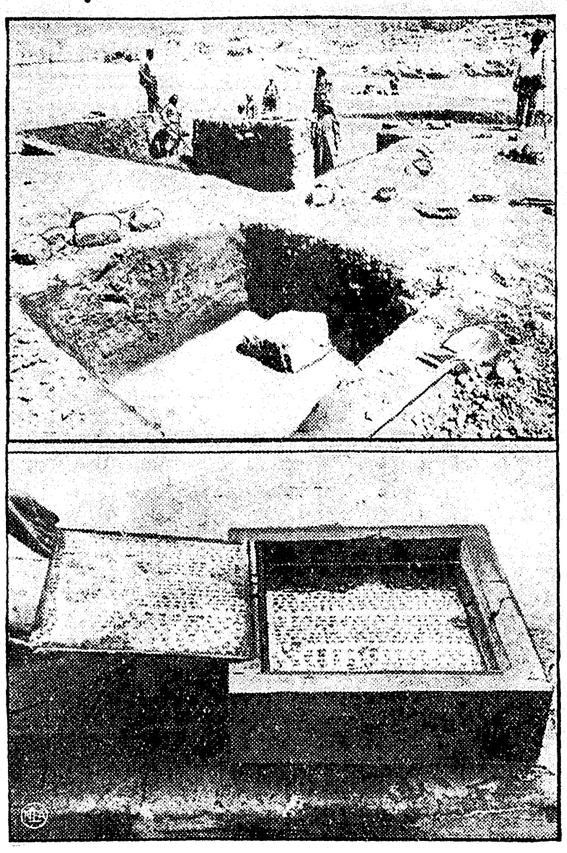
The nameless brook is the only body of water in this section which has remained open during three weeks of extreme cold.

EMBEZZLEMENT CHARGED TO WEST MONROE MAN

Charged with appropriating insurance premiums which he had collected, to his own use, Z. A. Franks, West Monroe, former representative for the Reliance Industrial Life Insurance company, was arrested Saturday by the sheriff's department on a warrant charging embezzlement of $51, which was sworn out by G. H. Holland, who represents the insurance company here. Franks was placed in the parish jail when he failed to make bond, which was set at $350.

Lonnie Lutrick was returned here from Columbia yesterday and placed in the Ouachita parish jail on a charge of non-support.

PLAQUES BARE TALE OF OLD PERSIA



Four solid gold and silver plaques, shining as brightly as the day they were laid away, 2,400 years ago, and telling of the vast empire over which Darius the Great then reigned—this was the most recent "find" of rare value during the excavation of the "Versaillies" of ancient Persia—the Great Palace of Persepolis—by scientists of the Oriental institute of the University of Chicago. These pictures were taken by the institute, the upper one showing the scene of the find. In the pit, in foreground, a stone covers one of the two limestone boxes, believed cornerstone deposits, housing the plaques, inscriptions on which were incised in three languages: Old Persian, Elamite and Babylonian.

FAMOUS CHORUS TO COME HERE

Will Appear At Neville High School On Night Of March 3

The Neville high school "band mothers" have just completed arrangements for the appearance here on the night of March 3, at the high school auditorium, of the Russian chorus which is directed by Margarita Slaviansky, who is internationally famous. This chorus appeared in Monroe about five years ago and at that time made a hit with the music loving public. The performance will be in the nature of a benefit, the net proceeds being devoted to the equipping of the band members with uniforms.

This chorus ranks as one of the oldest choral organizations in the world. It was organized in Russia 75 years ago under the able direction of Dmitry Slaviansky and his daughter, Margarita Slaviansky, the present director.

It has been said of them that they are the "Undisputed Peers of Choral Harmony" and one of the slogans given them by a famous critic on the Pacific coast is "In All the World No Singers Like These." Their programs are declared versatile, fiery, characteristically Russian, and performed in gorgeous costumes.

With special lighting effects, their programs are called extremely colorful and fast moving, with an unusual eye and ear appeal to persons of all classes, from the highly educated concert patron to those who know nothing of music.

The accompanist and one of the soloists is Mara Slaviansky, daughter of the conductor of the chorus.

Due to the fact that the chorus is at present touring the United States it has been possible to secure their presence in Monroe.

CHORUS DIRECTOR

MME. M. SLAVIANSKY

TWO AUTO COLLISIONS

Automobile accidents reported to the police Saturday included a collision between cars driven by H. O. Smith of Alto and Zelma Davis, negro. The accident occurred at the corner of Wood and Catalpa streets, with no damage reported. Cars driven by W. Potts Clark and Mrs. A. C. Bennett were involved in a collision at the intersection of Pine and North Third streets. The automobiles were reported to have been only slightly damaged.

TRIBUTE IS PAID TO 'COIN' HARVEY

Ozark Mountain Folk Bury One-Time Presidential Candidate

MONTE NE, Ark., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Five hundred neighbors of the Ozarks mountain country attended funeral rites here today for William Hope "Coin" Harvey at which Attorney W. B. Holyfield, Rogers attorney, said in a eulogy thta "his labors will help restore the security and happiness of his people."

The services were held under overcast skies with occasional snow flakes falling on the flower covered casket before it was placed in a stone crypt in the Valley of Monte Ne, where his son, Halliday, was buried in 1905.

Holyfield paid tribute to the writings of Harvey, one time candidate for the presidency who died Tuesday.

"Adorned with logic, simplicity and understanding, he was not a visionary theorist nor a utopian dreamer but directed his thought and pressed with merciless logic the fallacies and wrongs of avarice," Holyfield said.

A group of neighbors were the pallbears. Harvey's son, Tom Harvey of Huntington, West Viriginia, and Harvey's second wife, whom he married seven years ago, accompanied the body to the grave, adjacent to Harvey's famous unfinished pyramid.

His first wife, divorced, and two daughters, reside in New York City and Huntington.

Among policemen, firemen, letter carriers and waiters, the last named are most likely to be afflicted with flattening of the arch of the foot.

OFFICERS CATCH FUGITIVE NEGRO

Black Wanted In Monroe For Attacking Wife Arrested At Ruston

Wanted here on a charge of assault with intent to kill, Dave Thomas, negro, was arrested in Ruston Saturday and returned to Monroe to face charges of slashing his wife during a fight in a house at 900 Arkansas avenue last month.

Thomas, who served a term in the Texas state penitentiary on a manslaughter count, when he shot his first wife, is alleged to have broken into the house on Arkansas avenue on January 28, and to have shot at Shirley Wats n, the owner, when the latter tried to stop Thomas from assaulting his wife, Ella Thomas.

According to the police here, the negro shot at the Watson woman but missed, and then beat her over the head with the gun until it broke. He then broke into the room where his wife was hiding, and with a knife slashed her over the face and head until the knife broke. Thomas then made his escape.

A letter to his wife here, asking her to meet him in Ruston yesterday, resulted in his apprehension by Lincoln parish deputies. The negro's wife, it is reported, informed the sheriff's office in Ruston, and when Thomas appeared he was taken in custody and brought back to Monroe.

Thomas was removed to the Ouachita parish jail where he faces additional charges of breaking and entering in the night time, and shooting with intent to kill.

'STOOPNAGLE' TAKES BRIDE IN CEREMONY AT NEW YORK CITY

BALTIMORE, Feb. 15.—(AP)—F. Chase Taylor of the comedy team of "Colonel Stoopnagle and Budd" and Kay Bell, former New York newspaperwoman, were married here today at a quiet ceremony in a Baltimore hotel.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. H. Clifton Owens, a Methodist Episcopal minister of Baltimore, in the presence of a few close friends and relatives.

Budd Hulick, Taylor's partner on the comedy team, was best man. The bride was attended by Miss Catherine O'Connor of New York City and was given in marriage by her mother, Mrs. Daniel Peace of Anniston, Ala.

Taylor, who gave his age as 38 years, recently received a divorce in Carson City, Nev., from the former Lois de Ridder of Rochester, N. Y. He is known professionally as "Colonel Lemuel Q. Stoopnagle."

One Affair After Another Crowded Calendar: Birthday Party For Mrs. D. M. Sholars Outstanding

By Eve Bradford

In a series of gay movements, Monroe's social life moved to a bright crescendo last week, with one lovely affair after the other in regular symphonic scheme. Even the younger generation had a solo break in the social pattern when they danced last night in the spacious ballroom at the Layton place.

Reverberations of "wasn't that a gorgeous birthday party" rumbling along the social ranks this week, all referred to the tea arranged by Mrs. Thomas Sholars and Mrs. Allan Sholars to commemorate the eightieth birthday anniversary of a real personage, Mrs. D. M. Sholars, who is the embodiment of youth rather than age. Perhaps it is her constant association with her three granddaughters, Henrietta Rau, Caroline Currier and Satchie Cooper, that keeps alive the spark without which life at eighty would smolder rather than flame anew whenever another milestone is reached. Never was a Monroe woman more closely hitched to the great currents and the broad movements. Mrs. Sholars' mind, we have learned through association, can not tolerate the sluggish nor the stagnant. Mrs. Sholars wore proudly a flowered chiffon model, with her favorite flowers, pink radiance roses, tucked gayly under her throat, when she stood with her son, her grandchildren and her great-grandchildren to receive old friends, many of whom have traveled close beside her along the happy years. There were lovely standards of flowers everywhere and many joyous good wishes and congratulations. It was really like good old times to see so many people one knew.

With the Mardi Gras season in full swing next week, we are reminded of the blessed freedom that is ours today. Hordes of women will meander through the narrow streets of the Vieux Carre, the old French quarter, in and out of antique shops and wine shops and, of course, the old Absinthe house, built in 1752 of brick brought from Europe as ballast for sailing vessels and a rendezvous for Jean Lafitte and his pirate associates. The word freedom reminds us that it brought the Pilgrims to Plymouth Rock. It inspired that Declaration of Independence and it sent wagon trains lurching across the prairies. It split the north and the south in a civil war and now it makes women quite independent to motor from one part of the country to the other. Next month the garden pilgrimage in Natchez will attract the more serious minded. They will come from every section of the country, driving their own cars and ready for any emergency. Natchez, "mother" of the famous garden pilgrimages that have brought old Natchez back to life again, sends us an attractive, small, cream-colored folder with a colored reproduction of Godey's Lady Book print on the fly leaf. It describes, beautifully, the fifth annual pilgrimage sponsored by the Natchez Garden club.

Adding lustre to the social life of the city last week was Henry and Bessie Biedenharn's buffet supper. Libations were poured from all angles and large trays of hors d'oeuvres put in regular appearances.

Happiness reigns supreme in the Jim Wooten household, where May spends every waking moment hovering over her granddaughter, who is making her first visit to the home of her mother's birth. Maria Vaughan, formerly Maria Wooten, snowbound in her Illinois home, simply yearned for her own sunny southland, so she packed her duds and with her infant daughter will greet the springtime here in Monroe. She expects to remain for a month or more, and in the meantime her good-looking husband, Melville, will make a flying trip to the Wooten home.

Intercalary day, February the twenty-ninth, which comes only once in every four years, comes on Saturday this year, so John Edward Godfrey has arranged a gala dancing party for members of the Lakeside Country club. He requests that all members bear the date in mind, as he is making extensive plans for this particular affair.

Spicer-Hayes

Friends of Miss Katye Bea Hayes daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Hayes of this city, will be interested in the following account of her marriage appearing in the social section of the Alexandria Town Talk:

"A marriage that was consummated in the midst of great beauty last evening at 8 o'clock was that of Miss Katye Bea Hayes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Hayes of Monroe, to Captain Ralph King Spicer of Akron, Ohio, son of Mrs. H. E. Spicer of Vicksburg, Mississippi, and the late Mr. Spicer. Dr. William Samuel Slack, rector of St. James' Episcopal church, read the ritual at the house of Dr. and Mrs. Leonard A. Mundis, that was effectively decorated with ferns, yellow jonquils and Easter lilies, the lilies and ferns forming an improvised altar before which the young couple stood for the service.

"The bride, who was charmingly dressed in an evening gown of light blue satin damask with crystal trimmings and carried an arm bouquet of orchids, was given in marriage by her cousin, Mr. H. S. Harris of Urania. She had but one attendant a cousin Mrs. Jack Douglas, of Memphis, Tennessee, who wore a smart crepe gown in black and white and carried talisman roses.

"Captain Spicer's best man was Dr. Leonard A. Mundis

"A reception for the one hundred guests followed. The bride's table was lovely in its decking of yellow jonquils. The cake was a frosted confection ornamented with silver.

"Captain and Mrs. Spicer left today for Vicksburg, Mississippi, to visit his mother. When they return they will be at the Mundis nome at 1758 Albert street.

"Mrs. Spicer, a graduate of State Normal College in Natchitoches, has been here for two years, during which time she has been an employe of the State Banking department in the Commercial Bank.

"Captain Spicer is a graduate of Ohio university and a member of Phi Delta Theta Fraternity He has been in government service since 1917. At present he is district supply officer at the CCC camp, Camp Beauregard."

Graser-Phillips

The interest of friends is centered in the marriage of Miss Lena Phillips, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Phillips, and Mr. Joseph Graser at the home of the bride's parents February the first, with Reverand C. F. Almond pastor of the First Baptist church of Delhi, officiating.

The bride was a charming figure in Aqua blue crepe model with accessories of brown. She carried an arm bouquet of bride's roses and valley lilies.

Mrs. Graser is a talented musician and a prominent figure in religious civic and social circles of Delhi.

Mr. Graser is a valued employe of the Natural Gas company in the capacity of manager of the Delhi district.

The following relatives and friends of the bride and groom witnessed the ceremony: Mayor and Mrs. J. B. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Rundell, Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Charley Wyatt and son, Bobbie Roy, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Rundell, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Phillips and family, Mrs. Walter Wyatt, Margarette Wyatt, and the following employes of the gas company: Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson, Sam Tamburo, Pat Ingram, Tony Malnar, Joe Lachute and Mrs. Winnie Thomas and son.

Mr. and Mrs. Graser are at home to their friends at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Wiggins.

'Socialized Medicine'

Members of the Twentieth Century Book club are privileged to hear, from time to time, excellent talks by some member who has studied thoroughly the subject at hand. Mrs. F. A. Coon's talk on "Socialized Medicine" at the last meeting of the club was one of the most interesting of the entire year. She said in part:

"The practice of medicine began when the first ailing human being asked his neighbor or his relatives to help him out, and they tried to do something for his comfort. They did it with an understanding of the kind of man he happened to be, but without very much scientific knowledge of the nature of his body or the manner in which it worked.

"As human beings began to collect in cities, they soon found that a man's health might be a matter of considerable importance to his neighbor. Those who governed the community took action to make each person respect the rights of his neighbor. Thus the state became interested in medicine, at least in its public health aspects, and from this has come the great controversy over "socialized medicine."

"Socialized medicine. Just what does the term imply? Socialized medicine is enacted legislation by the states providing for a system of complete medical service available to all citizens at public expense. By placing the burden on the state governments it is supposed that each state will set up a system suited to conditions within its own boundaries. By complete medical service is meant any service, device or technique necessary for the prevention of disease or for the treatment of one affected by disease. New and rare treatments, not available for general use, are not included.

"Citizens of a state would not be compelled to use the state medical service. They could employ physicians who are in private practice. Nor would doctors be compelled to enter state service. The situation would be similar to that in public education.

"The ultimate purpose which any reform in our system of medical care has in view is to improve the health of our citizens. An examination of articles written by advocates and opponents of state medicine indicates agreement on the following points;

"1. Under any system of medical care there should be a permanent, confidential relation between the patient and his physician.

"2. Under any system all features of medical service itself should be under the control of the medical profession. Doctors should occupy the positions of authority, just as deans and educational directors are chosen from those in the teaching profession.

"3. No third party must be permitted to come between the patient and his physician in any medical relation. Decisions as to the kind and amount of medical care necessary in any given case should be made only by the physician.

"Before taking up arguments for and against socialized medicine, I would like to give you some information revealed by a committee on cost of medical care.

"The United States has more physicians per unit of population than any other country. The quality of our medical service is excellent. Morbidity and mortality rates are decreasing. There has been rapid advance in the control of disease. Our system leaves the patient free to choose his own physician, and keeps the physician interested in him as an individual.

"The competition between doctors is healthy and desirable. The medical profession has high standards of ethics and of social service. The burden of excessive charity service can be lifted without forcing all doctors into a system of state medicine.

"State medicine means regimentation, red tape and political control.

"State medicine means state salaries. The salaries are usually low and are often administered automatically. Time servers on the public payroll are all too common. The more secure the position the less incentive there is for unusual efforts."

Noted Take Part

More than 25 world figures took part in the third annual Woman's Congress held Thursday and Friday in the Palmer House, Chicago. The assemblage was composed of approximately 5,000 women, representatives of all ranks and all parts of the United States.

The congress was a two-day, nonpartisan forum for the discussion of current affairs. Its aim was to give an unbiased presentation of the major problems facing American citizens today. Several of the principal addresses were carried to the outside world over the networks of three national broadcasting systems.

Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole delivered the keynote address. Her subject was "Measuring World Progress." Mrs. Poole is past president of the General Federation of Women's clubs and is dean of Stoneleigh college, Rye, N. H.

Dr. Glenn Frank, president of the university of Wisconsin, talked on the subject of education and social welfare. Other speakers included Dr. Irving Cutter, dean of Northwestern university medical school; Henry Bentley, chairman of the charter party that instituted city manager government in Cincinnati, and Mrs. William J. Chalmers, Chicago society leader and founder of the Country Home for Convalescent Children.

The night session Thursday was devoted to a non-partisan review of the national political situation. Following discussions by national political figures, Justice George W. Maxey of the Pennsylvania supreme court discussed the looming issue of constitutionality in an address entitled "What America Must Decide."

Sponsors Tree Planting

Tree-planting in Monroe is being sponsored by Mrs. Elmer Richards, state chairman of the Federation of Garden clubs, under the banner of the Junior Garden club. The activity in Monroe will be inaugurated with the planting of live oaks on the school grounds with the cooperation of Mr. Huckaby of the state highway commission and Mrs. L. C. McGuire, member of the committee of conservation for the Garden club and the D. A. R.

The great tree-planting movement today in America is a step forward in making our country beautiful for the future, and the children of the coming generation will bless the planters of today for adding to the beauty of the landscape and for the stability of the soil by planting trees—and more trees.

Trees are often just planted without much consideration as to the effect they will make in the picture we are trying to create. If the building is of the Spanish type of architecture, the tall pyramidal type of evergreens should be considered, and placed not only to add to the material beauty, but to the spiritual beauty in casting their shadows either on the lawn, across a garden path, or on the building. If the house is Elizabethan, the graceful American elm may be selected; if the dwelling is a simple New England home-stead, the old fashioned maple seems to fit the scheme. At any rate, there is more than just the building to consider. We should also consider the effect through the seasons. In the winter the individualized character of the tree reacts on its environment. The evergreens seem to give courage to the landscape, while the great arms of the oaks seem to defy the elements.

Spring is another story, the weeping willow on the bank of a pool is like a green shawl fringed with delicate embroidery. If it is bloom we are seeking, we may select from the many varieties of apples, including the glorious crabs. The catalpa, cherry, dogwood, frienge tree, horse chestnut, hawthorne, Judas tree, magnolia, mountain ash, peach, plum are a few beautiful trees.

But for individuals trees, such as the oak and apple, our first parents had a great veneration; in paradise these trees grew for good or evil. The apple tree has played an important part in the history of the ancient Druids and Greeks, as well as in that of other nations.

There is no end to interesting stories about the trees of India. It has been a law for hundreds of years that no tree that bears fruit or blossom near the house should be cut down. If destroyed, death would come to the cutter and his family and all of their wealth would disappear. If a fig tree grows on the east side of the house, health and wealth follows, and if a cocoanut tree is found on the east or northeast side, the children born in the house will be boys and they will all become wealthy. If we had such rules in our modern landscape architecture, some of our planting problems would be more simple and our gardens even more interesting.

Among the Siamese monks (Buddhists), it was believed and taught that it was just as wrong to break the branch from a tree as to break the arm of an innocent person. Many of us, seeing the destruction of some of our flowering trees, wish that this same lesson might be taught in our schools and churches. In Austria, when an old tree is to be cut down, the woodsman addresses the tree as a friend. Sometimes the curse of God is thought to be heard in the growing of the tree as it falls to the ground.

Our own North American Indians believed that every natural object had a spirit, and that the cotton wood especially had intelligence because one could hear its cries when it was in danger. Sitting Bull called the chiefs together early one morning, and said, "I am sadly depressed because the Pale Face has run over the fields and trampled down the little pines, those little trees that give me courage." If the Indians of the pioneer days could return, they doubtless would express keen regrets that the great forests had been replaced by cities, but these cities could be made beautiful by planting of trees. Each state, or part of country, has trees that are adapted to the climate, but there are six requirements of a good tree: form, hardiness, or adaptability, rapidity of growth, shade production, neatness and beauty. Besides a careful consideration of the climate, one must consider their food and water supply.

There is an old Chinese proverb which reads, "One picture is worth ten thousand words." In the case of a beautiful old tree on a lawn, in the meadow, or on the hill, or even along the public highway, one elm, oak, sweet gum, or walnut is worth ten thousand times ten thousand dollars and as many more words to protect it from the blow of an ax. In fact, one cannot put money value on these tree celebrities, for, since time began, trees have played an important part in the history and evolution of man and rightly stand unfailing friends to any nation or people.

In the dawn of antiquity, when the earth was first feeling the pulse of life, somewhere a tiny plant took hold of cooling soil and was nourished by the sun. It is pleasant to think that the earth began at once to grace her form with color and texture, and that the first plan kept reaching upward with its branches until it finally took the form of a tree.

The first seed may have been carried by the winds, and, on lodging in the soil, the warmth, oxygen and moisture awakened new life in it. The elements, the soil, the Creator of life itself may have changed the form or type of a tree to fit its environment, and so different ones appeared. Thus, each tree family aspires to keep the ideal proportion as well as the ancient standard of shape, and thus we have today the apple tree, which is always about as wide as it is high, and the Lombardy poplar, many times taller than its width and always pyramidal in form, while the graceful elms are fan shaped.

Man, in all ages, has recognized some supreme power, full of mystery, unrivaled in authority and sacred; so the tree has been immortalized in stone because it was identified with the gods. The trees of life and knowledge were known to the early Egyptians, Assyrians and people of the remote east. One fine specimen of the Egyptian tree of life, seen in the museum of Berlin, is sculptured in stone and dates back to the fifteenth century B. C. Egypt also had a tree in the center of paradise, and two of the branches formed hands. In one hand were dates, or food, for the people, and in the other, water, which was so sacred to the peoples of that arid country.

It is because of the pagan's love for trees and his reverence for the spirits that lived in them that the early Jewish writers warned the people not to be lured by them: "Thou shalt not plant thee a grove of any trees near unto the altar of the Lord God."

Dr. and Mrs. E. G. Calvert will be counted among the motorists leaving the first of the week for New Orleans to enjoy the Mardi Gras season.

Following an afternoon of fun and frolic, favors were distributed and delicious confections served to Harold Ray Duncan, Barbara Andrews, Lavern and Edith Griffin, Ethel Chaplin, James Nelson, Virginia Loupe, Betty Dyer, Maxine Petty, R. G. Hale, Delores Jordan and Edith Heslip.

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Crews left Friday night for Columbus, Ga., where they will visit relatives for 10 days.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stovall are enjoying a week's motor trip in the west, including a visit in Kansas City, Mo.

Mrs. L. N. Larche is spending the month of February with her son, Mr. James Larche, and Mrs. Larche in Gainesville, Florida.

Gather At Club

Ladies' day at Lakeside Country club found bridge enthusiasts gathered as customary in the spacious lounge for an afternoon of contract following the serving of luncheon at flower-adorned tables in the dining room.

Additional interest was manifested on this occasion, as a portion of the funds derived from the price of the luncheon was donated to Mr. G. B. Cooley to carry on the work of building an arch over the entrance to the new tuberculosis sanatorium now in course of construction at Pine Top.

Club members welcomed by Mrs. William Quiggles and Mrs. Bernard Biedenharn, chairman of the luncheon-bridge club, were: Mmes. M. M. Underwood, W. E. Wilson, Clifford Johnson, Harry St. John, L. L. Opera Club Meets

Luncheon at the Frances hotel brought members of the Opera club together around a beautifully-appointed, Brussels lace-covered table, with myriad spring blossoms in all the lovely pastel shades forming a central plaque. The place cards were gay little conceits reminiscent of the Valentine season.

Mrs. V. S. Garnett, president of the Opera club, graciously presided with other officers, Mrs. E. C. Gibson, vice-president; Mrs. C. W. Oseland, secretary and treasurer; Mrs. J. W. Treadwell, parliamentarian, and Mrs. Paul Newman, critic, assisting in the courtesies. A five-course luncheon was faultlessly served and later, over the coffee cups, future activities of the club were discussed in enthusiastic manner.

The Opera club, a branch of the Welcome Branch of the Twentieth Century Book club, now occupies a prominent place in the cultural life of the city. Each meeting features a program overflowing with interesting topics, reviews and current events. Luncheon at the Frances hotel is always a pleasant social feature of the year and is looked forward to with pleasure by every member.

Officers who will guide the destiny of the Opera club this year are: Mrs. L. V. Tarver, president; Mrs. C. W. Oseland, vice-president; Mrs. C. S. Gaushell, secretary and treasurer; Mrs. Dudley Stone, parliamentarian; Mrs. W. C. Scott, program chairman.

Members of the Opera club are: Mmes. J. Norman Coon, V. S. Garnett, E. C. Gibson, J. E. Kerch, Albin Lassiter, C. W. Oseland, L. V. Tarver, Paul Newman, Dudley Stone, C. S. Gaushell, Crawford Young, J. W. Treadwell, W. C. Scott.

Miss Noe Hostess

It was "June in January" for members of the younger set, who were entertained by Miss Gay Noe, lovely young daughter of Governor and Mrs. James A. Noe, on board their comfortable houseboat, Noe's Ark, Friday night between the hours of seven-thirty and eleven.

Supper was served under the stars on the broad upper deck and later dancing was enjoyed in the spacious cabin.

A number of Miss Noe's intimate friends were present as follows: Misses Doll Hudson, Jean Terzia, Gloria Frances Major, Jean Graves, Mabel Cole, Merelyn Bradford, Martha McHenry, Adelaide Parker, Dotty White, Betty Pettit, Herbert Land, G. P. Pettit, L. P. Milner, Jr., Fred Hudson, Jr., Nelson Abell, Jr., Felix Terzia, Jr., Thomas Wyatt, Billy Wright and C. H. Adams.

Chaperones on this occasion were: Mrs. Thomas Sandridge and Miss Eve Bradford.

Miss Hammons Entertains

The Valentine season inspired the colorful motif employed by Miss Sara Hammons when she entertained members of her bridge club last week.

Following the interesting games and the serving of a delicious chicken supper course, the favor for high score was awarded to Mrs. Raymond Spence.

Members present were: Misses Sue Kilgore, Gertrude Gilliland, Lib Drew, Helen Grant, Juanita Wall, Mrs. R. Spence and Mrs. Bonner Smith.

Mrs. Cobb Surprised

A group of intimates, members of Mrs. Dale Cobb's sewing club, surprised her in her new home and showered her with gifts of a miscellaneous nature. Enjoying this informal evening and the hospitality extended by Mrs. Cobb were: Mmes. Johnnie Jordan, Frank Murphy, W. P. Pearce, Phillip Snyder, Jones, A. E. Gossett, Flossie Carr, Dorothy Glenn, E. F. Kenney and Daisy Carr and Miss Lucille Miller.

League Entertained

Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Perkins offered the hospitality of their home to members of the Epworth league Friday night. A Valentine motif was accentuated in all the details and in the contests arranged by the hosts for the evening's diversion.

The serving of a delicious supper course completed the pleasures for Misses Marie Thompson, Avis Grant, Ola Mae Pennington, Rosa Lee Branch, Nell Harvey, Eleona Brinsmaide, Mildred Weaver, Avis Hammett, Jewel Worley, Eunice Killian and Ruth Roswell, and Messrs. Billy Stough, Stack Lambert, J. T. Powell, Vic Irby, Owen Martin, J. D. Wetzel and Hubert Branch and Mrs. M. Z. Worley.

Auxiliary Meets

The regular meeting of the ladies' auxiliary to Rodney J. Hobbs post No. 1809, Veterans of Foreign Wars, was held Thursday night at their club rooms on Hall and Harrison.

New members present were Mrs. Mae B. Hutchins and Mrs. Edith B. Rodriguez.

By vote of the auxiliary the petition for re-instatement of Mrs. Hatie D. Evans was accepted.

Mrs. Verne Cooper, president of the auxiliary to Boone-McDowell post, Bastrop, was a visitor. Other visitors were Mrs. J. W. Keene, Mrs. Jack Cahill, Mrs. Joe Nelson and Mrs. V. Voinche.

Card tables were arranged for the game of hearts, enjoyed by sixty players.

Prizes for high scores were presented to Mrs. Mary Andrews, Mr. W. T. Hamilton, Mrs. Althea Vallery and Mr. Harry Greenwood.

The delicious refreshments reflected a Valentine motif.

The next meeting of the auxiliary to be held Thursday night, February 21.

Mrs. Womack Feted

Mrs. Ballard Womack, who before her recent marriage was Miss Hazeldean Brooks, was the recipient of a charming social courtesy last week at the home of Mrs. G. F. Bryant, with Mrs. G. D. Herrington co-hostess.

A feature of the afternoon was the presentation of beautiful gifts of a miscellaneous nature, wrapped in crimson ribbons and fluttering hearts reminiscent of the Valentine season. Marvin Bryant, lovely little daughter of the hostess, was privileged to present the gifts to Mrs. Womack.

The Valentine motif was charmingly portrayed in the serving of the delicious refreshments. The sandwiches and the petit fours were heart-shaped.

Those who were present and others who were unable to attend but sent gifts were Mrs. R. B. Alexander, Mrs. J. S. Brady, Jr., Mrs. G. A. Cay, Mrs. W. B Ellerbe, Mrs. K. A. Calhoun, Mrs. Mollie Gregory, Mrs. G. D. Jones, Mrs. Jewel Joiner, Mrs. B. F. Preston, Mrs. E. D. Otwell, Mrs. Jack Ober, Mrs. L. E. Street, Mrs. O. Venable, Mrs. J. A. Whitaker, Mrs. A. R. Kirby, Mrs. Irving J. Wolff, Mrs. D. J. Brooks, Miss Bennie Brooks, Mrs. J. S. Brady, Sr., Mrs. A. P. Kitchens, Mrs. F. B. Nesbitt, Miss Sue Nesbitt, Mrs. I. M. Corbin, Mrs. W. M. Oglesbee, Mrs. J. CHAPTER XXXVIII

Late summer drifted into early fall. Leaves turned from green to gold, and a brisk wind, rustling tall branches, tossed colorful little patches at Dana's feet.

She was walking swiftly, a jaunty little hat tipped slightly at the side of her head. The hat was brown, like her dress. Strands of chestnut hair were whipped loose and blew against her cheek.

She heard steps behind her and a deep masculine voice called, "Are you practicing for a sprinting marathon?"

Dana whirled. "Ronnie. Ronnie!"

"The same, in person. What a chase you have led me! Your grandmother said you were on your way to the library, with about a five-minute start. Say—the way you travel! People fell out of their cars watching me being outdistanced by a woman."

He was holding her hands tightly, gazing into her eyes, oblivious of curious on-lookers on the busy street.

Dana said, "Oh, Ronnie, I'm glad you're back!" The words came in a little rush.

"Honestly, Dana? You wouldn't fool me?" Ronnie's hands tightened on hers.

"I wouldn't fool you. Don't ever go chasing off around the world again."

"Never expect to—alone," Ronnie said.

There was something significant in his voice. Something significant, too, in the way he was looking at her smiling.

She said quickly, "Grace and Bill are having a party out at their lodge on the lake. She heard you were coming today—I don't know how—and asked me if I could inveigle you to come along."

"I'm inveigled," Ronnie smiled. "That is, if you're going. I suppose Grace heard from Paula that I was back. Paula was on the same steamer, and we came from New York on the same train."

"Paula!" Dana's face whitened. She walked on, saying nothing.

"Yes. It wouldn't surprise me if Paula and that Britisher who's been trailing after her wouldn't be at the party. You remember how thick Paula and Grace were before she went away?"

"Yes," Dana said,

"If you'd rather not go—" Ronnie began.

Dana shook her head. "No, we'll go. How could it matter to me now?" She turned and looked at Ronnie with a queer detached expression.

"Paula was looking fit," Ronnie said, trying to make his voice sound casual. "This man who is visiting her is a cruise trophy. Rather interesting fellow. He's an explorer who has seen and done about everything, chased bandits in Nicaragua, hunted in Africa, lived among remote Indian tribes. A hard-bitten, restless type."

"An adventurer," Dana said.

"In a way, though I understand there is a bona fide title that he has democratically discarded. Tell me about yourself."

"I've been going places again, lots of places," Dana said. "Doing things."

Ronnie searched her eyes and found Dana was looking more beautiful than ever. Smarter.

A car whirled by and Mrs. Weathersby leaned out to bow and smile. "There's Ronnie Moore!" she said to her companion. "Well, now it won't be long, I guess, before Dana Stanley will be Mrs. Millions. Maybe Ronnie would sidestep if he knew how scandalously she's been behaving."

"Scandalously?" the other woman said. "I never heard a word of scandal."

"If it isn't scandalous to turn night into day, to be here, there and everywhere with a flock of men jumping after her like a lot of trained clowns, I don't know what you would call it! But I guess Ronnie will jump higher than any of them."

Paula and Dana met at the edge of the lake. Paula was in a motorboat that was about to leave the shore. The man with her had blond hair that had been tinged bronze by many suns, and an interesting, weatherbeaten face.

Paula wore green slacks with a sweater and a green scarf about her shoulders. Her red hair flamed under the sun. Her mutinous mouth was carmined brilliantly.

"'Lo, Dana!" Paula cried then. "It's grand to see you. Excuse me for not getting out of the boat and properly greeting you, darling."

"Excused," Dana said in an even voice. "How are you, Paula?"

"Never better," Paula said. She turned to her companion. "I am about to introduce you to Dana Stanley with the warning that, to my knowledge, she always gets her man. The best thing Dana does is to strew the local green with discarded hearts. Dana, Cyril Lancaster."

"Do I look like that?" Dana asked Paula's companion.

"Yes," he said, "you do. But I never run from danger."

Paula's expression was none too pleased, Dana saw, as the boat moved away.

"Look out there, Dana," Bill teased. "Paula's picked herself a nice English lord. Are you going to vamp him in short order?"

Why had Paula invited this Englishman here? Was he to be the lever to pry Scott into a proposal? No, that was absurd. If Scott loved Paula—and of course he did—such tactics would be unnecessary. Cyril Lancaster was probably merely a cruise acquaintance with a flexible itinerary and Paula was carrying on the much-heralded tradition of southern hospitality.

At dinner that night Dana found the Englishman at her side and, almost immediately, he was monopolizing her attention.

"I wouldn't dare suggest fishing at daybreak to Paula," he said. "There isn't a fish in the sea that she would allow to interfere with her beauty sleep. But I think you might enjoy it. Want to come along?"

Dana was about to refuse when she found Paula looking at her coldly, curiously. Dana thought bitterly: "She can take my husband away from me, but she dares me to look at any man who is interested in her."

Warm color splashed Dana's cheeks like banners of defiance. "I'd love to," she said.

With the house wrapped in darkness, Dana came out on the porch in the early hours. She wore white linen slacks, a brown shirt, and carried an enormous sun hat.

Cyril Lancaster gave her an approving nod. "Nice of you not to let me down. I rather counted on you. And so did our host. He ordered breakfast for us, I see."

Shortly afterward they were shoving away from shore. The lake, at this hour, was covered with an enveloping blanket of fog that presently would be rolled away by the sun. As the boat moved toward the middle of the lake, the great, moss-draped cypress trees rising darkly along the shore were swallowed in the gray mist.

"There's a theory that fishing is better on the other side of this lake," Dana said.

Lancaster smiled. "The other side of the pasture, you know," he said. "But maybe that's why that bunch of doctors are fishing over there."

"Doctors?" Dana exclaimed.

"Bill Richardson said a group of physicians were on a fishing party at a club directly across from us."

"Oh!" said Dana.

She was being silly. There were doctors—and doctors. "Let's stay on this side," she suggested.

"Better have a look at the shore line over there first," the Englishman said. "There may be something back of that theory."

The fog was beginning to lift, and he let the motor out. Spray splashed against Dana's face. "Shall I slow up? I'm afraid you'll get a wetting."

She shook her head negatively. "I'm dressed for a wetting."

"Watch us take this curve then!"

Without warning, almost in their path, a dark blur appeared. The motorboat lurched, missed the dark object by inches, spun dizzily for a moment. A hoarse shout followed them.

"All there?" Lancaster asked anxiously.

"I think so," Dana gasped. She was feeling rather shaken. The dark spot had been a boat in their path, a group of early fishermen, doubtless.

"I owe those fellows an apology," said Dana's companion. He turned the boat and started back. In another moment they were close to the other motorboat.

"Hi, there!" called the Englishman cheerfully. "That was a darned fool thing to do, chasing about at such speed on a foggy morning. I almost knocked you chaps for a loop."

"Well, damn you! Don't take any more fool chances with—with that girl aboard."

Dana caught her breath sharply. Was she never to be able to subdue that unruly heart of hers? She searched the shadowy faces frantically.

Suddenly she and Scott were staring at each other.

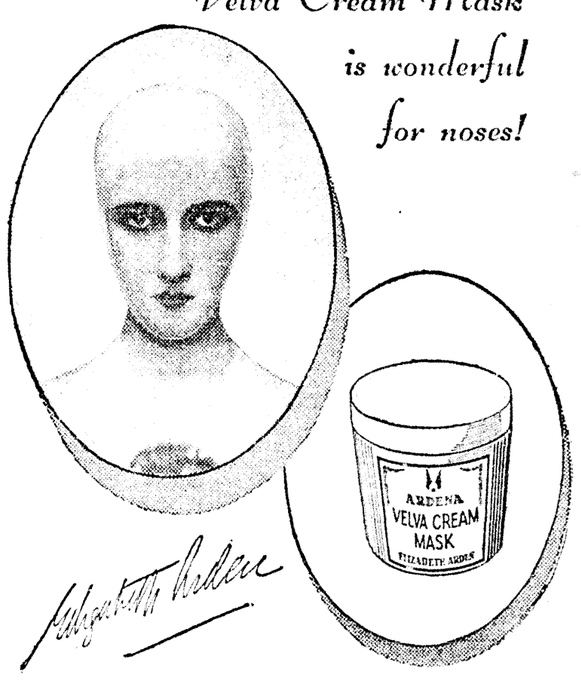
Velva Cream Mask is wonderful for noses!



● Do you realize that a shiny nose indicates pore trouble? Relaxed pores collect dirt which irritates them and causes an oily condition. Velva Cream Mask is wonderful for coarse pores. It stimulates the circulation to absorb the impurities that are doing the damage. Spread the mask over your face. Leave it on for fifteen minutes if your skin is sensitive, overnight if it is not. And your complexion will be so fair and smooth and fine that a light veil of make-up will be all you need to wear—even on your nose! Velva Cream Mask, $5.

A radio news item two nights ago informed us that

In wrecking the premises in Chicago of a bank no longer in business, they are forcing open a number of old and unclaimed safety boxes.

And, in those boxes, they are finding money, diamonds, jewelry and other valuables—whereabouts of the owners unknown. Some of these boxes have not been opened for twenty years—former owners "dead, moved or married."

There's a moral to the story: Men may come—and men do go—and many come and go and leave no relative, or friend or trace.

State President's Talk Marks Founders' Day In Choudrant

Pageant Is Presented By Association There

Head Of P.-T. A. In Louisiana Takes As Her Topic, "A Child Shall Lead Them"; Praises Local Unit

CHOUDRANT, La., Feb. 15.—(Special)—Mrs. A. L. Smith, president of the Louisiana branch of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, was an honor guest and the principal speaker at the Founders' day program held here Thursday night by the Choudrant High school Parent-Teacher association. Mrs. Smith used as the theme of her address, "A Child Shall Lead Them."

Preliminary to Mrs. Smith's address, a pageant portraying the beginning of the parent-teacher movement was presented by members of the local organization.

Mrs. Smith, in her talk, put special emphasis on the development of frankness, sincerity and tenacity in the child.

"Children often tell falsehoods to their parents," Mrs. Smith said, "because of fear, and frankness between child and parent should be encouraged. Parents should strive to understand their children and encourage them toward improvement instead of reproving them for acts that may have been committed through ignorance.

"Parents and teachers should encourage tenacity in children and have tenacity of purpose themselves in child development."

In conclusion Mr. Smith paid tribute to the Choudrant P.-T. A. with the following poem:

"The finest tribute I can pay
Our founders on this honor day
Is not to light the candles blue
Nor gold—nor is it to review
The days gone by—it is to see
The joy of holy minstry
To childhood—and they as parents must Pledge new allegiance to the trust.

"It is an endless line
Of boys and girls, your child and mine.
The bright, the dull, the halt, the lame.
Mute testimony chance they come
And know as long I must have known
That each is strangely like my own.
And then to pray on bended knee
That I may serve accordingly."

As Mrs. Smith finished her address, Mrs. H. M. Bagly presented her with a gift from the parent-teacher group.

The cast of the pageant that preceded Mrs. Smith's talk was Mrs. Zylpa Babers, reader; Mary Alice Land, child; Mrs. J. M. O'Neal, oldest member; Mrs. T. C. Pipes, national; Mrs. Fred Emory, state; Mrs. C. L. Faulkner, teacher; Mrs. C. F. Brewster, district; Mrs. H. M. Bagly, president; and Mrs. M. Nobles, local.

The meeting was opened with the singing of "Amerika," followed by the secretary's report.

The tenth grade won the prize for having the most parents present at the meeting. Refreshments were served to the members and guests at the close of the program. Mrs. Smith was accompanied here from her home in Winnfield by Miss Grace Anders and Mrs. A. L. Ladner, state publicity chairman of the P.-T. A.

Barkdull Faulk P.-T. A.

Founders' day was observed by the Barkdull Faulk school Parent-Teacher association of the Louisiana branch of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, in the school auditorium this week.

Three women, Mrs. Birney, Mrs. Hearst and Mrs. Mary Grenelle Mears, who were leaders in the parent-teacher movement 39 years ago, were honored by the local organization and short sketches of their lives were given by its members.

Mrs. B. H. Rust, leader, opened the program with a resume of the beginning of Founders' day. A sketch of the life of Mrs. Birney, who dreamed dreams and made plans for child welfare years ago, was given by Mrs Taylor Jones. Mrs. Floyd Martin told of the life of Mrs. Hearst, who carried out Mrs. Birney's plans so successfully, and Mrs. E. P. Cudd, president of the Twin City Council of Parents and Teachers, paid tribute to Mrs. Mears, a charter member of the parent-teacher organization who conceived the idea of Founders' day. Memorial candles for the three P.-T. A. leaders were lighted by Nettigere Williams and Mary Pat Rust.

Entertainment on the program consisted of a musical selection by Ferdie Rohr, trumpet, Robert Young, alto horn, and Courtney Hathaway, trumpet, of the Barkdull Faulk boys' band, and two selections by the Mother Singers. Motion pictures, provided by Mrs. Vinson of the Sherrouse school, showing scenes of the activities of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers were also shown.

Mrs. Daisy Richardson's room won the prize for having the most parents present. Mrs. Ben Stern reported $33.25 was received in the recent quilt sale. Mrs. R. Q. Cole received the quilt.

Refreshments were served in the kindergarten room, where a large cake, provided by J. W. Rohr, was the center of attraction. The cake was iced with Founders' day colors and lighted by 39 candles.

Study Club Meets

"The Home as the Cultural and Spiritual Center" was the subject of the lesson taught by Mrs. Virginia Newman at the February meeting of the Study club of the Barkdull Faulk school Parent-Teacher association.

Mrs. Newman said parents and others who rear children must realize that culture means more than education, that education must be combined with training in spiritual qualities, that educational advantages develop only one aspect of culture, that spiritual values must be equally developed if the individual is to be a truly cultured person.

Honesty, purity, unselfishness and love, she said, are basic qualities in spiritual development. She said homes should be the centers where these basic qualities are developed.

Parents should not only set a good example, she declared, but should provide methods whereby the child has a chance to practice desirable qualities.

The development of true culture, she continued, is the responsibility of parents, since by example and precept in the home, children may develop spiritual qualities as well as learn to take all that education has to offer.

She said further:

"The right spirit within us lifts us up and above mere things of every day life. Most parents think that the training in spiritual things that children get in Sunday school and church is enough, but we have learned that this is not enough. This must be supplemented in the home. Ask your child questions and find out if he is honest, reverent, dependable. Children should be nourished in faith, hope and charity. Spiritual life makes a child desire to be good at all times and gives him an ardent desire to have the fruits of the spirit guide his entire life."

Art Exhibit Planned

An exhibit of art work done by the students of Barkdull Faulk school was decided upon as a means of raising money to help finance the school's band. The decision was made by the executive committee of the Parent-Teacher association.

An alto horn, cymbals, a violo, a cello and books have been purchased for the band. These were partially paid for with funds derived from a turkey dinner given by the P.-T. A.

Recreation Discussed

Recreation was the subject discussed at the February meeting of the Study club of the Georgia Tucker school Parent-Teacher association of the Louisiana branch of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Mrs. M. M. Cragon led in the discussion of two questions: First, "What is necessary for adequate recreation during childhood?" Second, "What must be done to prepare children for proper recreation during adult years?" Mrs. Cragon said children should be prepared to make an intelligent choice as to the manner of spending their leisure time.

In discussing home play, Mrs. M. S. Harrison stressed the fact that parents should supervise the activities of their children and enter into the play life of the latter.

Mrs. Marvin Johnson suggested a variety of diversions suitable for children during the summer months. She said the diversions would not only keep the youngsters interested, but would lay a foundation for spending future leisure hours.

Mrs. B. B. Handy read a paper in which she mentioned a number of games to keep children occupied during motor rides.

Plans for a junior garden club were outlined by Mrs. Elmer Richards. She said such an organization would provide an enjoyable and instructive form of recreation.

Oak Ridge P.T. A.

OAK RIDGE, La., Feb. 15.—(Special)—Formulation of plans for the observance of Founders' day, a demonstration in physical education and folk dancing and two addresses on art marked the February meeting of the Oak Ridge High school Parent-Teacher association of the Louisiana branch of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers.

A feature of the program arranged for the observance of Founders' day will be an address by the state P.-T A. president, Mrs. A. L. Smith of Winnfield.

The demonstration in physical education and folk dancing was presented by students of the primary grades of the school.

The talks were made by Mrs. F. E. Hogan and Miss Sue Hawkins. Mrs. Hogan spoke on "How to Stimulate an Appreciation for Art." "Art in the Schools" was the subject of Miss Hawkins' address.

Beige Trimmings Add Chic To Spring Travel Tweeds

To wear traveling to the south and for spring Heim designs a crisp little costume of beige and grey tweed which combines a slender frock and a childish jacket. Buttons are of brown wool, belt of brown leather and the little hat in the same shade of felt.

Bastrop

A glorious symphony of color greeted the eyes of those who make up Bastrop's social contingent in the home of Mrs. Charles Grossman when she introduced her daughter-in-law Mrs. Sol Snyder, a bride of recent date, at a beautifully-appointed tea.

The reception suite was banked with a profusion of cut flowers and thronged with smartly gowned guests. Mrs. Grossman, wearing a becoming black crepe dinner model with a corsage of roses, stood in the reception hall with the honor guest, who was most attractively gowned in green crepe, to receive more than one hundred guests from this city and Monroe who called during the appointed hours of three to five o'clock.

The tea table, in the spacious dining room, was a poem of loveliness, with its handsome covering of Italian cut work and Venetian lace cloth, centered with a low bowl of delf blue filled with exquisite pink gladiola. Princess tapers burning softly in stately silver candelabrum shed their glamour on sweet meats, crystalized nuts, mints and petit fours, daintily embossed in blue and pink. Handsome silver services, placed at either end of the table, were presided over by Mrs. Fannie Taylor, in a blue crepe dinner model, and Mrs. Harry Goldstein, in a black crepe gown.

Mrs. David Snyder, stunning in white and crimson, Mrs. O. J. Oleson, in wine colored velvet, and Mrs. David Kaplan, in black velvet, assisted in extending courtesies that made this one of the most delightful and outstanding affairs of the season.

For A Spring Evening-- Blue Lace, Red Roses

By Adelaide Kerr

PARIS—(AP)—Lace evening wraps, gowns, dinner suits and sport frocks in a wide variety of designs were fashioned by Parish dressmakers for a recent New York charity ball as the first 1936 spring fashions.

The models shown during the pageant of the soiree were all of lace weaves varying from cobweb gossamer effects to tulles embroidered in braid. Their designs ranged from the modern to those inspired by beauties of the court of Henry III of France.

Molyneux fashioned a white gown worked with shimmering slender lines with fullness only below the knees in the back and a tailored buckled belt. By contrast Rosevienne reverted to historical times for the inspiration of a blue frock topped by a long gossamer wrap finished with huge Henry III sleeves and accented by three great red roses in front.

Vionnet sent a "grand dame" gown in a coppery tone embroidered in shimmering threads and made over a two-toned tulle foundation which enhanced the copper effect, while Schiaparelli designed a cream sports frock fastened with red zippers and a red suede belt.

Black gowns, evening wraps and suits were among the outstanding models. Among them were a filmy, long, black evening wrap designed by Lelong with big sleeves and collar, and a black cire Lanvin frock with a fitted bodice and a decollete edged by a silver braided tulle ruche inspired by the gowns of Margot, queen of Henry IV. Robert Piguet sent a black tulle evening suit embroidered in white soutache braid and accented by a green, red and blue crushed mousseline belt. It combined a simple floor-length frock and a loose hipbone length jacket.

Lace fans and long evening gloves made entirely of lace to match frocks are other filmy frivolities designed in Paris simultaneously with the new models. Isinglass vanity cases in the shape of tiny Gladstone bags with gold or silver lace pressed between two thicknesses of the mica were other striking novelties launched.

Agnes completed the array by designing vivid blue tulle bonnets for cocktail or evening theater wear made in the form of little ridged toques capped by a bright flower nosegay.

ON THE WARPATH

TARZAN WAS UNTOUCHED BY RUFUS FLINT'S BULLET, BUT HE FELL TO DECEIVE HIS FOE

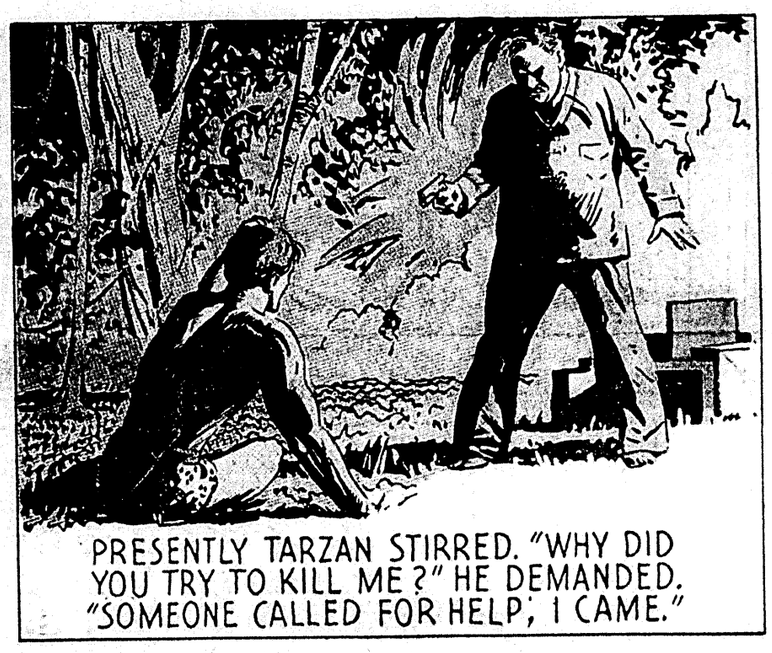
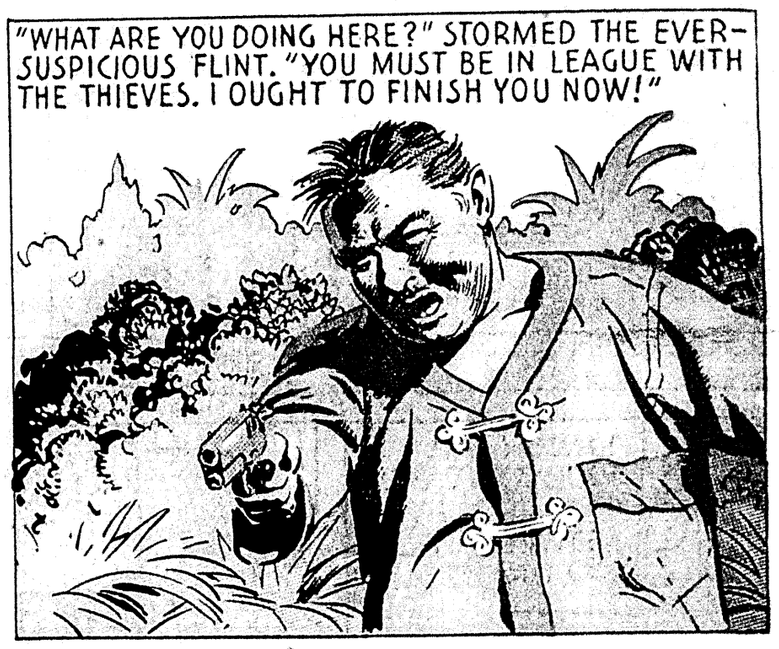
WHILE FLINT WATCHED OVER THE UNCONSCIOUS APE-MAN, DICK HURRIED FEARFULLY TO GLORIA'S TENT.

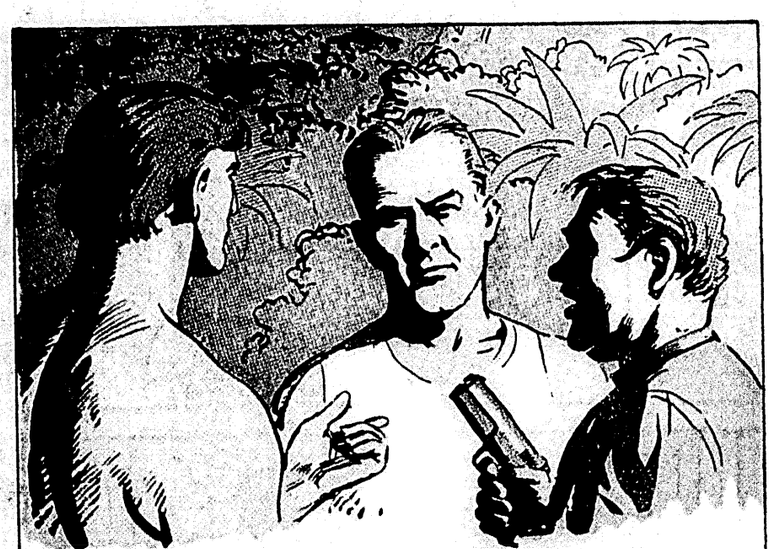


PRESENTLY TARZAN STIRRED. "WHY DID YOU TRY TO KILL ME?" HE DEMANDED. "SOMEONE CALLED FOR HELP; I CAME."



"WHAT ARE YOU DOING HERE?" STORMED THE EVER-SUSPICIOUS FLINT. "YOU MUST BE IN LEAGUE WITH THE THIEVES. I OUGHT TO FINISH YOU NOW!"

THE SHOT WAS PREVENTED BY THE RETURN OF DICK, CRYING OUT: "WAIT! THIS WAS GORREY'S WORK. GLORIA IS GONE!"



TARZAN ROSE. "THIS MAN WOULD HAVE KILLED ME," HE SAID, "BUT IF I CAN HELP YOU, I WILL."

"THANKS," SAID DICK. "GORREY AND HIS MEN HAVE ROBBED US AND KIDNAPED MISS FLINT. YOU KNOW THE JUNGLE. HELP US TRAIL THEM."

MEANWHILE, GORREY'S BAND PUSHED ON THROUGH THE JUNGLE WITH GLORIA AS CAPTIVE.

SOON GORO, THE MOON, BURST OVER THE HILLS AND REVEALED THE TRAVELERS. KON-GAH GROWLED A COMMAND. "KILL!"

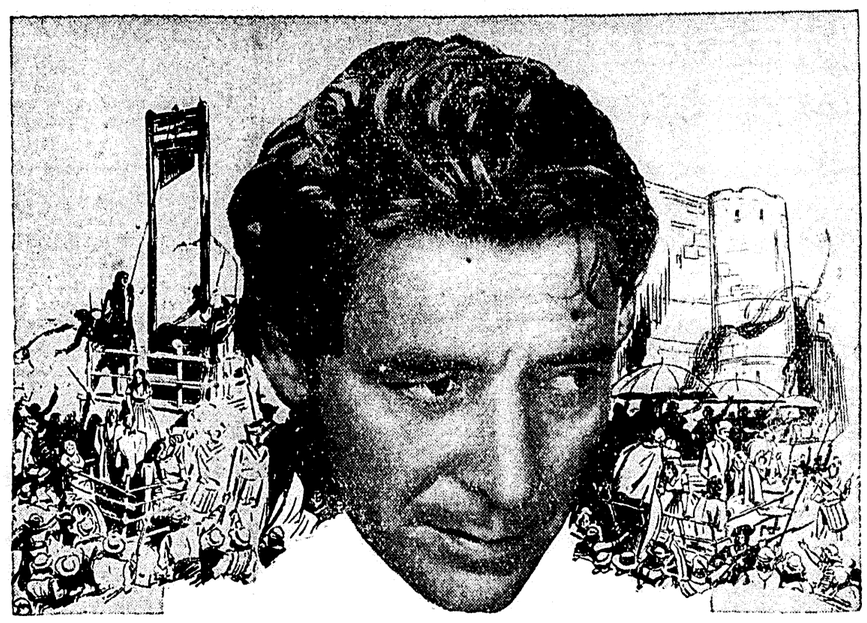
Local Theaters Feature Popular Stars In Cinema Attractions This Week

Ethel Merman, who with Bing Crosby and Charlie Ruggles, are featured in the gay and bright musical comedy, "Anything Goes," the attraction at the Paramount theater for today and Monday. It was adapted from the Broadway stage hit by the same name and Miss Merman takes the same part in the picture that she played in the original stage hit. So far it has proven one of the season's outstanding musical and fun shows.

Recapturing the most exciting event in maritime history, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer brings to the screen it's newest triumph, "Mutiny on the Bounty," with Charles Laughton, Clark Gable and Franchot Tone in adventurous roles that will live in your memory for years to come. This picture playing at the Capitol theater Thursday and Friday is the one that gives roles to the three stars above that may capture for all three the coveted award of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences statuette for the season's outstanding performances.



Ronald Colman, featured in Charles Dickens' greatest love story, "The Tale of Two Cities," which comes to the Paramount theater for three days Friday, Saturday and Sunday. The big cast also includes Elizabeth Allen, Edna May Oliver, Reginald Owen, Basil Rathbone, Blanche Yurka, and Henry B. Walthall. It has proven a screen masterpiece of love, intrigue, and danger in the red days of the French Revolution. A surging screen drama . . . an unforgettable romance . . . which more than justifies the four years of preparation and production.

Tuneful Film Called Bing's Best Picture

Song Hits Feature Musical Romance Playing At Local Theater

YESTERDAY saw the local opening of "Anything Goes," at the Paramount theater. This is the Paramount presentation of the musical comedy which was such a pronounced success on Broadway. It abounds in tuneful songs, comic scenes, and a set of parodies on the "You're the Top" hit which are riotously funny.

Bing Crosby heads the cast of favorites in a role that affords him an unrivalled opportunity to display his versatile talents in song and comedy. He sings and clowns to one's heart's content. Assisting in the general merriment are Ethel Merman, known everywhere as the Broadway rhythm girl, Charlie Ruggles, Grace Bradley, and Ida Lupino.

The original songs of the musical comedy are incorporated in the picture. By now, "You're the Top," "Anything Goes," and "I Get a Kick Out of You" have been sung, hummed, whistled, and generally enjoyed by the millions. In addition to these tuneful successes, the picture is graced with zestful songs and lyrics by Cole Porter and a number of other song writers.

The result is a festive jolly screen offering, which was heartily enjoyed by young and old. The dance numbers in the production are by LeRoy Prinz whose chcreographic novelties on the screen have won wide acclaim; they lend color and spectacle to the fast-moving story. The fine direction is by Lewis Milestone.

"Anything Goes" might best be described as a musical comedy of errors. Because of a lovely girl seemingly in distress, Crosby finds himself on an ocean-going liner. Friendly overtures from a would-be bad man result in his possession of a passport belonging to a public enemy. The singing star dashes madly about the boat, in a variety of disguises, eluding ship officers, romantically making love and taking time out to sing parodies with Ethel Merman, who has an unrequited crush on him.

A whirlwind chase at the dock winds up in a fervid romantic confession while a dazed mob hears Bing's whispered words of affection boom through the air through the agency of a loud speaker.

Writing a new page in the history of all star motion pictures, Hollywood's leading cowboy stars are appearing together for the first time in their action-crammed careers in "Powder Smoke Range" at the Capitol theater today and Monday. Rivals in hard riding, straight shooting action thrills who have been brought together by the unprecedented talent round-up staged by RKO-Radio include Harry Carey, Hoot Gibson, co-starred, Guinn "Big Boy" Williams, Bob Steele, and Tom Tyler, ranking stars in their own right. Boots Mallory has the feminine lead. Other famed western heroes of the cast who star are Wally Wales, Art Mix, Buzz Barton, Buffalo Bill, Jr., Buddy Roosevelt, and the veteran William Desmond. The cast also includes Sam Hardy and William Farnum.

Here we have Eleanor Powell, the world's greatest feminine tap dancer who appears in the spectacular musical extravaganza "Broadway Melody of 1936," coming to the Capitol theater Tuesday and Wednesday. Easily a smash hit wherever it has played, the huge cast includes Jack Benny, the outstanding comedian of the radio, Robert Taylor, hailed as Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's most important "find," and talented June Knight, whose good looks are only equalled for her ability to sing and dance. This quartet heads an imposing group of screen, stage and radio favorites.

MANY VETS APPLY

DELHI, La., Feb. 15.—(Special)—A large number of World war veterans have filed applications for adjusted compensation in this section. According to reports made here, $352,013.78 will be paid to Richland parish veterans, a large number of whom live in the vicinity of Delhi on Macon Ridge. Local authorities have been busy since the opening date, assisting veterans in making their applications.

A private romance and bitter professional rivalry are shown by Barbara Stanwyck and Preston Foster in their roles as the title star and romantic lead in "Annie Oakley," the attraction at the Paramount theater for three days, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Melvyn Douglas, Moroni Olson, Andy Clyde and Pert Kelton are also in the cast. It's the story of Buffalo Bill's showmanship days revolving around the career of the world's foremost rifle shot and his wild west show.

Big Stars Of Westerns In Capitol Film

Cast Of 'Powder Smoke Range' Includes Screen's Best Cowboys

ANSWERING the universal demand for outdoor action drama of the higher type and uniting the greatest cowboy stars of today and yesterday, "Powdersmoke Range" comes to the Capitol screen as the first all-star romance of the pioneer west. Heading the brilliant array of cinema history-making talent in the cast of the new RKO Radio production are Harry Carey, Hoot Gibson, Guinn "Big Boy" Williams, Bob Steele and Tom Tyler. Boots Mallory is featured as the heroine.

Scarcely less familiar to the lovers of virile action entertainment are the names of the supporting players, Sam Hardy, Frank Rice Adrian Morris, Franklin Farnum, Bill Desmond, Wally Wales, Art Mix, Buffalo Bill, Jr., Buzz Barton, Eddie Dunn, Ray Mayer and William Farnum.

A thrilling and authentic tale of the cattle country of the early sixties, when six-shooters blazed and men ruled by the gun, "Powdersmoke Range" is based on the novel of the same name by the noted author of western fiction, William Colt MacDonald. Adele Buffington wrote the screen play. Production supervision of the action special was entrusted to Cliff Reid, the man who has been at the helm of such outstanding hits as "The Lost Patrol," "The Informer" and "The Arizonian." Wallace Fox directed.

The story, highlighted by such action thrills as a stage coach holdup, an epic duel with six-shooters and a blistering range war, concerns the exploits of three roving cowboy pals, Tucson Smith (Harry Carey) Stony Brooke (Hoot Gibson) and Lullaby Joslin ("Big Boy" Williams), in cleaning out a nest of outlaws who operate under the protection of a crooked deputy sheriff, and in furthering a ranch romance between Bob Steele and Boots Mallory.

In their daring feats, Carey, Gibson, Williams, Steele and Tyler ride their own mounts, famous range horses which have appeared in many western films.

Among the many interesting properties used was the famous old stage coach that made the run from Sacramento to Reno for 15 years.

In its theme glorifying the romance, glamour and heroism of the early west, in treatment and in cast values," "Powdersmoke Range" is expected to register as the most popular western drama ever to come out of Hollywood.

After discovering the moons of Jupiter and naming them in honor of his friends, Galileo was offered fame and wealth for life if he would name his next great discovery for Henry IV, king of France.

JACKSON POLICE JURY VIEWS COURTHOUSE PLANS

JONESBORO, Feb. 15.—(Special)—The Jackson parish police jury met February 10 and made an examination of the plans submitted by the combined efforts of two firms of architects, J. W. Smith and Associates, and H. H. Land and company, both of Monroe, for the erection of a courthouse in Jonesboro. The plans as presented by the architects propose a building of the latest design, and will cost about $200,000. Application has been made to both the PWA and the WPA organizations, so that no delay will be met in getting the funds from one or the other source.

Work is still progressing on the courthouse grounds, to clear away the remains of the old building that was blown up on January 17 by an explosion of undetermined cause. The old brick is being salvaged by workmen and sold to citizens of the town and parish for a nominal sum. Proceeds are used to pay for the labor required to move the wreckage.

PASTORS WILL MEET

JENA, Feb. 15.—(Special)—Pastors and workers from all of the churches of the Ouachita Baptist association will meet in Jena on Tuesday, February 18, at 10 a.m., with Dr. A. E. Prince of Pineville, as the guest speaker. Other prominent Baptists are on the program.

Educators Say 'Peace And Security' Of U. S. Rests On League Action

BATON ROUGE, La., Feb. 15.—(AP)—A statement defending economic sanctions and urging congress to "consider further neutrality legislation with the greatest care lest more harm be done than good," was issued here today over the names of 22 southern educators, clergymen, business men and writers.

Declaring that the "peace and security" of the United States rests upon the League of Nations' sanctions, the statement predicted success or failure of use of economic power to defeat "aggression" according to whether the nation's economic power is used "to aid or defeat" the sanctions.

"Congress may easily make the league sanctions inoperative," the statement said, "but it will release thereby forces which will be beyond its power to control by means other than war on a huge scale."

Dean Charles W. Pipkin of the L. S. U. graduate school, made the pronouncement public. His name and the names of the following were attached to it:

WINNFIELD, La., Feb. 15.—(Special)—Climaxing a career of continuous service, which began when he entered the employ of the Tremont and Gulf Railway company as rodman in the engineering party which ran the original lines of the railroad into Winnfield 29 years ago, Colonel A. L. Smith, general manager was elevated to the vice-presidency by action of the board of directors at a meeting held February 12.

Vice-President Smith passed in his employment from rodman in the surveying crew to timekeeper of the extra gangs laying the track, then to the car accounting department of the general offices. Later he became dispatcher, then chief dispatcher in 1917, superintendent in 1924 and general manager in 1930.

Colonel Smith has at all times taken an active interest in the civil affairs of Winnfield and vicinity. He is at present president of the Winn parish school board, and was named by the late Governor O. K. Allen, as colonel on his personal staff.

JONESBORO AND HODGE LIONS CLUB MEET HELD

JONESBORO, La., Feb. 15.—(Special)—On February 13 at noon the Lions club of Jonesboro and Hodge was entertained at a luncheon given by the Methodist Missionary society of Jonesboro.

Mrs. Gladys Bayes was appointed the official sponsor of the club at this luncheon.

Music for the occasion was furnished by Miss Mary Vernon and Mrs. Gladys Bayes, both of Jonesboro. Miss Vernon sang and Mrs. Bayes accompanied at the piano.

A motion was adopted to have picture post cards of Jonesboro and Hodge printed and put on sale so that visitors passing through the town could buy them and send them back home to their people.

Dr. C. S. McDonald spoke on the loyalty of the CCC boys at the time of the explosion to the court house of Jonesboro and Jackson parish.

INSANITY VERDICT SAVES WPA SLAYER FROM DEATH

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Charles Layman, accused of slaying six of his fellow WPA workers, was saved from a possible death penalty today by an insanity verdict returned by a superior court jury.

Layman, who pleaded innocent to murder charges by reason of insanity, accused the victims of tormenting him. He was employed as a water carrier on a WPA project.

HONOR PAID 'LEPER MARTYR'

As the casket of Father Damien, "leper martyr of Molokai," remained in state in San Francisco before being started eastward for enshrinement ceremonies in Belgium, his native land, special honors were paid to the priest's memory, the upper picture showing services being conducted by Archbishop John J. Mitty. The lower picture shows the leper church of Molokai Island, from the yard of which the body was removed after 46 years. Inset is a sketch of the martyr priest.

STREAMS STOCKED WITH YOUNG FISH

James A. Noe Hatchery Plants Nearly Two Million In This Area

Herbert Breard, superintendent of the James A. Noe fish hatchery, located at the confluence of Black Bayou and Bayou DeSiard, east of Monroe, announced Saturday that streams and other fishing places in north Louisiana have been restocked with fish for the coming season. A total of one and one-half to two million fish are said to have been planted, the brood fish having been retained in the local hatchery.

The transfer of the fish started on January 15 and required a month to complete, extra men being engaged for the work and the fish were conveyed to their new locations by trucks.

Weather conditions are said to have been ideal during the cold weather that prevailed. He explained that transfers of fish are made with greater success during extreme cold weather than when the temperature is higher.

Streams were stocked from the fishery with bream, bass, speckled perch, rock bass, and other varieties. While the fish are planted when they are very young and small in size, they grow with great rapidity, Mr. Breard said. For example, he said that bream grow fully five inches a year, bass fully seven inches, and other fish in proportion.

The fish that have now been planted will be ready for fishing in the late summer or early fall.

The season the past few months has been favorable and the stock carried by the hatchery plentiful, Mr. Breard said.

The fish were planted in Crew lake in Richland parish, in Bayou Bartholomew, Bayou DeSiard and Phillips bayou in Ouachita parish. Other places that were supplied were located in Lincoln, Union and Bienville parishes.

There are now five large fish hatcheries in Louisiana. They are the Beechwood hatchery near Alexandria, the Huey P. Long fish hatchery near Lecompte, that at Lake Bruin near St. Joseph, the Lake St. John hatchery, and the James A. Noe hatchery.

The hatchery in this parish, that at Lake Bruin and the Huey P. Long hatcheries are the largest of the number located in the state.

SLAYER OF TWO FRENCH WOMEN IS GUILLOTINED

AVIGNON, France, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Michel Nicolini, who hid for a week in the winding passages and ancient cellars of Avignon while police laid seige to the entire district, died on the guillotine at dawn today for the slaying of two of his underworld women friends.

He shot one of the women as she sat in a crowd at a sidewalk cafe, and returned a fortnight later to kill the second in a street. He walked cheerfully to his own death, smoking a cigarette until he was pushed under the triangular blade.

COLLEGIANS TO GO TO SHREVEPORT MEET

The Northeast Center of Louisiana State university will in all probability send a delegation of Methodist students to attend the annual meeting of the Methodist Student conference, to be held February 21-23. Other colleges and universities of the state will also be represented.

Paul Entrikin of Centenary college, which will be host to the conference, will preside. Other officers are Albert Lutz, Louisiana State university, vice-president; Miss Marion Agate, Southwestern university, treasurer and Miss Pearl Hattie, Centenary, secretary.

The theme of the conference will be "The Christian Student in Action." Forums, interest groups, addresses and discussions will be held, based around the general theme.

Dean R. E. Smith of Centenary will conduct a discussion on "The Bible as a Guide to Student Life." Dr. W. A. Smart of Emory college of Atlanta, Ga., will lead discussion of the "Building of a Christian Philosophy of Life." Other group discussions will be led by A. O. French of L. S. U., "Christian Student and Campus Relations;" The Rev. B. C. Taylor of Homer, "Student Action for Peace;" Harvey Brown of Nashville Methodist church, adult discussion group, on "Christian Leaders and Student Problems."

Conferences are held for the purpose of fellowship and worship and to help students meet personal, social, economic and international problems.

CRUELTY TO ANIMALS IS CHARGED TO RAILROAD

SHREVEPORT, La., Feb. 15.—(AP)—A complaint against the Missouri Pacific Railroad company charging violation of the federal law against cruelty to animals in shipment was filed here today by B. F. Roberts, U. S. attorney.

The complaint alleged the railroad failed to comply with the law in the shipment of a carload of mules and horses from Kansas to Louisiana. It alleged the animals were kept in a car in transit more than 36 hours without being taken out, fed and watered.

FIND THE MISTAKES AND ENTER CONTEST

With the help of your parents, teacher, or some other grownup, find four safety mistakes in this picture and list them on the blank lines.

Listed below, and indicated by numbers which I have written on the pictures, are four mistakes dangerous to human safety that I find illustrated in the above drawing:

NO. 1 .....

NO. 2 .....

NO. 3 .....

NO. 4 .....

(Clip out and save until last picture in the series is published)

Instead of trying to see how close you can come to a pedestrian without actually hitting him . . . why not put yourself in his position and try and see how FAR you can drive without hitting him.

That's the sensible thing to do because after all most of us are pedestrians at one time or other during the day.

Fair play . . . courtesy . . . consideration for the other fellow . . . is essential to SAFETY on our streets and highways.

RULES

1—Find the mistakes in each picture, as they are published in The Sunday News-Star—World.

2—After all of the pictures have appeared and you have found four mistakes in each one of them, write a "Safety Slogan" of not more than 12 words.

3—Send the 26 drawings with the mistakes listed and your "Safety Slogan" to the Safety Contest Editor of The News-Star—World.

TECH ANNOUNCES BUILDING PLANS

Tentative Details Of Two Structures Are Given By President Bond

RUSTON, La., Feb. 15.—(Special)—Tentative details for two separate structures to replace the administration building at Louisiana Tech, destroyed by fire on January 6, have been announced by President G. W. Bond, following receipt of architects' plans.

The specifications, as drawn up by Edward F. Neild, Shreveport architect, and the firm of Weiss, Dreyfous and Seiferth of New Orleans, await the approval of the buildings committee of the state board of education. The committee plans to meet in the near future.

The old main building at Tech included an auditorium, as well as 19 classrooms and various administrative offices. Plans for the replacement call for a separate auditorium, to be built just south of the new administration building. The latter hall will be erected a few feet east of the old building and south of the library building.

Both the new administration hall and the auditorium will face the west, with parking space at the rear of each. Eventually, a driveway will be extended from a railroad overhead bridge through the campus to connect with the Shreveport-Monroe highway.

The style of architecture for both of the new structures will be similar to that of the Tech library building, and both will be built of bricks similar in color to those of the library. Ground dimensions of the administration building will be about 244x84 feet. Present plans include the following floor arrangements:

Ground floor: printing department, college news bureau and publications offices, agriculture department, locker rooms and quarters for the women's physical education department, and the college postoffice, with boxes opening along a hallway.

First floor: administrative offices, offices of the departments of mathematics and languages, and several classrooms.

Third floor: art department, with classrooms and exhibition rooms.

The new auditorium will have a seating capacity of 1,700. The stage dimensions are 59x33 feet. At one side of the auditorium, at the front, will be a lecture and concert hall, of sufficient size to accommodate about 200 persons. The concert hall will have a stage measuring 22 feet by 10 feet, 6 inches. At the other side of the auditorium, at the front, will be classrooms for the music department.

The work of erecting the two buildings will be done simultaneously, it is planned. Since the college is greatly handicapped without the facilities to be provided in the two new buildings, work on the structures will be pushed as rapidly as possible with a view to having them completed by the time the regular semester opens about September 15.

Remains of a fourth huge pyramid have been found buried under the sands of Gizeh, Egypt.

AND STILL HE PULLS A LONG FACE!

Hunter of Wildoaks isn't aware what a lucky dog he is, to be hugged by the beautiful young Mrs. Lauritz Melchior, wife of the Metropolitan opera star, or he'd look happy instead of long-faced like any other wire-haired terrier. Mrs. Melchior was congratulating him on his victory in the open class of his breed at the Westminster Kennel club's annual dog show in New York.

PARISH FARMERS TALK POLICIES

Local Agricultural Situation Discussed By Ouachita Growers

Ouachita parish farmers met Friday in the courthouse here to discuss the general agricultural situation and to determine on the kind of industrial policy best suited for local agriculture.

In the first meeting held in the morning, T. T. Jones presided and a farm forum was held. Members held that there must be an increased production of all things which the public really needs, at prices low enough so that consumers can buy, but yet high enough so that producers can stay on the job, with income so distributed that no one shall be prevented from participating in consumption except those who refuse to work, and the share of the national income received by each occupational group must be commensurate, with due regard for the conservation of resources.

The afternoon meeting, presided over by E. R. Strahan, parish agricultural agent, discussed an adequate farm plan so that farmers may be able to raise sufficient foodstuffs for their own needs as well as for the market.

Mr. Strahan advocated a systematic study of the soils of Ouachita parish to determine the best method of treatment and the best crops to be raised here.

Mrs. Jewell McQuiller, home demonstration agent, also spoke at the afternoon meeting and urged that farmers plant sufficient vegetables to take care of their own needs and to provide themselves with meats, eggs and other household necessities.

About 16 farmers from various sections of the parish attended the two sessions yesterday.

HOME CLUB MEETS

The Logtown Home Demonstration club held a regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Charles Watts. Following a business session, Mrs. Jewel McQuiller, parish home demonstration agent, gave a talk on "The Farm Woman's 1936 Outlook." The next meeting of the club will be held February 26 at the residence of Mrs. H. B. Todd, 310 Egan street, Monroe.

FARMERS PREPARE TO LEAVE MEXICO

Dutch Settlers Object To Socialistic Educational Program

EL PASO, Texas, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Eight thousand Mennonite farmers were ready to desert Mexico today as the government's socialistic education program threatened to disrupt their simple life.

"We object to the teaching of subjects other than reading, writing and arithmetic," said the Rev. Abram Dyck, their leader.

Rather than forsake the traditions of their Dutch ancestors, some families already have abandoned their homes in the colony at San Antonio, Chihuahua, Mexico, he said.

Dyck, Cornelius Schmitt and G. P. Rempel are en route to Canada seeking new sanctuary for their followers who migrated to Mexico in 1922. Unless the educational conflict between the Mennonites and the government is settled, he said, the colonists will leave

Dyck said no religious conflict was involved in the trouble, that the Mennonite church complies with Mexican laws on religion.

WATERPROOF MILL OPENS AFTER LONG SHUT-DOWN

FERRIDAY, La., Feb. 15.—(Special)—The Waterproof mill of the Chicago Lumber & Mill company, which has been idle since 1929, began active operations again on February 1, and at the present time is affording employment to over 100 workmen.

With this plant operating and with the mills of the Fisher Lumber corporation at Ferriday, Wisner and St. Joseph operating full blast and with other plants working regularly, the unemployment situation is being rapidly remedied in this locality.

WPA work and the highway construction projects are affording considerable employment and with clear weather ahead and with the planting season just around the corner, Concordia, Tensas, Catahoula and neighboring parishes are looking forward to a brighter 1936.

PASTORS' AND WORKERS' CONFERENCE TO BE HELD

JONESVILLE, La., Feb. 15.—(Special)—The February meeting of the Ouachita Baptist Pastors' and Workers' conference will be held with the Jena Baptist church February 18. The theme for the day will be Bible study, doctrinal review and inspiration. The conference will assemble at 10 a. m., and continue with an afternoon and evening session. Dr. A. E. Prince of Pineville will be the guest speaker. Following is the complete program for the occasion:

Inspirational—Rev. M. T. Doughty of Tullos. "The Country Church and Its Need"—R. M. Doughty. "The Doctrine of Stewardship"—Rev. L. D. Posey. "The Country Church and Its Challenge"—J. J. Albritton.

Inspirational—Rev. F. M. Campbell, Phillipians—Rev. R. L. Bridges.

More than $5,135,000 has been awarded since inauguration of the Nobel prizes, which are given to leading men and women for services to literature, science, and international peace.

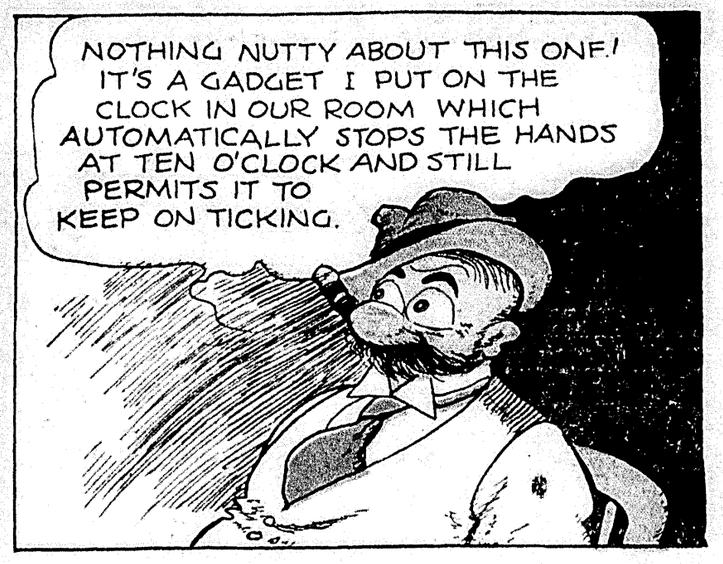
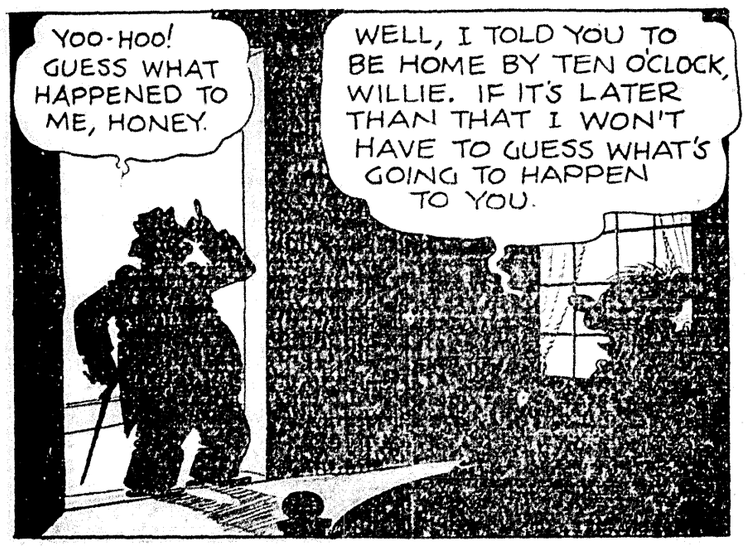
TWO CHIMES! IT'S SORTA LATE FOR YOU TO BE OUT, AIN'T IT, WILLIE?
NOT SINCE I INVENTED MY NEW INVENTION, IT AIN'T.
WHAT- ANOTHER NUTTY INVENTION?

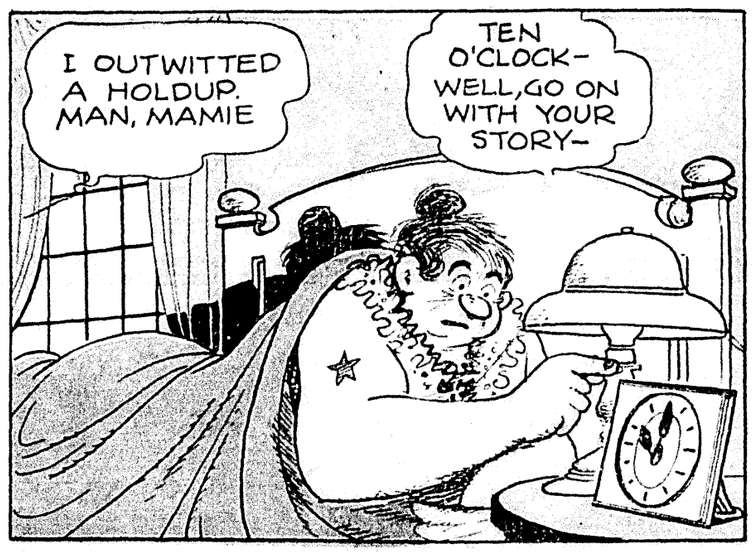


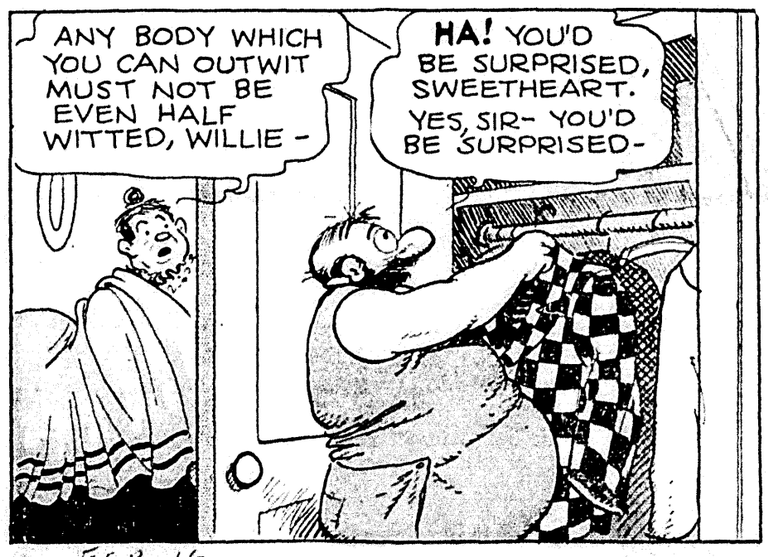
NOTHING NUTTY ABOUT THIS ONE! IT'S A GADGET I PUT ON THE CLOCK IN OUR ROOM WHICH AUTOMATICALLY STOPS THE HANDS AT TEN O'CLOCK AND STILL PERMITS IT TO KEEP ON TICKING.

LET THEM LAUGH- LET THEM SCOFF! IT WOULD BE A GREAT COMFORT TO A LOT OF THOSE LADS TO HAVE THEIR WIVES THINK IT WAS TEN O'CLOCK WHEN THEY START THEIR THIRD DEGREE.



YOO-HOO! GUESS WHAT HAPPENED TO ME, HONEY.
WELL, I TOLD YOU TO BE HOME BY TEN O'CLOCK, WILLIE. IF IT'S LATER THAN THAT I WON'T HAVE TO GUESS WHAT'S GOING TO HAPPEN TO YOU.





ANY BODY WHICH YOU CAN OUTWIT MUST NOT BE EVEN HALF WITTED, WILLIE -
